BARES NLRB AID TO PAY CIO DEBT TO COMMUNISTS

Refuses Settlement in Milling Case.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—Evidence that the National Labor Relations board ordered the prosecution of an unfair labor case because C. I. O. union leaders said they were obligated to communists, was presented today to the house committee investigating the labor board.

Philip G. Phillips. [AP Wire Photo.]

Philip G. Phillips, NLRB regional director at Cincinnati, was on the stand when the committee inquired into the communistic issue, which was presented in a case against the Cincinnati Milling Machine company.

The company was accused of discharging one Mike Mischeff because of union activity, with maintaining a company union, and with other violations of the labor relations act.

Willing to Accept Decree.

The company expressed its willingness to accept a consent decree meeting the other demands of the C. I. O. union, provided the board would drop its demand that Mischeff be reinstated with back pay.

On Dec. 8, 1937, Phillips sent a telegram to George Pratt, chief trial examiner of the NLRB, saying: "Re Cincinnati Milling. Answer of company alleges witness discharged for insubordination, that he forced the discharge to aid his communistic beliefs and to foment discord in plant and that C. I. O. assisted him in this endeavor because it is a communistic organization.

"They say their reason for refusal to rehire is because of witness' communistic beliefs. At no time in preliminary discussions with management was this mentioned and they have written several previous letters to me discussing the case in which communism was not mentioned and in which insubordination was the only issue."

Admits Communist Activity.

Pratt replied that "if company asserts insubordination as reason for discharge the question of why a man is insubordinate is not an issue but communistic beliefs might be an issue on refusal to rehire."

Phillips, however, apparently was not satisfied with Pratt's instructions. On the same day he received Pratt's telegram, Dec. 8, 1937, he sent a telegram to the board in which he stated that the discharged employé admitted being active in the communist party. The telegram to the board follows:

"Re-Cincinnati Milling there is no doubt that discharge was union activities and that company discovered communistic angle later. Have interviewed witness personally and he admits being active in communist party. Company is willing to have consent decree entered withdrawing recognition from company union as bargaining agency, etc. But insists we drop discharge cases in exchange.

Orders Hearing to Continue.

"Local C. I. O. unwilling to do so, claiming obligation to communists such that they must proceed. Please advise, realizing that trial will receive much publicity due to prominence of firm. Will proceed with such evidence as cannot possibly raise issue until I hear from you."

To the foregoing telegram from Phillips the NLRB, in a telegram signed by Nathan Witt, its secretary, replied on Dec. 9: "Re tel Cincinnati Milling board believe you should go forward on the evidence and not agree to settle as long as union wishes to proceed."

The case was prosecuted to a final decision by the board, which held the company guilty as charged and ordered the confessed communist reinstated with back pay. However, when the company appealed the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals and irregularities in the board's procedure were disclosed, the board ordered a rehearing. Finally the company's terms of settlement were accepted and the board withdrew its demand for reinstatement of Mischeff.

LAUNCH GRAND JURY INQUIRY IN C.I.O. SLUGGING

Stove Plant Attack Victim to Testify.

A grand jury investigation last night was ordered into charges of C. I. O. terrorism at the Harvey plant of the American Stove company, 157th street and Commercial avenue. The first witness will be Charles Siebelt, a nonunion employé, who was knocked unconscious by sluggers last Friday after his refusal to join the C. I. O.

Siebelt, a furnace foreman at the plant, was subpenaed to appear before the grand jury this morning. The subpena was given to him by Detectives James McInerney and John Osty of State's Attorney Courtney's office during an interview attended by Police Chief Albert Roll of Harvey and Robert M. Clark, head of the Harvey plant.

Refuses to Name Attackers.

Siebelt told of the slugging, but refused to name his attackers to the police.

"I know them, but I'm afraid to give their names at this time," he said. "I'm not sure that I would feel safe if I did."

Chief Roll said he would guarantee Siebelt's safety in Harvey and the state's attorney's men said they would see to his protection to and from the grand jury rooms.

The grand jury inquiry was ordered by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley. He said that would be the quickest way to get to the bottom of the Siebelt attack, and at the same time to afford Siebelt and any other witnesses the protective secrecy of grand jury procedure.

Plant to Be Guarded.

Chief Roll arranged for special police details at the stove plant after he had received reports that more sluggings of nonunion employés had been threatened.

"We'll have a squad or two of county highway police on the plant grounds every day during the hours when the three shifts of men come to work," said the chief. "That's the time they've been having their troubles."

The plant employs 600 men, of whom some 150 have refused to join the Steel Workers Organizing committee, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, headed by John L. Lewis. Siebelt is a leader of the nonunion workers.

First Trouble Since 1897.

Clark, the stove company head, said the recent labor troubles are the first at the plant since 1897.

"We signed a contract with the C. I. O. union in April, 1938," he said. "The contract provided that the S. W. O. C. was to be the bargaining agent for union members, but provided specifically that the union must not intimidate nonunion workers.

"The contract runs indefinitely, but can be terminated by either party on a notice of 10 days. The slugging of Siebelt took place on company property and inside the fence around our plant."

According to Chief Roll the C. I. O. union is trying to get a 100 per cent membership and is planning to demand a closed shop.

Union workers at the plant yesterday agreed with their president, Bert Krogh, that the Siebelt attack was an "outside affair" not connected with the union.

29 SLAYINGS UNSOLVED

Police yesterday admitted that 29 of the 31 labor terrorism murders of the last nine years in Chicago and the suburban area are still listed on their records as unsolved mysteries.

And a survey of nonfatal shootings, sluggings, and vandalism disclosed that the police have had slight success in clearing up the lesser crimes of the same period.

Record of Last Nine Years.

The record of unpunished labor murders has brought from experts in criminology the opinion that the labor killing is the hardest form of murder to clear up. The record of the slain for the last nine years:

Frank Carr, financial secretary of the Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers' union, shot and killed in front of the union headquarters at 12 West Garfield boulevard Feb. 24, 1931.

William J. Rooney, killed by gunmen in front of his home at 1517 North Austin boulevard March 19, 1931. He was boss of the Sheet Metal Workers' union. Police blamed the killing on his efforts to gain more union power.

Jacob Kaufman, shot to death in a garage at 9525 Princeton avenue June

Father Divine Takes Pennies to His Heaven

New York, Dec. 18 [Special].—Father Divine, Negro evangelist whose followers call him God, was not above taking two pennies for his heavenly treasury. The 2 cent incident was brought out in testimony today before Supreme Court Justice Benedict Dineen as the delayed equity suit of an estranged "angel" got under way today. The "angel," Mrs. Verinda Brown, testified that she and her husband, Thomas, gave everything they had to the Harlem Messiah—savings, furniture, and five $20 gold pieces received as a present.

Demand, But Get Nothing.

The Browns seek $6,500 they say Father Divine accepted for his heaven treasury on his own terms that it be returned on demand at any time. The Browns say they have demanded, but have received nothing. Their suit, if successful, might throw all of Father Divine's considerable holdings into receivership.

The 2 cent transaction came when Mrs. Brown drew $62.02 in savings from a bank to give the cult leader. Days later, she testified, she felt sinful on recalling she had turned over just $62. She asked the messiah to accept the 2 cents. To her relief, she said, he blessed her and did not scold when he accepted.

Fails to Settle Suit.

Mrs. Brown also testified she turned over $1,115.06 that she and her husband withdrew from the Railroad Coöperative Building and Loan association in Forest Hills. They were taken to the association office on one occasion in one of Father Divine's big limousines, with a chauffeur he provided.

The trial was delayed last week when Col. Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, Negro aviator, sought to settle the suit but withdrew when others also asked settlements of their claims against Father Divine.

Union, N. J., Dec. 18 (AP).—John Degnan of Westfield is convinced the horseshoe brings good luck. Degnan's automobile ripped thru 30 feet of fence on route 29 today and dropped over a 20 foot embankment, landing upsidedown. Degnan was unhurt. Underneath his wrecked car he found a horseshoe.

BOMBER FACES CRASH; 1 OF 3 WHO LEAP DIES; PLANE LANDED SAFELY

Hill City, Kas., Dec. 18 (AP).—Believing a member of his crew still aboard after he ordered all to abandon ship, Lieut. Harold Neely, pilot of an army bomber, brought the plane to a safe landing late today. One soldier was killed in parachuting.

Unknown to the officer, all three others in the twin motored B-10 ship had jumped. Private Kenneth C. Seamans of Scranton, Pa., was killed when his parachute failed to open. Lieut. J. O. Neal, Nashville, Tenn., and Private Henry F. Zielinski, Georgetown, Ill., landed without serious injuries.

Lieut. Neely, also of Nashville, said the plane was flying at about 9,000 feet when the engines died. After ordering the men to jump, he said, he saw only two parachutes floating below him and believed the third man was still aboard. He then decided to attempt to bring the plane down. Bent propellers were the only damage to the ship, which landed at an estimated speed of 70 miles an hour and skedded for 100 yards.

MEXICANS BLOCK REVOLT AGAINST LUNCH SIESTAS

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Dec. 18 (AP).—Government employés today rallied to nip an "insurrection" against—of all things—Mexico's traditional three hour siesta for lunch. A committee of the Federation of Unions of Government Workers adopted a resolution to "exhaust every legal recourse" to compel all government offices to observe the midday interlude. Public health employés recently have gone to court in an effort to enforce working hours from 8 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. instead of the customary 9-1 and 4-6:30 hours.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—One million Christmas trees have arrived in Berlin and sales are already lively. Consequently fears of Germans that this would be a treeless Christmas were relieved—but whether everybody will have enough candles to light up their trees is another question.

In Germany electric Christmas tree lighting is not rated as ideal since the effect lacks the required romantic charm one associates with the "Weihnachtmann" [Santa Claus]. Women who shopped for candles today had to produce their soap cards in stores and the number of candles they bought was inscribed on the cards.

Shopping Hampered.

War has affected deeply traditional Christmas preparations. A person cannot simply study advertisments in the newspapers when preparing for a family party and the purchase of presents. The person first must remember various rules and regulations about the distribution of goods of all kinds. One must study and remember what can be bought without special official permits.

In the old days Berlin enjoyed the glitter of lights and the noise of the Christmas fair on the square alongside the old imperial castle.

Now all German cities are blacked out and lights are banned. Candy is rationed. The necktie booths, which once did a thriving business, the hot dog and the wafer stands insist on the presentation of food or clothes cards.

To make up for the loss of the traditional fair, Berlin authorities have organized a number of small Christmas fairs which, however, close daily before sundown so that people can get home before dark.

Wear Phosphorescent Tags.

Toys, Christmas tree decorations, and lace doilies are in much evidence at the fairs. Novelties this year are phosphorescent flowers, animals, initials, and tags of all descriptions. They can be attached to buttonholes to protect the wearers from collisions as they go thru the darkened streets.

On the Christmas market next to the Berlin city hall it is possible to buy hot pancakes, fried in deep fat and the special luxury of deep fat frying is being heavily advertised. Other stands sell potato pancakes—also fried crisp in fat.

Big Red Army Moves Against Hill Positions

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROVANIEMI, Capital of Finnish Lapland, On the Arctic Circle, Dec. 18.—A fierce battle raged thru today before the passes of the Kaskamo mountains in frigid northern Finland.

The Finns began a retreat from the Petsamo-Salmijarvi front Saturday night before superior motorized Russian forces. They left a trail of burned and blasted buildings in their wake. Last night they took up new and favorable, well fortified positions in the mountains.

Pursuing Russians, with armored cars in long lines, rolled southward along the Arctic road which skirts the Norwegian frontier from Salmijarvi toward Ivalo.

[A Moscow communique reported the capture of Pitkajarvi, which is 52 miles inland from the Arctic.]

Attack with Large Forces.

Today the Russians attacked the Finns' positions with an enormous number of troops and tanks, assisted by a fleet of big bombing planes. At noon the continuous thunder of exploding bombs, shells, and machine gun fire rolled from the battlefield.

The Finnish troops were far outnumbered by the Russians, it was reported, but were making the Russian advance extremely costly.

A Norwegian report said that small patrols of Finnish soldiers using light machine guns and light field guns had killed 700 Russians in an exposed highway position.

Another report said that 300 Russians were annihilated after they were lured into a Finnish mine trap.

The Finns had divided their forces into small groups which were penetrating behind the Russian lines, damaging their communications and supplies.

Make Raids on Railway.

These small groups were said to have penetrated 40 to 50 miles into Russian territory, repeatedly interrupting communications on the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad, often causing damage which would take weeks to repair.

The Russians were reported moving large reënforcements by ships from Murmansk to their Petsamo base. The Reds are said to have landed two divisions of crack troops equipped with good war material.

Southeast of here, near Suomussalmi, one of the most important battles of the war thus far has been won by the Finns who put a Russian division to flight. A soviet offensive there began on Dec. 13. By yesterday the Finns had forced the Russians to attempt to retreat across a frozen lake which previously had been mined. Dynamite charges were exploded under Russian tanks which went thru the ice and to the bottom.

Bomb Coastal City.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 18 (AP).—In the first real air activity since early this month Russian planes today bombed two suburbs of Viipuri [Viborg] and air raid warnings were sounded in towns all along the Finnish gulf.

One plane was shot down outside of Viipuri, but the extent of damage—if any—near that Finnish city on the Karelian isthmus and Gulf of Finland was not disclosed.

A squadron of 20 soviet planes, mostly bombers, flew over the Viipuri suburbs most of the day, apparently on reconnoitering [scouting] flights.

There were three air raid warnings

FINNS ARRANGE TO BUY 40 SPEEDY FIGHTING AIRPLANES IN AMERICA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 [Special].—Beleaguered Finland, fighting against soviet Russia, has arranged to obtain about forty of the latest type and speediest of American fighting planes with which to meet the attacks of soviet bombers.

Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, tonight confirmed reports that the navy is in no hurry to obtain the first of the new type Brewster fighting planes which it has ordered, and that the Brewster Aeronautical company, whose plant already is turning out the new planes, is selling them to Finland.

While details regarding the planes have been withheld, the Brewsters are understood to be the fastest and most effective yet developed for use by the American navy.

Coincidentally, it was reported that Finland also is buying ammunition and machine guns in this country. Finland is said to have in America cash balances totaling $4,000,000, which can be used for purchase of military supplies.

34 PLANES SHOT DOWN IN BATTLE, GERMANS CLAIM

British Bomb Fleet Reported Beaten.

Intense activity by the British and Germans in the air and on the sea yesterday brought the usual conflicting reports as to losses and what actually happened. As against German claims that 34 of 52 attacking British bombing planes were shot down in a battle over the North sea the London air ministry reported that 12 German planes were destroyed. It said seven British planes were unaccounted for. In addition, Britain reported the sinking of a 6,000 ton German cruiser by a torpedo, a claim which Germany denied.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Dec. 19, Tuesday (AP).—The German high command today raised to 52 the number of British planes that participated in an attempted attack on Wilhelmshaven in which it said 34 were shot down.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Map on back page.)

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Fast German pursuit planes were reported to have shot down 34 of 44 British bombers over the North sea this afternoon in what was described as the biggest aerial battle of the war. The Germans declared they lost two planes.

The Germans also announced that long range reconnaissance planes had destroyed four British steamers and damaged three British warships in bomb and machine gun attacks on convoys yesterday.

The attacking British bombers, Germans said, were spotted by Messerschmitt planes north of the naval base of Heligoland as they headed for the German coast.

Rise to Meet Attackers.

The Germans said the 44 British planes—the greatest number of British aircraft to attack the German coast so far—were scattered by the pursuit ships which rose to meet them.

It was said the German planes belonged to squadrons commanded by Capt. Schumacher. The Germans reported it was this crack unit of Adolf Hitler's air force which shot down 10 out of 20 British planes off the North sea coast on Dec. 14.

After the bombers were dispersed a series of fierce individual aerial combats ensued, the Germans said. The huge battle, extending over 20 miles of sea between the German coast and Heligoland, took place within 20 miles of the mouth of the Elbe river where the British announced one of their submarines sank a 6,000 ton German cruiser last Thursday. German official sources denied the British report.

The Germans admitted that the crews of two of their planes were forced to bail out in parachutes. They said the flyers landed safely. The crews of two British planes, it was announced, were taken prisoners while wreckage of the other British planes was reported washed ashore.

Repel Raid on Wilhelmshaven.

The British planes, authorities said, broke thru the line of the pursuit planes and antiaircraft barrages. They succeeded in "throwing a few bombs" over Wilhelmshaven, another German naval base.

The Germans declared that because of strong antiaircraft fire the aim of the British was bad and consequently the bombs did no damage.

In announcing that German scouting planes had attacked British steamers, Berlin authorities said pilots were busy over the British islands "from Portsmouth in the south to the Shetland Islands in the north."

Attack Patrol Vessels.

"After the planes fulfilled their scouting tasks in an exemplary fashion they attacked British patrol vessels, motor torpedo boats, and other smaller craft in addition to scattering convoys," said the German account.

The sinking of the British patrol ship Pearl and the motor torpedo boat Serenity and two others was announced.

[Lloyd's shipping register lists a 673 ton British merchant ship named Pearl. The British said that the "198 ton trawler Pearl was abandoned in a sinking condition."] The British listed the Serenity as a 487 ton steamer.]

DNB, official German news agency, said damage to three convoying war-

SKIPPER TELLS GRAF SPEE TRICKS IN SEA RAIDING

Ship Often Camouflaged; Crew's Status in Doubt.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 18 (AP).—Capt. Hans Langsdorff today said the raider Admiral Graf Spee, while preying on the empires; merchant shipping, once disguised herself as the British battle cruiser Renown.

On this occasion, the German commander said, the pocket battleship added an artificial stack and changed her superstructure to resemble the 32,000 ton British warship.

"Maybe the joke was on us—perhaps we fooled nobody," said the good natured captain who yesterday blew up and sank the Graf Spee outside the harbor at Montevideo, Uruguay, rather than have her interned or shot to pieces by British cruisers.

Status of Crew in Doubt.

After he told of the Graf Spee's exploits, Capt. Langsdorff spent the night with 1,038 other members of the crew with whom he came here today in a barge and two tugs. Quartered at the Argentine naval arsenal, they were still uncertain whether they would be interned or not.

The Argentine foreign office designated its international law consultant, Isidoro Ruiz Moreno, to draw up an opinion on the legal angles of the crew's visit. Moreno declared the case was without precedent.

The German tanker Tacoma, which supplied fuel to the Graf Spee and stood by to pick up officers and crew when the battleship was sunk outside the harbor, faced the possibility of internment by Uruguayan authorities in Montevideo. Her commander was under technical arrest for violation of port regulations because he permitted naval seamen of a belligerent nation to work upon her.

Ship Often Camouflaged.

The Graf Spee roved both the North and South Atlantic, and even made a foray into the Indian ocean in search of enemy merchant vessels, Capt. Langsdorff said in his story of its exploits.

"Of course in these wanderings we were disguised a bit."

He explained that camouflage frequently was used to make the pocket battleship's enemies mistake her for one of her sister ships, the Deutschland or the Admiral Scheer.

Confusion over the Graf Spee's identity had caused her to be mistaken for the Admiral Scheer when she appeared in Montevideo harbor.

"One time we changed our name and actually passed for the Admiral Scheer," the captain said.

Regarding the destruction of the Graf Spee, Capt. Langsdorff said, "That was the only thing to do."

Fuel Still Aboard.

When the Graf Spee steamed into Montevideo harbor last Wednesday night after a 14 hour running fight with three British cruisers, it did not lack fuel, the captain said, adding that he had enough to reach the coast of Spain. He declined, however, to give the tonnage of the fuel and declared none was taken aboard at Montevideo.

Authorities at Montevideo last Saturday were quoted as saying Capt. Langsdorff had indicated a shortage of fuel was responsible in part for his decision to take refuge in the harbor.

Capt. Langsdorff said he had chosen to land the able bodied members of his crew in Argentina, rather than Uruguay because:

"I still object to the Uruguayan government's limitation to our stay in Montevideo harbor to 72 hours for a repair task which required at least 15 days."

Regarding the finish of the Graf Spee, the captain said he decided to sink her in 25 feet of water. Her draft then was 21 feet, more than normal.

He declared smilingly that he did not believe the British took seriously the report he was planning to explode and sink the raider.

Enemy Ships Outwitted.

"Perhaps that was why the enemy cruisers [lying in wait off Montevideo] were so distant when I lifted anchor," he added. "Apparently they did not believe I would take the final decision in water barely covering my vessel. But I took a decision which really was forced upon me. Nothing remains of the ship that could possibly be useful to any one else.

"I could have scuttled the ship but what I did was to cause all explosives aboard to be set off in such a way that the ship split in two. Moreover, the fuel was set afire to destroy all that remained after the blast."

Ship Still Gushes Fire.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 18 (AP).—The twisted wreckage of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee lay half submerged in 25 feet of water outside Montevideo harbor tonight. Twenty-four hours after it was sunk the ship continued to gush smoke and flames.

Inspection showed the 10,000 ton vessel is little more than a steel shell, its insides apparently blasted by explosives and fire. The exterior abaft [at the rear of] the control tower is torn and twisted by the explosions.

Almost directly in the route up the river toward Buenos Aires, the Graf Spee lies listed heavily to the right, with her nose pointed seaward.

Flames Like a Furnace.

As an inspection party circled the hulk, heavy smoke from fuel oil burning inside swept upward over the after parts. Thru the forward portholes and bursting out from the deck near the control tower were bright flames that looked like blasts in an oil furnace.

Naval men said the fire consuming the raider's oil might burn for 48 hours. When it dies Uruguay and Argentina will decide what to do about removing the hulk from the path of navigation.

Uruguay Denies Blame.

The Uruguayan ministry of foreign affairs tonight said there was no justification in law or international custom for the blowing up of the Graf Spee by its crew.

The Uruguayan foreign ministry, commenting on the German protest that Uruguay was responsible for forcing the ship to depart before she could be made seaworthy, said the 72 hour time limit for the Graf Spee's stay was fixed on recommendation of a technical commission after inspection of the vessel. The ministry said Uruguay acted in conformity with The Hague convention, and if the Spee had remained in port longer the legal solution would have been internment.

'SUICIDE' OF SPEE PLEASES BRITAIN, CHURCHILL SAYS

Recalls How German Ship Preyed on Trade.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Winston Churchill, Britain's first lord of the admiralty, today saluted the destruction of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee as a cause of "thankfulness in our islands."

He declared the Graf Spee had been "for many weeks preying on the trade of the South Atlantic," adding that "the peaceful shipping of all nations may now enjoy the freedom of the sea."

He recalled how the German vessel had been driven crippled into Montevideo harbor by British guns. He said that once in that shelter she had the choice either to stay and be interned or come out and fight in a course "which would have been honorable to her."

Denounces Ship's Scuttling.

But, he added, "she discovered a third alternative"—to destroy herself.

Denouncing the Graf Spee's adoption of the "third alternative," Churchill said that she had chosen to "sink herself in the fairway of a neutral state from whom she had received such shelter and succor as international law prescribes."

At the time of the Graf Spree's scuttling, he continued, her commander "knew that the British heavy ships, Renown and Ark Royal, were still a thousand miles away oiling at Rio [de Janeiro]."

"All that awaited her outside the harbor were the two 6 inch gun cruisers, the Ajax and Achilles, who chased her in, and the eight inch gun cruiser Cumberland which had arrived to take the place of the damaged [cruiser] Exeter," he said. "Our own losses have not been slight and there is no harm now in stating that the Ajax in which was Commodore Harwood, now by his majesty's pleasure Rear Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, K.C.B.; had two out of her four turrets knocked out while the Exeter bore up against 40 to 50 hits, many of them from shells three times the weight of those she could fire back; that three of her eight inch guns were smashed and that she sustained nearly a hundred casualties, by far the greater part killed.

Tells of Exploits at Home.

"Nevertheless, the Exeter remained outside the harbor of Montevideo ready altho crippled to take part in a fresh action and she only departed to care for her wounded and her injuries when she was relieved by the timely arrival of the Cumberland."

The first lord of the admiralty said that "at home in the North sea, our British submarines have had the best week I can remember in this or the last war."

Declaring that "a considerable proportion of the total German cruiser strength has been sunk or put out of action in a single week," Churchill said the Germans in their wrath had been "trying to bomb individual unarmed merchant ships. . . . They have even in some cases machine-gunned the sailors on decks.

"These outrages are the tactics of a guilty régime which feels the long arm of sea power laid upon its shoulder."

Churchill twitted the German fleet asserting "German warships hardly ever venture out of port and then only for furtive dashes." He asserted the Germans now were concentrating on attempting to sink fishing boats.

The first lord of the admiralty declared a Canadian transport carrying the first Canadian expeditionary force had arrived safely in an undesignated British port.

SECOND HUSBAND SUES MRS. WEEKS FOR A DIVORCE

Mrs. Nancy Traylor Weeks, daughter of the late Melvin A. Traylor, was sued for divorce yesterday by her second husband, Marcy T. Weeks of 542 Rush street.

Weeks' bill, drawn by Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., charged that Mrs. Weeks ordered him out of their home last December and refused when he wrote to ask if he might return. Mrs. Weeks is living at her mother's home, 426 Barry avenue.

Mrs. Traylor made her social debut in 1932. On Nov. 29, 1934, she was married to Nathan Butler Swift, son of Alden B. Swift. She divorced him on June 17, 1936. On March 1, 1937, she was married to Weeks.

FLAWS OF SPEE'S DESIGN PROVED, AMERICANS HOLD

Germans Criticized for Not Making Last Stand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—The sea battle off Montevideo last Wednesday demonstrated the shortcomings of Germany's so-called pocket battleships, in the opinion of American naval authorities. They attribute the failure of the Admiral Graf Spee to sink one or more of the British cruisers, however, to deficiencies in seamanship, marksmanship, and fighting determination.

The unofficial naval criticism of the battle is that Capt. Hans Langsdorf of the Graf Spee should not have fled from the two small British cruisers, Achilles and Ajax, after the larger British cruiser Exeter had been put out of action. As to the wisdom of scuttling the German ship after refueling at Montevideo, rather than risking an attempt to escape through the British and French warships lurking outside Uruguayan territorial waters, the only comment of authorities here is that such action is not in accord with the American naval tradition.

Favor Taking the Chance.

As long as there was any possibility of escape with the aid of darkness, or any possibility of inflicting further damage upon the enemy at whatever cost, the chance should have been taken, according to the unofficial naval critics. Even tho an attempt to escape would have meant almost certain destruction of the German ship and her crew a single broadside from her six 11 inch guns might have sunk one of the British cruisers, in the opinion of naval authorities.

The decision to scuttle the Graf Spee was said to have been Adolf Hitler's, but the mistake of Capt. Langsdorf was in running away from the battle last Wednesday the experts assert. They still are puzzled by the failure of the German ship to sink one or more of the three faster but more lightly armored and armed British adversaries.

They believe the failure resulted in part from the anomalous design of the 10,000 ton Graf Spee, the guns of which were too heavy for its size and the armor too light. Its disposition of armament, three 11 inch guns in each of two turrets, proved unsatisfactory in a battle with three enemy ships, according to the experts. It could fire in two directions, but not in three.

Guns Are in Three Turrets.

The British cruiser Exeter, on the other hand, had six 8-inch guns in three turrets, and the Ajax and Achilles each had eight 6-inch guns in four turrets. Most American cruisers have four turrets.

Despite its deficiencies, however, naval authorities were amazed by the failure of the German ship to give a better account of itself. Had the German marksmanship been what it should have been, the Exeter would have been sunk before the two lighter cruisers closed in, they assert, and cite Capt. Langsdorf's own official statement that he put the Exeter out of action before the Ajax and Achilles came within effective range of their 6 inch guns.

Broadside Was 4,020 Pounds.

The Graf Spee's 11 inch guns fired projectiles weighing 670 pounds each, making a total weight of 4,020 pounds for a single broadside, more than the combined firing weight of all three British cruisers. The Exeter fired 256 pound projectiles from its six 8 inch guns, making a total of 1,536 pounds, and the 16 6 inch guns of the smaller cruisers fired 100 pound projectiles. Thus the total for the three ships was only 3,136.

With the Exeter out of action, the Graf Spee could fire a heavier salvo from each turret—2,010 pounds—than the combined weight—1,600 pounds—of broadsides from both the light British cruisers. The British ships, however, had the advantage of a greater firing rate.

With one turret of three 11 inch guns for each of the two British light cruisers after the Exeter had been put out of action, the Graf Spee should have remained in the battle until it disposed of them, even tho short of fuel and unable to put out to the open sea, the experts hold.

Naval authorities say the British made excellent use of smoke screens in dogging the fleeing Graf Spee. This opinion was supported by Capt. Langsdorf, who said his every attempt at maneuver was frustrated.

"The Ajax and the Achilles, both risking more than seemed credible, even in the high moments of a battle, crossed thru a smoke screen that one of them had laid, and got within a mile of the Admiral Graf Spee, scoring some effective hits on both sides of our ship," the German commander declared.

The opinion of the naval authorities here is that Capt. Langsdorf should have taken as many risks as he said the British cruisers took during the battle.

Personality Girl

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Nancy Bridges wears her crown and holds her scepter as "America's Personality Girl for 1940."

New York, Dec. 18 [Special.]—This was another big day in the life of Miss Nancy Bridges, formerly of Lebanon, Pa., who at various times has been crowned one thing or another. Today she was crowned America's personality girl of 1940 by John Robert Powers.

Miss Bridges is 18 years old, has titian hair and hazel eyes, is 5 feet 7 inches tall, has a 25½ inch waist, a 34 inch bust and 35½ inch hips. She has been in New York for only a year and a half, but already she is being crowned something or other, like spirit of youth by a convention of international beauty shop owners.

At today's coronation, she was presented with a $500 Christmas wardrobe. She wore the outstanding feature of it, a new Queen Elizabeth creation of black velvet with matching bustle and basque blouse of gold plaid taffeta.

Besides all this, Miss Bridges is a cousin of Tommy Bridges of the Detroit Tigers.

TROUBLESHOOTER IN NO MAN'S LAND —HE'S THE SCOUT

German Rips Mystery from Perilous Job.

BY JOHN McCUTCHEON RALEIGH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—"Reconnoitering activity," a phrase that appears daily in official war communiques, was clarified somewhat here today by a German officer. He explained what the phrase means and the part that such activity has in the warfare on Germany's western front.

"It is necessary to maintain continuous scouting parties to keep in touch with enemy troop movements," he said, "and to establish whether new units have entered the line, which might indicate reinforcements and an eventual strong attack."

Raids Have Several Purposes.

This is not the only purpose of such raids, he explained, adding:

"There are many reasons for forays in strength—to detonate enemy mine fields, capture prisoners to get information for headquarters, and to establish advance observation posts, where results of artillery fire can be seen more easily."

Asked to describe the equipment of the soldiers in such raiding parties, the officer explained that it varies according to circumstances.

On ordinary raids, he said, the men carry wire cutters, heavy leather gloves, hand grenades of the potato masher type, light machine guns, extra boxes of ammunitions, tools for digging in, and rations to meet their needs if they should be cut off temporarily from their lines.

Blasts Set Off Foes' Mines.

When groups set out to explode enemy mine fields in villages or on rough terrain they carry batteries and coils of wire. After being hooked to an explosive charge, the long wires enable the detonator to get out of range of the blast. This method is used in the hope that such explosions will set off hidden enemy mines.

Many of these mining parties have been operating in the no-man's-land between the French and German fortifications. This type of warfare, the officer said, is popular in both the French and German armies.

Mud Aids Camouflage.

The officer explained that the men usually remove all insignia from their uniforms to avoid identification of their units if they are captured, and daub mud or clay on their helmets to prevent the reflection of the sun from betraying their positions. Many of the troops, especially trained for scouting purposes, fasten to their uniforms and headgear branches and leaves that blend with the landscape.

Artillery Action Livelier.

Artillery action of both French and Germans between the Moselle river and the Palatinate forest on the western front was reported livelier in a communique issued today by the German high command.

The communique, which covered yesterday's operations, added that the air force carried out reconnaissance flights over eastern France.

Scouts Fight in Vosges.

PARIS, Dec. 18 (AP).—A French high command communique tonight reported that "toward midday a sharp engagement took place in the Vosges mountains between one of our reconnoitering parties and German units. We took some prisoners, including two officers."

This morning's communique reported "a quiet night. Some artillery fire."

BURGLARS TAKE ELECTRIC DRILL.

Burglars yesterday broke into the plant of the Zeolite Engineering company, 4642 Ravenswood avenue, and stole a heavy electrict drill which police surmised they might use to open safes.

PRESIDENT CALLS CABINET TO HEAR ABOUT SPEE CASE

Hyde Park, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP).—President Roosevelt tonight scheduled a special cabinet meeting to be held tomorrow in Washington. At the meeting he is expected to obtain the views of his subordinates regarding the scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee off Montevideo and the battle last Wednesday between the German pocket battleship and British cruisers. The engagement took place within the security zone outlined by American republics, and presumably could draw a protest from this government. The President departed by train for Washington tonight.

Hull Foresees Action.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today that American nations would take collective action within a few days as a result of the Graf Spee affair. He did not disclose the nature of the action, however.

Uruguay has suggested diplomatic representations to Great Britain and Germany, and other suggestions included a proposal that belligerent warships entering American ports be interned automatically. Conversations now are proceeding among the governments to reconcile varying views which have been presented, Hull said, and a decision should be reached this week.

ENGLAND CLAIMS NAVAL VICTORIES IN THE NORTH SEA

Reports Sinking of 6,000 Ton German Cruiser.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Great Britain tonight claimed North sea naval victories over Germany, with a British submarine sinking a 6,000 ton German cruiser. She also reported an air battle over Heligoland—"the biggest air engagement of the war."

A British public, long impatient for reports of action, was given lengthy details indicating that German-British warfare has developed speedily on the North sea, both on the surface and in the air.

In addition to sinking the one German cruiser, the British reported they had struck another 6,000 ton cruiser and also a heavy cruiser with submarine torpedoes.

Claim 12 Planes Shot Down.

The air ministry announced that 12 German Messerschmitt fighting planes were shot down and seven British bombers unaccounted for in fierce fighting over the Heligoland bight area, in the North sea, about 20 miles off Germany's northwest coast.

One British air authority described the battle as "the biggest air engagement of the war."

Along with this air and naval fighting, the British reported suffering fishing and merchant losses in the North sea under attack by German bombers. They listed two fishing trawlers and a small coasting steamer as sunk and another trawler abandoned in a sinking condition. In addition, another small steamer and two naval trawlers were listed as long overdue and believed lost.

Story of Attacks.

The British story of the submarine attacks upon the German naval vessels is best told chronologically:

Last Tuesday the 670 ton British submarine Salmon, under Lieutenant Commander E. O. B. Bickford, sank a German submarine and then sighted the $20,000,000 German liner Bremen on her way down from her arctic refuge port of Murmansk, Russia.

The Salmon signaled to the Bremen to stop and was preparing to fire a warning shot when German aircraft forced her to submerge.

On Wednesday the Salmon fired six torpedoes at six steaming German warships, hitting the 6,000 ton cruiser Leipzig with one and another heavy cruiser with two. The submarine operated amid a fleet of German vessels, including Germany's two largest, the 26,000 ton battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. Only bad visibility prevented "annihilation of the German fleet," the admiralty observed.

Claims Cruiser Sunk.

On Thursday the 540 ton British submarine Ursula penetrated heavily mined areas to sink a 6,000 ton cruiser of the Koeln [Cologne] class at the mouth of the Elbe river, a strongly fortified area between Cuxhaven and Brunsbuettel. The cruiser was not otherwise identified.

It had been announced previously that an unnamed British submarine had sunk a German U-boat and sighted the Bremen last week. The rest of the saga was first reported by the admiral in communiques today and tonight.

An admiralty communique tonight repeated the theme that the Salmon refrained from torpedoing the Bremen out of regard for international law. The communique made much of the contention that before sighting the Bremen the Salmon sank a German U-boat which was steaming on the surface "with all the self-assurance of a newly painted vessel outward bound in search of iron crosses."

The admiralty account added that "It seems certain that at least one heavy cruiser in addition to the Leipzig was badly damaged and at least one of the ships might well have failed to reach port."

The German warships sighted, in addition to the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau, were said to have been one of the 10,000 ton pocket battleships, which would have had to have been either the Deutschland or the Admiral Scheer, and the 10,000 ton cruisers Hipper, Blucher, and Leipzig.

"It would have been an easy matter," observed the admiralty, "for the Salmon to have fired all her torpedoes at one cruiser and thus made certain of sinking one ship, but she fired them at different angles, hoping thereby to disable more than one ship."

Steers Zigzag Course.

The Salmon reported she could not wait to determine the exact result of her attack, since the enemy was after her. She had to dive and steer a zigzag course at top speed at a considerable depth.

Altho the Salmon was hunted and attacked with depth charges for more than two hours, she escaped, the admiralty said. After dark, however, she reported she returned to the scene.

"Then she found an area of nearly four square miles of sea thickly coated in fuel oil," said the admiralty's account. "The fumes contaminated the air to such an extent that the submarine had to leave the vicinity and ventilate with clean air before being able to dive again."

In the North sea German air attacks on British vessels the British listed the 198 ton trawler Pearl as abandoned in a sinking condition, the fishing trawlers New Choice, 236 tons, and Campaganus, 270 tons, and the 487 ton steamer Serenity as sunk.

Three Ships Believed Lost.

The naval trawlers Evelina and Sedgefly and the 1,383 ton steamer Stanbrook were long overdue and believed lost.

It was stated that a number of fishing trawlers were attacked by German planes without suffering serious damage.

British press accounts charged that German airmen "loosed a new terror drive on defenseless ships," contending the attacks were mainly on fishing and merchant craft.

[The new ship losses, not counting the German cruiser the British claim to have sunk, raised the toll of sea warfare to 247 ships of 917,777 gross tons. The death list totals at least 2,679. Britain has lost 15¼ vessels of 502,436 tons.]

First reports of the sinking of the steamer Serenity said the attack was believed to have been against a mine-sweeping fleet which Britain had formed with merchantmen, fishers, and naval vessels. The official announcement said the attacks were on "British and neutral merchant and fishing vessels."

Ark Royal Hit by Bomb.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 18 (AP).—A reliable informant who boarded the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal in port here yesterday said today that members of the crew had declared the 22,000 ton vessel, Britain's newest plane carrier, had been struck by a large bomb in the North sea.

The informant said that one gun was wrecked and that he saw marks of damage and new plates. The date of the attack was not mentioned.

[The German high command announced on Sept. 28 that a British aircraft carrier had been destroyed by German planes on Sept. 26, and the German radio broadly hinted the craft was the Ark Royal. Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain specifically denied any damage had been inflicted on the Ark Royal.]

The informant who boarded the Ark Royal yesterday added that he was told that two of the carrier's fastest planes crashed in mid-air last Tuesday, killing seven men. The Ark Royal arrived here yesterday for refuelling and sailed on the same day.

The 32,000 ton British battle cruiser Renown sailed today after loading fuel and other supplies.

The British cruiser Neptune, 7,175 tons, departed for an undisclosed destination after taking on supplies.

ships was proven by their heavy lists and by flames and smoke from their decks. The agency reported the crews took to lifeboats.

Germans Angry at Uruguay.

The German government was seriously considering taking measures against Uruguay to follow up the reich's protest to the South American country for giving the Graf Spee the choice of quitting Montevideo or being interned. The Germans charged Uruguay "grossly violated international law by refusing to give the Graf Spee sufficient time to restore her seaworthiness." The Germans, it was disclosed, may demand damages for the loss of the ship.

Since the German population repeatedly was assured the Graf Spee had suffered slight damage in the battle with the three British cruisers, the news of her scuttling came as a surprise to the public. It was accompanied by violent denunciations of Uruguay and Britain.

However, when the report of Germany's air victory in the North sea was broadcast, it was greeted with loud singing of this war's anthem, "We Sail Against England."

Hitler Meets War Chiefs.

Hitler presided at another military conference this morning. Chiefs of the three branches of the fighting service—land, sea, and air—were represented.

The Germans meanwhile expressed a conviction that their antiaircraft guns are better than those of any other power in the world. The captain of one of the hundreds of anti-aircraft batteries placed around Berlin said:

"An enemy aircraft may perhaps succeed in reaching Berlin in cloudy weather and at a very high altitude, but as soon as it descends far enough to drop a bomb it will never return."

HOLD RITES FOR FARM WIDOW.

Du Quoin, Ill., Dec. 18 [Special].—Funeral services for Mrs. Mollie Blacklock, 77 years old, were held this afternoon at her farm home near Verzennes. Her death was the result of injuries received in a fall. Mrs. Blacklock was the widow of John Blacklock, a farmer and banker.

GERMANS RATION COAL; 75 POUNDS A WEEK TO FAMILIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Altho Germany boasts that the conquests of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland has given it control of most of the coal and lignite mines of continental Europe, coal is being rationed today. The amount allotted to each household at present is so small that the population is seriously alarmed.

Owners of large buildings are passing the word around that a severe shortage of coke also is threatened.

Coal dealers are distributing forms on which requirements must be listed. At present 70 pieces of pressed coal [about 75 pounds] are allotted each household weekly. These pieces, which are like small bricks, are made from brown coal and give little heat.

The scarcity of coal confirms the popular belief that the blackout of Berlin and other big cities is being enforced only to save coal. Lack of freight cars and heavy exports to Balkan states are among the unofficial reasons for the shortage.

HUGE RED ARMY STORMS FINNS' LINE IN ARCTIC

Report 17,000 Reds Routed.

The newspaper Uusi Suomi here said 11 planes were seen near Lappeenranta, 35 miles northwest of Viipuri, for 45 minutes, but they dropped no bombs.

Two warnings were sounded at Porvoo, 40 miles east of Helsingfors, also at Kerava, north of Helsingfors, indicating that the soviet airmen might have been seeking the capital. Porvoo is the seat of the largest publishing house in Finland. Helsingfors remained quiet.

Meanwhile, the Finnish high command announced that desultory attacks by Russian troops were repulsed during the day in eastern central Finland and on the Karelian isthmus.

[Reports to Stockholm newspapers stated the Finns routed 17,000 Russians on the shore of Lake Kiantajarvi, east of Suomussalmi.]

Claim 36 Tanks Destroyed.

The night Finnish communique claimed a total of 36 soviet tanks were destroyed during the day.

A Russian attack was repulsed with the loss of 26 tanks on a 12 mile front on the isthmus between Muolaajarvi and Valkjarvi, the communique said. At Taipale lake, it added, where the Russians have been assaulting Finnish positions without success for two weeks, an attack in force was stopped by artillery fire and five tanks were destroyed.

The Finns claimed they destroyed two more tanks as activity increased in the Loimola district 19 miles from the frontier and about 25 miles north of Lake Ladoga, and three near Suomussalmi, less than 10 miles from the Russian border in east central Finland. They reported turning back Russian attacks at Koirnoja [north of Lake Ladoga], Syskyjarvi, and Lake Aglajarvi.

Day's developments in Finnish-Russian war. 1. Russians report capture of Pitkajarvi. Southwest of here heavy fighting in the Kaskamo mountains is reported. 2. Stockholm hears Finns routed 17,000 Russians at Lake Kiantajarvi. 3. Suburbs of Viipuri bombed by Red planes. 4. Finns report repulse of Russians on 12 mile front.

Advance 52 Miles Inland.

MOSCOW, Dec. 19, Tuesday (AP).—Occupation of the Finnish town of Pitkajarvi, 52 miles south of the Finnish arctic port of Petsamo and near the Norwegian border on Finland's narrow corridor to the Arctic sea, was reported today by Russian army commanders.

The communique issued by the headquarters of the Leningrad military area said the Finnish town was taken by soviet troops in yesterday's fighting.

The Russian communique follows:

"In the Murmansk direction [sector] soviet troops occupied the town of Pitkajarvi, 85 kilometers [52 miles] south of Petsamo. In other directions [sectors] there were small encounters of reconnoitering [scouting] units. At Karelian isthmus, intensive artillery duel.

"Air actions took place in some districts. A number of warships of the Baltic fleet shelled coastal batteries of the Bjorkoe district."

Finland Is Bleak Battlefield

Short days and deep snow of the arctic winter make Finland a difficult territory for the invader, as the Russians are finding. The clock faces on the map indicate the average amount of sunlight which different parts of the country get in the winter. Map also shows the Atlantic current warms the northern part of the nation and keeps Petsamo harbor free of ice.

CITIZENSHIP DENIED TO KURT LUDECKE, FORMER HITLER AID

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18 [Special].—Kurt G. W. Ludecke, friend and associate of Adolf Hitler in the early Munich days of the Nazi movement, was denied citizenship in the United States today by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle. Under the ruling Ludecke must wait five years before he can apply for citizenship again. The denial came at the end of an all-day dramatic appeal by Ludecke, who said: "The old Ludecke is dead, and the new Ludecke has changed his political faith."

Judge Tuttle complimented the former Nazi for a book he has written on Hitler, but said he was not convinced the old Ludecke is dead.

"I am not certain you have undergone the changes in your theories you say you have," said the judge, "I am convinced that you have not got even the elementary principles of Americanism."

CAPTURED REDS MAY BE INITIAL VICTIMS OF BOMBS

PARIS, Dec. 18.—A diplomat who arrived here today from Helsingfors declared the Finns have discouraged the Russians from further bombing of their open towns by quartering Russian prisoners in and near such buildings as schools and hospitals which the Finns wish to preserve. There are plenty of Russian prisoners to go round for this purpose and more are being brought in constantly. In and around Helsingfors there are particularly big Russian prison camps. Finnish army planes have dropped tracts behind the Russian lines as far down as Leningrad to let the Russians know if they again resort to bombing of open cities and civilian populations their own soldiers likely will be the first victims.

IT'S ALL IN THE GAME

By CALEB

"WHAT a difference," laughed the elderly man at my elbow, "between the simple things we played with when I was a boy, and the endless resources open to boys and girls today! We had checkers, dominoes and authors, played mumblety-peg or tit-tat-toe, and thought we were having a wonderful time.

"Now," he swept the animated scene in our fourth-floor Toy Section with a gesture, "inventors, scientists, designers and mass production experts have given Childhood not only everything under the sun in the field of games—but have turned man's working world itself into a play-world for growing youth. Education goes hand-in-hand with pastime—youngsters actually learn by the good-time route." He pointed to the Meccano and Erector sets, electric trains, chemical, printing, photography, and mineralogy outfits, the pyrography kits, the airplane assembly parts and tools, piled in colorful attractiveness on all sides.

Interview with one of the floor managers nearby only verified this new fact. Science and education have taken a successful hand in the doings of game-builders, with results that are all on the plus side of better information and instruction for young minds, along with adroitly developed manual skills for young hands. Transportation, construction, engineering rudiments, interesting laboratory and botanical experiments, are all features of today's Christmas toy program more than worthy of adult approval.

Specially timely, too, is a new mathematical game—Contack—which, starting quietly in the Southwest over a year ago, has become newest mention of the hour. Using colors, numbers and simple arithmetic principles for playing elements, its thirty-six attractive 3-color, 3-number triangles permit quick formations, and player progress depends on ability in number manipulation.

Thanks to this unusual feature, Contack is employed supplementally in the regular fourth, fifth and sixth grade arithmetic curriculum of Francis W. Parker school—and has been found so stimulating that its advantages are being extended to "retarded groups"—pupils who "just don't like arithmetic."

Inclement weather, lengthening evenings, the oppressions of a war-jittery world—all combine to re-emphasize the constructive place of games as load-lighteners and life-brighteners, for the grown as well as the growing. And all of this, say members of our fourth-floor staff, is a good sign with which the Public seems to agree.

AIRCRAFT PLANTS OF NATION EASY PREY FOR ENEMY

Church Demands They Be Moved Inland.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Every student of military strategy is agreed that the aircraft factories of the United States are situated in exposed positions on th nation's seacoasts and that it is high time that the war department or some other governmental agency takes action to move them inland to places of safety, Congressman Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] said yesterday.

"It can hardly be disputed," he asserted, "that if any nation should attack us it will concentrate its assault on our airdromes and airplane factories. As long as they are concentrated on the coasts they are a ready prey, particularly for carrier-based bombing planes.

"With the increased range, increased speed, and capacity of aircraft, the emphasis in modern warfare is shifting from the objective of penetrating the enemy's lines to the objective of destroying the sources of production which sustain those lines."

What About Carriers?

Church said the United States fears no attack from aerial raiders because military planes have not reached the point of development where they can carry a bomb load across wide oceans and have fuel with which to return. But what, he asked, about raiders from aircraft carriers?

He said it is not too difficult to picture the country at war with a daring and resourceful enemy. Coastal raids inevitably would be attempted. Aircraft factories would be among the first to be bombed, he believes.

Such a raiding force might consist of one or two aircraft carriers and a few protective destroyers he said. A small, swift-moving unit of this sort easily might approach within 100 to 200 miles of our Atlantic coast without detection.

Where Bombs Would Fall.

In such a circumstance they easily could bomb:

1. The Glenn L. Martin plant at Middle River, Md., less than 25 miles from the coast and easily identified on the outskirts of Baltimore.
2. The Bellanca Aircraft factory at Newcastle, Md., 50 miles from the sea.
3. The Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation, at Bethpage, N. Y., 20 miles from the sea.
4. The Brewster Aeronautical and the Sperry aircraft instrument plants at Long Island City, N. Y.
5. The Republic Aircraft [formerly Seversky] plant at Farmingdale, N. Y.
6. Wright Aeronautical engine plants at Paterson, N. J.—largest aircraft motor manufacturing center in the world.
7. Fairchild Aviation corporation, at Jamaica, N. Y.
8. Ranger Engineering corporation, another motor manufacturer, at Farmingdale, N. Y.
9. United Aircraft corporation plants at Hartford, Conn., [the motor and propeller manufacturing units] and at Bridgeport, Conn., [Chance Vought and Sikorsky aircraft plants.]

Largest Sources of Planes.

These are among the largest and most important sources of bombing and pursuit airplanes and the two largest engine manufacturers of the country. United Aircraft corporation makes Pratt & Whitney motors and Wright corporation the famous Cyclone series of motors. All are well within 100 miles of the coast.

A similar raiding force approaching the Pacific coast would have an equally tempting choice:

1. Douglas Aircraft company, Santa Monica, Cal.
2. North American Aviation corporation, Inglewood, Cal.
3. Vultee division, Aviation Manufacturing corporation, Downey, Cal.
4. Lockheed Aircraft corporation, Burbank, Cal.
5. Consolidated Aircraft corporation, San Diego, Cal.
6. Boeing Aircraft company, Seattle, Wash.

On clear days it is possible to see the Pacific ocean from most of these plants. They produce some of the army's and navy's most famous fighting ships—from the Boeing "flying fortress bombers" to the new Lockheed P-38 interceptor pursuit plane that spanned the United States in 7 hours 35 minutes last winter.

One Raid Enough.

Accurate bombing by carrier-based aircraft could put most of these plants out of production for months in a single surprise raid, Church said.

If either of the two big aircraft motor plants were wrecked it would seriously impair the supply of military aircraft motors needed by all our flying services.

"Even the threat of destruction could be abolished," said Church, "if these manufacturers were induced to remove their factories to the interior where they would be protected by distance.

"In the very nature of carrier-aircraft lies the best defense against them. Planes stationed on the carriers are designed for quick take-off and slow landing on the postage stamp decks of the carrier. These same limitations prevent such planes from having a long range."

Church said he had been told by naval authorities that the average carrier has a deck about 700 feet long. They say it is impossible for fast landplane fighters or the larger, heavier bombers to operate from a carrier. These faster, heavier planes require runways of at least 1,500 feet in length for their flying, he said.

Distance Plays Big Part.

So carrier planes cannot be loaded down with the quantities of fuel needed for 2,000 mile flights. The average range for a carrier bomber or fighter is less than 1,000 miles and this in turn limits their military radius to approximately 400 miles, allowing for a round trip and a small surplus supply of fuel.

It is necessary, Church explained, to allow the pilots of such craft a reserve of fuel for military operations. In raids it is assumed that they will be forced to fly at full throttle for part of the time when full consumption is nearly double that of economical cruising. Also additional fuel is needed for maneuvering near a target and for hunting up the carrier upon the return from a raid.

Military authorities, Church said, do not believe that aircraft carriers would dare approach closer to shore than 100 miles. Carriers are extremely vulnerable craft and must depend upon speed to prevent engagements with other surface vessels. And they must hide constantly from sky patrols.

Range of Raids 300 Miles.

Consequently it is highly improbable, he said, that any coastal raids could be made deeper than 300 miles into the United States. Movement of our aircraft factories to points somewhere beyond the 300 mile exposed belt would put them beyond reach even of carrier planes and well within the interior zone of safety, he asserted.

The army would like to see the factories moved into the interior, and placed behind the protection of the mountain ranges, Church said. No long-range planning to put this project into effect has yet been done.

Church said there is now only one major aircraft motor manufacturer—the Allison Engineering company, a division of General Motors—inside the zone of safety. This plant is at Indianapolis where production has just commenced on $15,000,000 worth of liquid cooled motors for the air corps.

The Curtiss Aeroplane division of the Curtiss-Wright corporation, and Bell Aircraft corporation are at Buffalo, N. Y. Curtiss is now producing 450 new P-40 pursuit planes and the Bell company is building both the Bell Airacuda multi-motored fighter and 100 new P-39 single engined interceptor pursuit planes.

United Aircraft corporation has a division at Wichita, Kas., also within the zone of safety. Several million dollars worth of new light bombers are being manufactured there at this time.

Plane Plants Exposed

In event of war against the United States of America enemy planes based on aircraft carriers easily could bomb aircraft factories in these cities close to the Atlantic coast. The shaded area on this map and the one below marks belt 200 miles inland and 100 miles to sea, which could be bombed by planes from enemy ship.

Plane factories in five California cities on or near the Pacific coast would be easy prey for hostile aircraft.

DOUGLAS J. M'FARLANE WINS DIVORCE DECREE ON DESERTION CHARGE

Douglas J. McFarlane, 30 years old, an Annapolis graduate now employed by the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington, D. C., was granted a divorce on the ground of desertion yesterday from Marcelle Mitchell Duff McFarlane, 20, of 1212 North Ridge road, Highland Park. Their marriage at the Knollwood Country club in Lake Forest was a social event of Aug. 26, 1938.

Mrs. Marcelle McFarlane.

McFarlane was not present for the hearing before Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Circuit court of Lake county at Waukegan, but a deposition was read on his cross-bill in which he stated that his wife deserted him in Washington Sept. 6, 1938, after 11 days of marriage. She returned to the home of her parents, then at 3750 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. McFarlane, who had asked a divorce on the same ground, entered a technical contest, testifying that there was a separation on the date her husband stated. Her mother, Mrs. William H. Duff, corroborated this.

CANADIAN TROOPS LAND IN BRITAIN RARIN' TO FIGHT

Some Americans in First Contingent.

SOMEWHERE IN GREAT BRITAIN, Dec. 18 (AP).—Cheering, singing, and shouting, "Where the hell is Hitler?" the vanguard of Canada's contribution to the empire's armies strode down transport gangplanks yesterday and today in a fog-shrouded Scottish port.

Leading the first contingent of the Canadian active service force, which includes a hundred or so men from the United States, was Maj. Gen. Andrew G. L. McNaughton, veteran of the world war.

Greeted by Officials.

Officially greeting the Canadians on the dock were Anthony Eden, dominions secretary, T. A. Crerar, Canadian defense minister, Vincent Massey, the dominion's high commissioner in London, and Maj. Gen. T. S. Riddell-Webster, deputy quartermaster general of the British expeditionary force.

As the men poured down the gangplank in a stream of khaki, it was easy to distinguish the Americans.

Two thousand Scots formed an unofficial welcoming committee and split the Sunday quiet with their cheers as the identity of the troops became known.

Sergeant Leads Group.

Speaking to the troops, Eden said: "It may be the struggle in which we are engaged may be long—it will certainly be tough—we all know that. But in the assurance of the unity of all peoples of the British commonwealth is the certainty of final victory."

The troops included a battalion of infantry from the maritime provinces and a hospital corps that had traveled 6,000 miles from British Columbia.

The first man ashore was Sergt. Bernard Gregson of St. Stephen, New Brunswick, who left his wife and two children to "take a whack at that fellow."

One from Chicago.

One from Chicago said he had enlisted "just for the hell of it." Another from Fitchburg, Mass., just smiled and shrugged his shoulders to the question of why he enlisted.

They were Americans all right—they wanted to know who would play in the Rose bowl. Two others were from Belfast and Vanceboro, Me.

Gen. McNaughton said, "Yes, we have a hundred or so Americans. They're good soldiers—and really alive."

Altho the men sang Canada's Maple Leaf song as the ship neared the dock, there was distinctly an American tone to the landing. The band was led by a venerable Negro who said, "I tell 'em I'm 40," blared the "Washington Post March" and the troops yelled, "When do we eat," and "Hail, hail, the gang's all here."

The force is completely mechanized and was drawn from Canadian militia, with the officers and noncoms from the regular army. It left port for intensive training in Britain.

"They are not yet combat troops but they'll be all of that when they are needed," Gen. McNaughton said. "Their spirit is wonderful. They say 'We don't like all this fuss but let's get this fool out of the way and get back to our jobs and home'."

Japs Bow to U. S. Demands; Promise to Open Yangtze River

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 18.—Foreign Minister Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura today informed Ambassador Joseph Grew of the United States that Japan is preparing to reopen China's Yangtze river, below Nanking, to foreign commerce. No date for the reopening was set.

Admiral Nomura.

He also promised that this country will not shut out American economic activities in China.

[The Yangtze river, China's main trade artery, has been closed to third power traffic since August, 1937, one month after the Japanese war in China began.]

Make Sweeping Concessions.

Today's conference between Ambassador Grew and Admiral Nomura, which is expected to mark the turning point in American-Japanese relations and is interpreted as a move to clear the way for a new trade treaty, lasted more than an hour and a half. It was said the Chinese question was discussed from all angles. Sweeping concessions were made by Japan to most American demands.

Nomura pledged Japan will make sincere efforts to settle the pending questions. He said he regretted that Japan was "misunderstood in some quarters as if she were intending to act in an exclusive and monopolistic manner."

May Open Pearl River.

"The Japanese government is not acting with a view to shutting out in the future the economic activities of other powers," he declared. "As a matter of fact, it is not reluctant to open even the Yangtze and Pearl rivers at the proper time under appropriate conditions." [The Pearl river is at Canton.]

A foreign office communique said the conversations today were held in a mutually constructive spirit. It explained that as the absolute military requirements for the closing of the lower Yangtze have become amenable to gradual modification, Japan has decided to prepare for lifting the navigation ban below Nanking under certain restrictions.

Seen as Treaty Move.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18 (AP).—Japanese moves to reopen the Yangtze river below Nanking were interpreted in foreign quarters today as a step designed to clear the way for a new Japanese-United States trade treaty.

The present trade agreement, made in 1911 and denounced by America last July 26, expires on Jan. 26.

A Japanese expeditionary force communique announced steps were being taken for the conditional reopening of the stream.

A Japanese spokesman said it would be "quite a long time" before the decision would be put into effect.

Hull Has No Comment.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull said today he was awaiting further information before commenting on Japan's decision to reopen the Yangtze river below Nanking to third power commerce under military restrictions.

POPE WILL MAKE VITAL ADDRESS CHRISTMAS EVE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 18 (AP).—Vatican circles tonight said Pope Pius XII. was planning to deliver an important address, probably dealing with the war, when he receives the college of cardinals in the customary Christmas eve audience. On this occasion the dean of the sacred college, Gennaro, Cardinal Granito Pignatelli de Belmonte, usually offers the pontiff holiday greetings on behalf of his colleagues. The holy father's reply this year will be of unusual significance, prelates said.

ENVOY TO U. S. BACK IN PANAMA TO BE PRESIDENT

PANAMA, Panama, Dec. 18.—Dr. Augusto S. Boyd, Panama's ambassador to the United States, arrived at Albrook field from Washington today in an army bomber to assume the presidency of Panama, succeeding the late President Dr. Juan Arosemena. He was accompanied by his wife.

Dr. Boyd said: "My administration will follow that of my predecessor both administratively and politically." His statement forecast little change from the present government.

Dr. Boyd's term will end Sept. 30, 1940. One of his first problems will be the question of the violation of the declaration of Panama by the Admiral Graf Spee fight and scuttling.

ADDS 4 TO BOARD NEGOTIATING FOR TRANSIT PERMIT

Wilkerson Gives Views on Controversial Points.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday added four new members to the transit lines three man committee that has been negotiating for seven months with the city for a unified traction franchise. At the same time he directed the enlarged committee to make one more attempt to reach an agreement with the city on the terms of a transit unification.

These instructions were contained in a memorandum in which Judge Wilkerson also expressed the court's opinion on four major controversial questions that have blocked an agreement between the companies and the city. These points concern rates of fare to be charged by the proposed new company, use of cash now held by the lines, payment of pension to employés of the new company, and payment of compensation to the city for the use of streets.

Four New Members.

The four new members appointed to the negotiating committee are Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, and Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, both receivers for the surface lines; Sidney L. Castle, chairman of the elevated lines' bondholders committee, and M. H. MacLean, member of the surface lines' reorganization committee and vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

The three negotiators appointed last May who will continue as members of the enlarged committee are Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to the federal court; Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface lines, and Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee for the elevated lines.

Opinion Discusses Points.

Judge Wilkerson's opinions on the four points are not binding on either the city or the companies, but his memorandum is expected to clarify the legal questions and speed an agreement by eliminating much discussion. His opinion discussed the points as follows:

1. Rates of fare. Judge Wilkerson said no franchise agreement respecting rates of fare can have real force or validity, because the question is legally in the hands of the Illinois Commerce commission or the local transit commission to be set up under unification.

Mayor Kelly in a franchise plan presented last month sought to bind the new company to the present seven cent street car fare for at least three years. The companies have opposed this suggestion. They assert an eight cent street car fare will be needed to support the new company, and that they have the legal right to petition for the increase.

2. Use of cash now held by the companies. The memorandum held that the $30,000,000 cash now held by the surface lines should be spent by the new company in accordance with terms specified by the city in the new franchise. He said the lines had not made clear their position on the cash, but that if they intended to leave the spending of the cash solely up to the new company's directors, such a provision would be denied.

3. Pensions for employes. The local transit commission will have the power to decide whether the cost of maintaining a pension plan is a proper operating expense, Judge Wilkerson said. The city had sought to have a pension arrangement provided in the franchise.

4. Compensation for use of streets. The local commission also will decide whether compensation is a proper operating expense, and its decision would overrule any franchise provision, the memorandum said.

Commends Mayor's Plan.

Judge Wilkerson said Mayor Kelly's plan, submitted Nov. 22, just when negotiations seemed hopelessly deadlocked, had furnished a basis for negotiations "which must be given thoro consideration." The plan, the judge said, offers the transit securities holders more than they could hope to obtain from any other proposed course.

Mayor Kelly late yesterday issued a statement hailing Judge Wilkerson's memorandum as a "notable recognition" of the city's essential requirements for a satisfactory traction settlement.

"While the opinion is in no wise binding upon the city," the mayor said, "it is my belief that it effectively disposes of the straw men that the companies have been setting up."

WATERWAY PACT TO HIT TRADE OF MIDWEST: LUCAS

Charges Cheap Transport Will Suffer.

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 18 (AP).—Senator Scott W. Lucas, Illinois Democrat, forecast tonight that the proposed St. Lawrence waterway treaty soon might be placed before the senate for ratification, and asserted its adoption would be a blow to Pan-American trade expansion.

By restricting the diversion of water from Lake Michigan into the lakes to the gulf waterway, Lucas charged, the treaty with Canada would deprive the Mississippi valley of needed cheap transportation. The valley needs this transportation, the senator declared, to take advantage of what he termed the greatest opportunity in all its history for increased trade with South American countries.

Dinner Honors Peek, Thompson.

Lucas spoke at a testimonial dinner in honor of Burton Peek, chairman of the Mississippi Valley association, and Chester Thompson, former congressman recently elected president of the Inland Waterway corporation.

Efforts in congress to increase the Lake Michigan water diversion above 1,500 cubic feet per second, the flow fixed in a federal Supreme court decision, have been futile thus far, Lucas related.

"You can understand our apprehension," he continued, "when you learn authentically that the Canadian government has agreed to accept the provisions of the new St. Lawrence waterway treaty which will freeze the flow from Lake Michigan to the valley at 1,500 cubic feet per second.

Recalls Governor's Protest.

"I am informed that there is a possibility that this treaty soon will be submitted to the senate of the United States of America for ratification. The governor of this state has filed his protest and recently Senator James M. Slattery and myself visited the White House, advising the President that it would be necessary for us to oppose the treaty in its present form.

"The treaty takes away our right of sovereignty over Lake Michigan. These are the same inequities which appeared in the old treaty which was defeated in the senate in 1934.

"Given an adequate and safe transportation system from the Great Lakes thru the Illinois and Mississippi rivers the possibilities for industry and agriculture in the Mississippi valley are tremendous.

"As a result of world conditions which have driven the peoples of South and North America into a single unity of thought on the war question, this nation has the greatest opportunity in all its history to extend and permanently strengthen its future trade relations with Central and South America."

Seize Suspect in $2,046,000 Thefts as He Reaches U. S.

New York, Dec. 18 [Special].—John Philip Spanos, the fourth of five men wanted by federal authorities in two 1935-'36 robberies totaling $2,046,000, was seized by federal bureau of investigation agents today before he even set foot in this country. They arrested him on the Greek liner Nea Hellas, and took him off at quarantine onto a coast guard cutter. Spanos is wanted in the theft of $590,000 in negotiable securities from the United States Trust company and $1,456,000 in negotiable securities from the Bank of Manhattan.

BATTLE FIRE IN WOODS.

Oregon, Ill. Dec. 18 [Special].—Oregon firemen, farmers, and CCC enrollees battled for more than five hours last night before extinguishing a fire in a wooded tract three miles southwest of here. Origin of the blaze, which burned a mile and a half of timber, was not determined.

A LYONS-BROOKS AXIS ABOUT, NOT QUITE, DEVELOPS

Hundreds of guests at a testimonial dinner for Ald. Patrick Sheridan Smith last night who predicted some form of Lyons-Brooks axis for the Republican primary would be developed there, almost saw their forecasts realized—but not quite.

Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor, and C. Wayland Brooks, candidate for senator, sat—with eight other guests between them—at the speakers' table in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. They were placed last on a long list of candidates called on to take bows, and each spoke briefly. Brooks limited himself to praise for Ald. Smith, a veteran south side leader. Lyons went only a step further by predicting Republican victory in 1940. But neither mentioned the other's name.

Neither Dwight H. Green nor Otis F. Glenn, regarded as the chief contenders, respectively, against Lyons and Brooks, was present. State Senator Earl B. Searcy, also a candidate for governor, was presented from the floor, and Speaker Hugh W. Cross, candidate for lieutenant governor, who was at the speakers' table, spoke briefly. The principal speech of the evening, one by Congressman Dewey Short of Missouri, was delayed until a late hour by the introduction of Republican leaders as well as candidates. About 1,500 attended.

V.F.W. DEMANDS U. OF C. CANCEL CAMPUS TALK PLANNED BY BROWDER

The Cook county council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars passed a resolution last night demanding that President Robert Maynard Hutchins and the trustees of the University of Chicago withdraw permission for Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party in America, to make a speech at the university.

It recently was announced that Browder was scheduled to speak Jan. 17 in Mandel hall of the university under auspices of the university's communist club.

The V. F. W. resolution asserted that communists should no more be tolerated in the university than criminals or wartime enemies, neither of which, the resolution added, is as great an enemy as a communist.

FOREST EXPERTS TACKLE PROBLEM OF WASTELANDS

Madison, Wis., Dec. 18 [Special].—Witnesses before a congressional committee on forestry told a dismal story here today about ghost towns and thousands of acres of stumps, brush, and waste lands in the cut-over timber regions of Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota. The committee is conducting a two day hearing here as part of a plan to formulate a long range national forestry program.

Conservationists county board members and representatives of local taxing units were unanimous in asking for additional federal financial aid in the waste areas. These witnesses were from the states named and from Illinois, the Dakotas, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, and Kansas. They differed sharply on the question of federal control of timber cutting.

Witnesses told of huge tax delinquencies in the areas where the timber has been cut away, of widespread soil erosion, and of lack of employment. The growing of pulpwood was suggested as the quickest method of restoring the cut-over region, because it takes 50 years to grow timber in saleable amounts. Witnesses agreed that whatever federal aid is granted should not be handled under relief agency rules.

OPEN MAYWOOD BALLOT BOX AND FIND IT EMPTY

66 Votes, However, Were Reported Cast.

Sixty-six ballots were reported cast in the 42d election district in Maywood, Proviso township, at the last judicial election. The ballot box was opened yesterday in the course of vote fraud investigations by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and State's Attorney Courtney.

The box was empty. Polls officials of the district will be given an opportunity to air their ideas of what happened.

The day produced a number of additional developments in the investigation. Five officials of the 53d precinct of the 11th ward were ordered by Judge Jarecki to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court in connection with the counting of ballots in the last mayoral election.

Closing Arguments Heard.

Closing arguments were made in the trial of Samuel Orlando and Joseph Vinci, captain and assistant precinct captain, respectively, of the Democratic organization in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward, who are accused of election irregularities in the last judicial election. The trial is before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Criminal court.

State's Attorney Courtney and Judge Jarecki filed an answer in the Supreme court setting forth their reasons for not destroying the ballots in the recent elections as sought in an action brought in that court by Carl G. Stockholm, as a taxpayer.

During the day Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christenson, who has been in charge of vote fraud prosecutions in the Criminal court for four years, announced his resignation.

No Surprise, Says Crowley.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said no significance was to be attached to the resignation, coming at this time. "We have known for a month that Christenson intended to resign to resume private practice," he said.

Crowley said that Clement D. Cody will be placed in charge of the vote fraud prosecutions.

The officials of the 53d precinct of the 11th ward, whose cases were continued until this morning in the County court, are Albert Ferro, 3123 Shields avenue, Democratic judge; Mrs. Mary Segvich, 3245 Princeton avenue, Republican judge; Frank Cuinta, 3258 Princeton avenue, Republican judge; Russell Ciampiano, 3252 Wells street, Democratic clerk, and Mrs. Agnes Scheurer, 3207 Shields avenue, Republican clerk.

TWO TRUSTIES FLEE INDIANA HONOR FARM

Indiana prison officials disclosed yesterday that two trusties escaped during the weekend from the Summit honor farm near the Michigan City prison. Both took advantage of their privileges to walk away.

Joseph Weintraut (top) and Carroll Cooper.

One is Joseph Weintraut, 63 years old. He was sentenced from Indianapolis in 1934 for embezzling $8,000 from a woman on a promise to marry her, altho he already had a wife and children. The other is Carroll Cooper, 36 years old, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1939 for a murder at Fort Wayne.

James M. Burke and Wife Are Reported Reconciled

Mrs. Yvonne Burke and James M. Burke, criminal law attorney, have been reconciled, according to a letter received from Mrs. Burke by Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday. Mrs. Burke said she had instructed her attorney to withdraw her divorce suit, in which she charged cruelty.

Quizzed About Thefts

EVELYN STUCHEL.

(Picture on back page.)

A young woman and a man were in police custody last night and stolen loot valued at more than $7,000 was marked recovered in an investigation into a suspected interstate fence gang.

Arthur Johnston.

The prisoners are Arthur [Fish] Johnston, 35 years old, 2838 Armitage avenue, described as a former contact man for the old Dillinger gang, and Miss Evelyn Stuchel, 21, of 2106 Humboldt boulevard.

Johnston was seized Sunday by Sergt. Tim O'Connell and a squad. In his car they found 11 expensive suits, believed to have been stolen from Paterson, N. J., and Oakland, Cal. Yesterday police, headed by Lieut. Kyran Phelan of the detective bureau, searched an apartment above Johnston's home and recovered 85 more suits, 12 topcoats, several furs, three shotguns, one rifle, and three revolvers.

Police said they had been moved from Johnston's home to the apartment a few hours after his arrest, supposedly by Miss Stuchel and a man. She denied this, but admitted borrowing the apartment keys from the tenant, Louis Mueller, 54, a watchman. Mueller told Lieut. Phelan that she told him she wanted to store some belongings of Johnston in the apartment. Miss Stuchel was arrested last night.

8 PICKED TO HEAR MURDER TRIAL OF ST. CHARLES GRAD

Judge Pierce.

Eight jurors were selected yesterday in the murder trial of Charles Allen Dain, 15 years old, who shot and stabbed to death a McHenry county farmer last Sept. 26. The jurors, five women and three men, were selected before Judge William L. Pierce in the McHenry County Circuit court in Woodstock.

Dain, a former inmate of the St. Charles School for Boys, killed Lester Groth, 34. He had been placed in Groth's custody and had worked for the farmer for nearly three years. He confessed slaying Groth after a scolding.

FIND TWO BULLET WOUNDS ON "HIT, RUN" CAR VICTIM

What appeared to have been a hit and run automobile case turned out to be an apparent murder early today when Robert E. Holmes, 53 years old, 4500 Dover street, a salesman, died in the American hospital.

Holmes was found unconscious in an alley back of the Sheridan Plaza hotel, 4607 Sheridan road. First reports indicated that he had been shot in the leg, but later developments indicated these were erroneous and that he was the victim of a hit and run driver.

These first reports told of several shots and an automobile speeding out of the alley. When, however, preliminary medical examination indicated that the leg injuries were not bullet wounds, police discounted the shooting possibility, and surmised that Holmes had been struck by a car, picked up by the driver, and abandoned in the alley.

Then at 2:30 a. m. Holmes died, and doctors found two bullet wounds in the right leg above the knee. The leg was fractured above the ankle and there were abrasions on his right side. Whether the bullet wounds or the other injuries caused death will be determined by post mortem examination today. Holmes, an active church worker, it is understood, had recently expressed some political ambition along the ward committeeman line.

IMPANEL NEW GRAND JURY IN FEDERAL COURT

Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday impaneled the December federal grand jury, consisting of 13 women and seven men. The normal number on a grand jury is 23. Sixty prospective jurors were called and 40 were excused from service. Judge Woodward said only 16 members are necessary to constitute a legal quorum.

District Attorney William J. Campbell said he was still undecided whether he would summon a special grand jury or present to the December jury the government's monopoly investigation of the building industry. This investigation, he said, probably will last three months.

PEOPLE'S LEAGUE PICKETS BEATEN IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 18 [Special].—A mass-meeting was called by the People's league tonight after three city hall pickets were beaten and arrested today. The pickets were carrying signs reflecting upon Mayor Robert Maestri and the Long political machine.

Witnesses said the pickets were attacked by 15 or 20 men, who came out the front door of the city hall. After the league had announced it would conduct the meeting on the city hall steps, Mayor Maestri said the meeting would not be permitted and that if it were attempted there would be more trouble.

The People's league conducted a mass-meeting on the steps of the criminal courts building two months ago to protest against political scandals and the lack of prosecution by District Attorney Charles A. Byrne. He resigned a few days later.

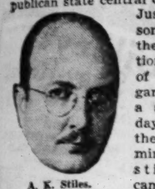
G. O. P. CONDUCTS OWN QUIZ ON 2% FUND COLLECTION

Ask Proof of Assertion Coercion Has Stopped.

A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican state central committee, and Justus L. Johnson, chairman of the public relations committee of the state organization, began a survey yesterday to learn if the Horner administration is still collecting campaign funds from civil service employés. They said they required proof of an assertion of S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance, that the employés are not to be shaken down for more contributions to the slush fund.



A. K. Stiles.

At Republican headquarters the practice of the Horner administration was generally condemned. All primary candidates have placed themselves on record as opposed to the practices of the Illinoisans, a Democratic group which levied a 2 per cent assessment against all state salaries.

Employés to Be Asked.

"We plan to make inquiries thruout the state," Chairman Stiles stated. "We will ask the employés themselves. We will need more than Nudelman's statement before we are convinced the shakedowns have ceased."

"We'll have to take Nudelman's statement with reservations," said Johnson. "Since the New Dealers came into power they have assumed they had the right to use public funds for their own campaign purposes. They have never before shown any regard for the right of any employé to keep all his pay.

"What has actually happened here is that state employés have contributed to a fund to keep Nudelman, F. Lynden Smith [state director of public works and Horner's campaign manager] and others like them on the pay roll."

$300,000 Reported in Fund.

It was reported in political circles that the Democratic slush fund today contains about $300,000. Checks against it are reported to be signed by Nudelman, Smith, and William Walsh, patronage chairman of the Horner organization, or any two of them.

Finance Director Nudelman was asked if the administration had any intention of returning the money to the employés from whom it was taken. His answer indicated that the only hope left for the state civil service workers is that they will not have to make any pre-Christmas donations.

TRIAL ORDERED IN COAST GUARD NEGLECT CHARGES

A board of investigation at coast guard headquarters in Washington, D. C., yesterday ordered Surfman Horace Carlisle, lookout at the station in Michigan City, Ind., to stand trial on charges of dereliction of duty last Sept. 25 when the yacht Clarissa ran into trouble on Lake Michigan.

Harry Gardner, owner of the yacht, said Michigan City coast guardsmen failed to answer his distress signal. Coast guardsmen said Gardner's signal, a flag flown upside down, was not properly displayed.

The board to try Carlisle will be appointed by Capt. J. L. Ahern, commander of the Chicago district. Penalties if the charges are sustained include dismissal, loss of pay, or a fine.

GIVES THE TITLE 'JOY RIDERS' TO HORNER'S BOYS

Rep. Lund Cites Huge Travel Costs.

Gov. Horner's Democratic administration, "because of its lavish expenditures for travel, can rightfully be called the joy-riding administration," State Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside] declared yesterday.

Lund has been studying state appropriations of the last 10 years, and has recommended a saving of about $60,000,000 in the grants given Democratic state office holders for the 1939-1941 biennium.

"The Democrats have certainly earned the title of 'joy-riders,'" Lund declared. "Ten years ago, the travel appropriations for the 1929-'31 biennium totaled $1,587,000. The money for travel appropriated this year for the coming biennium totaled $3,072,000—almost twice as much.

Now Owns 3,000 Autos.

"In 1929 the state owned only a handful of automobiles. Since that time no appropriation has been passed authorizing any department to purchase any. Yet today the state is estimated to own more than 3,000 cars.

"Since most of these cars are not marked with state insignia there is nothing to prevent the employés from using them for private work or pleasure.

"The director of finance should publish this list not only for the purpose of informing the general assembly but the public as well.

Urges Report to Assembly.

"A report should also be submitted to the legislature showing the necessity for these cars. It must be granted that some are needed, but where is the limit? Is every pay roller going to have one?

"In Iowa, where there is a plausible excuse for the department of agriculture to spend nearly as much as in Illinois, the total traveling expenses is only $46,000 for all divisions. The Illinois department of agriculture appropriation was $148,000 10 years ago and $238,000 for the coming biennium.

"The secretary of state's office had about $75,000 for travel in 1929-'31 and $145,000 for the present period; the department of conservation's travel appropriation jumped from $80,000 to $200,000; the department of labor from $72,000 to $144,000. Similar increases are found in almost every department."

GARAGE GROUP JOINS RANKS OF GOOD FELLOWS

Workers Will Distribute 125 Yule Baskets.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

More than 125 baskets of food, toys and candy will be delivered by members of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago to unfortunate families at Christmas time. The organization, of which B. B. Adams is president and Emil Mermall is executive director, is a newcomer to the ranks of the Good Fellows. More than 350 garages belong to it. The baskets will be distributed Saturday morning, Dec. 23, from three garages, located in the north, west, and south sections of the city. The group contributed more than $550 with which to supply baskets.

Helen Howe, song director.

The Good Fellow button.

The Good Fellow movement was called to the attention of this association by one of its members, David X. Meyers, who for several years has taken baskets to the less fortunate.

Students Sing Carols.

Yesterday afternoon 1,000 boys and girls presented the fourth annual Chicago High School Good Fellow Carol Sing around the 40 foot tall Christmas tree in the areaway between Tribune Tower and the W-G-N radio building.

Miss Helen Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools, was in charge. She was assisted by Erhardt Bergstrasser, Mildred Tess, Margaret Gallagher, Willard L. Groom, Samuel Burkholder, John Hamilton, Oscar Anderson, Capt. Howard Stube, Flora Churchill, Veronica Whelan, Grace Guller, Josephine Lee, Marie C. Ehrenwerth, Louise B. Ryerson, Edna Pohlmann, and Hazel Lloyd, all of the schools' music department. Fifteen minutes of the half hour concert were heard on W-G-N.

Miss Sonja Henie, champion ice skater, who will open an engagement Sunday night in the Chicago Stadium, made a brief appearance before the students at the end of the concert. She again joined the Good Fellows and on Christmas eve will deliver a basket to an unfortunate family.

Theater Employés Join.

Other newcomers to the Good Fellow campaign are employés of the Esquire theater, 58 East Oak street. Under the direction of the manager, William Galligan, enough money was raised to take baskets to four families at Christmas time.

The Good Fellow coupon accompanying this story outlines the three plans for participation in Good Fellow work. If you find it impossible to take part in Plans No. 1 or No. 3, which ask you to deliver baskets to the unfortunate, then join Plan No. 2 and send $1 or more to the Good Fellow fund. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.-Good Fellow Fund and sent to the Good Fellow Bureau, 1 South Dearborn street.

HIGHEST COURT TO HEAR PLEAS OVER U. S. DAM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 (AP).—The U. S. Supreme court ordered oral arguments today on litigation potentially involving constitutionality of the federal government's huge flood control program.

Specifically, it called for arguments Jan. 29 on whether Oklahoma should be permitted to institute proceedings in the high tribunal seeking to enjoin Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring from proceeding with construction of the $54,000,000 Denison, Tex., dam.

Some lawyers expressed the opinion that the court might pass on the merits of the controversy in its written opinion announcing whether or not the state was entitled to file its complaint against Woodring. This procedure has sometimes been followed by the court. There was no assurance, however, that it would be followed in this case. The court would have the opportunity to make known its views if it so desired.

BARES NLRB AID TO PAY CIO DEBT TO COMMUNISTS

Refuses Settlement in Cincinnati Case.

Harry N. Routzohn [R., O.], Phillips said his information about the obligation of the C. I. O. to the communists came from Paul Fuller, C. I. O. regional director. Mr. Routzohn asked Phillips what he meant by saying the local C. I. O. leaders owed an obligation to the communists.

"Fuller said they owed an obligation to any of their members, whether they were communists, Fascists, Republicans or Democrats," Phillips replied.

"Well, why didn't you say that in your telegram?" Routzohn asked.

"I used bad English," Phillips said.

FIGHTS FOR BOARD

Earlier the committee, headed by Representative Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] had received documentary evidence disclosing efforts of Phillips to prevent the publication in the Cincinnati Enquirer of articles unfavorable to the board. Phillips reporting to the board at Washington, boasted of his ability to prevent unfavorable publicity thru a friendly city editor and members of the American Newspaper Guild, a C. I. O. union.

It was in a report to the board in connection with a case against the American Rolling Mills company that Phillips boasted of his success in keeping unfavorable stories out of the newspapers. On Jan. 17, 1938, he sent a memorandum marked "Personal and confidential," to Witt, the board's secretary, saying:

"The Cincinnati Enquirer is planning in the next few days on running the story about the length of time that Armco is taking. They have been down and the company has given them a great deal of dope. Mr. Jacobs, the attorney for the company, is also attorney for the Enquirer, so I have no doubt as to the source of the inspiration for the article. My friends on the desk will do their best to kill it and judging from my past experience with the papers here in that connection, I don't think anything derogatory will come out."

Sees Advance Copy.

On Jan. 25 Phillips sent Witt another confidential memorandum, saying:

"I saw a copy of the proposed article the Cincinnati Enquirer is going to run against the board. Part of it was extremely derogatory to the board, especially speaking about the incompetency of our attorneys and intimating that they might like to use their per diems to make more money.

"The editor got worried about it and sent it to the company counsel for examination as to possible libel. The counsel replied, and I saw the memorandum, that it was not libelous but the difficulty was that he felt it presented too favorably the side of the labor board and might seriously embarrass the company.

"The city editor, who is a swell guy and a dear friend of mine, killed the story.

"The interesting thing is that the counsel for the newspaper, Mr. Carl Jacobs, is also fighting the case for Armco. Really, we ought to send this to Seldes to publish in his next edition of 'Lords of the Press.' I also am informed that Mr. Jacobs is now writing his own articles for submission to the Enquirer on the same subject, which will be published simply as an ordinary dispatch by a 'special correspondent,' but the city editor and my guild friends will doubtless be able to take care of it without too much difficulty."

Important Case Not Sent Out.

At another point Phillips was asked about a recent decision of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, which was adverse to the board. The decision, dealing with a case involving the Empire Furniture company of Johnson City, Tenn., was published in Cincinnati, Phillips said, but not elsewhere immediately.

His own investigation had shown, he said, that the Associated Press bureau there had simply overlooked it. There was a local election on the day the Empire decision was released, he said, and "the wire chief, instead of being on the job, just neglected to send the story." Phillips asserted that the "wire chief" has admitted his error.

DENIES PHILLIPS STORY

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 18 (AP).—W. F. Wiley, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer, said in a statement tonight testimony by Regional NLRB Director Philip G. Phillips relating to the Enquirer was "filled with innuendo and bald misstatement of truth and fact."

Wiley asserted Phillips "knew that the city editor of the Equirer was not a 'dear friend of his, but merely a most casual acquaintance. The city editor, Mr. L. L. Evans, at present on vacation in California, declared [today] by phone that he had met Mr. Phillips but once in his life and that there had been no discussion of any character on that occasion."

Of Phillips' reference in the letter to "my guild friends," Wiley commented: "He knew, or should have known, that employés of the Enquirer are not members of the newspaper guild."

Earlier, Carl M. Jacobs, counsel for the Enquirer and the American Rolling Mill company, described as "an absolute lie" a statement in Phillips' letter that he, Jacobs, was writing an article based on the litigation for submission to the paper.

Denies Preparing Articles.

"I have never prepared any articles for that newspaper and am not doing so now," he said.

Concerning the trial examination in the Armco case at Catlettsburg, Ky., Phillips wrote "the reporter assigned to the smelly job," told him the company wanted the Enquirer to print a statement that NLRB attorneys were trying to make the case last as long as possible to increase their expense allowances. In this connection Wiley said:

"The proceedings were reported to the Enquirer by a staff correspondent, Mr. Joseph Garretson. These reports were received and handled by the telegraph editor . . . and were never seen by Mr. Phillips' 'dear friend, the city editor,' until after they appeared in the printed editions of the paper.

"The American Rolling Mill trial was covered faithfully by the Enquirer without fear or favor, as are all other matters of public interest. No permission was asked of Mr. Phillips as to what might or might not be printed."

CONFLICTING THEORIES SIFTED IN MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF BRIDEGROOM

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 18 (AP).—Authorities studied conflicting theories tonight as to whether George C. Ramsey, 27 years old, of Olney, Ill., was hammered and kicked to death or fatally injured by an automobile.

Mrs. Ruth Ramsey. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

J. A. Purdome, chief deputy sheriff, planned to question Mrs. Ruth Ramsey, 23, Ramsey's bride of four months. He said his office was checking on the automobile accident theory, but "I still don't think it's possible."

"The manner and extent of the bruises seem to indicate that Ramsey may have been struck by a car," said Sergt. Ira Johnson, chief of the police homicide squad. Police, however, had not completely dropped the murder theory.

Mrs. Ramsey, located at the home of her mother in Evansville, Ind., several hours after her husband's body was found in a coal yard yesterday, told Evansville police she was willing to come to Kansas City to talk to officers.

Ramsey disappeared while he and his wife were waiting between trains on a trip to Dalhart, Tex. Mrs. Ramsey told Evansville police she decided her husband had deserted her so she hurried home to her mother without reporting him missing.

NLRB IS ACCUSED OF RAIDING FILES FOR ITS EVIDENCE

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 18 [Special].—Charges that a National Labor Relations board attorney was presenting evidence rifled from the files of defendant companies were made here today at labor board hearing. The charges were made by Paul R. Watkins, counsel for a group of employer organizations accused of interfering with unionization of employés in the tent and awning industry.

Trial Examiner Howard Myers ruled the documents, presented by Board Attorney David Sokol, were admissable. Attorney Watkins based his objections on the fact that in United States courts' criminal procedure only legally obtained evidence was admissable. It was pointed out, however, that the legality of the use of such material in a NLRB case has never been decided.

In the present case Sokol is seeking to show that the awning companies and three employer groups—the Neutral Thousands, Southern Californians, Inc., and the Merchants and Manufacturers association—interfered with the unionization rights of the companies' employés.

DE PAUW HONORS PHI BETA KAPPA WITH MEMORIAL

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 18 [Special].—Roy O. West of Chicago, the first De Pauw university student to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa, today unveiled a tablet commemorating the 50th anniversary of the DePauw chapter. West, who was graduated in 1890, now is president of the school's board of trustees and visitors.

The anniversary celebration was started yesterday at vesper services conducted by Dr. Walter E. Bundy, professor of English Bible and chairman of the fête. A dinner closed the celebration tonight.

Students and alumni were addressed this morning by Dr. William E. Hocking of Harvard university and this afternoon by Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago.

The commemorative tablet was a gift of Mrs. Le Grand Cannon of Dixon, Ill., a daughter of West and also a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

America's Newest Airplane Carrier Begins Trial Trip

Quincy, Mass., Dec. 18 [Special].—The American navy's newest airplane carrier Wasp left its Fore river dock today for a builder's trial which will require a week's cruising off the north Atlantic coast. The Wasp is 688 feet long at the water line, has a beam of 80 feet 8 inches, and a draft of 19 feet 11 inches, and displaces 14,700 tons. It cost 20 million dollars. The keel was laid April 1, 1936, and the craft was launched last April 4. The Wasp will replace the carrier Langley, now used for training purposes.

MILK PROBLEM IS ATTACKED FROM ALL THREE SIDES

Producer, Distributor, Consumer Give Views.

Divergent views of the housewife, the farmer, and the distributor on the complex problem of milk were expressed yesterday at a symposium conducted by the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs in the Auditorium hotel. These differing views may be summarized as follows:

Mrs. T. J. Keese, 6209 South Laflin street, the housewife, held that the consumer wants the best milk at the lowest possible price; a large supply of milk, distributed at low cost, with a sliding scale of prices for volume buyers, and good wages for the milk wagon driver without penalizing the consumer.

Farmers Contented, He Says.

A. H. Lauterbach, director of the Pure Milk association, said Chicago milkshed dairy farmers are content with the present milk price, established by governmental regulation, but that they will be happier when they establish parity with labor.

C. L. Dressel, president of the Borden-Wieland company, said the distributor's problems are many and complex. The distributor has been losing money for six years, but he sees the possibility of profit in the future if he can keep costs within reason, particularly in the field of labor, Dressel added.

"The farmer and the distributor both say they operate at a loss," said Mrs. Keese, an attractive and determined young matron who has nine children. "Well, I, as a consumer, can report a loss, too.

"Last summer, when milk was 11 cents, my husband and I bought 10 quarts a day. But we who use milk in bottles, and buy most of the fluid milk, the highest priced division of milk, don't get the advantage of surplus distribution. That all goes to butter and cheese.

"And I believe in a sliding scale for home delivery, for people like myself who take several bottles daily. The man who lives on the third floor and takes one bottle of milk pays 4 cents for delivery. On the same trip, the route salesman leaves seven bottles for us, yet we pay 4 cents for delivery of each bottle."

"The cost of producing milk ranges from $1.16 per 100 pounds to $3.40 in different parts of the country," said Lauterbach, who spoke for 12,000 dairy farmers in the Chicago milkshed. "But the average is $1.89, which amounts to 4 cents a quart for the farmer. And that is what Chicago milkshed farmers are now getting.

"In figuring the cost, a survey made of 79 selected Pennsylvania farms allowed 30 cents an hour for the farmer's labor. But in our milkshed, figuring all types of dairy farms, only 23 cents an hour is allowed the farmer, while the people who handle his product [the union drivers] get $1 an hour."

Distributors' Costs.

Dressel discussed the problems of his own company, one of the largest distributors in Chicago. He explained that less than 50 per cent of their milk is delivered to housewives, who pay 13 cents a quart. The largest volume, he said, is handled in bulk, thru stores, restaurants, hotels, etc. Hence, he said, the average selling price is 10.8 cents per quart.

From this price of 10.8 cents, Dressel said, must first be deducted 4.2 cents paid the farmer at the country plant; half a cent for the cost of receiving, cooling, and transporting it to the city, and one cent for receiving, pasteurizing, and bottling in the city plant.

This leaves slightly more than 5 cents. From this the company then pays all its employés, insurance, transportation expense in the city, loss of bottles, repair and maintenance, ice, legal counsel, advertising, credit collection, etc., according to Dressel's figures.

INQUIRY ORDERED IN C. I. O. TERROR AT STOVE PLANT

Call Slugging Victim Before Grand Jury.

1, 1931. He was an insurgent member of the Motion Picture Operators' union. The grand jury was told that Tommy Maloy, the union czar, had threatened to have him taken for a gangland ride.

Barney McCone and Herman Diehn, shot to death in a Forest Park saloon July 16, 1931. They were believed to have been killed for attempting to organize a new union to supplant Timothy Lynch's General Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union.

Ely H. Orr, secretary-treasurer of the Newspaper Wagon Drivers' union. Shotgun executioners killed Orr July 26, 1931, as he was driving at Milwaukee and Fullerton avenues. Racketeers who had been forced out of the union were blamed.

Timothy Lynch, ambushed and shotgunned to death at his home, 416 North 4th avenue, Maywood, Nov. 9, 1931. He was dictator of the General Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union.

Daniel Tagnetti, found murdered in North Riverside Dec. 22, 1931. He was business agent for the Excavating, Grading and Asphalt Teamsters' union.

George [Red] Barker, killed by machine gun assassins June 17, 1932. He was head of the Coal Teamsters' union and the actual ruler of 40 more. Police said he was killed in a battle for union power.

Fred Oser, shot to death March 24, 1933, in the Motion Picture Operators' union headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue. Oser was slain by Ralph O'Hara, a union organizer. Oser had been expelled from the union for rebel activities. Tried for murder, O'Hara won a directed verdict of acquittal.

Stanley Gross, a guard employed to protect a Goldblatt Brothers store at 1615 Chicago avenue from terrorists who were demanding money for "protection" against vandalism. Gross was shot down at his post May 2, 1933. His was th one murder of the 25 labor killings in which the killers were punished. The accused were sentenced to prison. They were John Rooney, secretary and treasurer of the Circular Distributors' union; Rosalie Rizzo, his sweetheart, and Henry Berry, the union's business agent.

John Pippan, shot and killed as he left his home at 1319 51st avenue, Cicero, on Aug. 29, 1933. He was secretary-treasurer of the Italian Bread Drivers' union, which had been experiencing internal strife.

James Tribble, Touhy gangster, shot to death in the Chicago Teamsters' union headquarters at 639 South Ashland avenue Sept. 8, 1933. Police suspected that Tribble and two other mobsters who invaded the headquarters with him were attempting some labor coup.

William [Three Fingered Jack] White, shot to death Jan. 23, 1934, in his apartment at 920 Wesley avenue, Oak Park. White was said by the police to be attempting to seize the reins in the powerful Trucking and Transportation exchange known as the T-N-T, which then controled many teamsters' unions.

Clyde Osterberg, shot May 13, 1934, at 18th and Loomis streets, and so severely wounded that he later died. He was a Motion Picture Operators' union rebel and foe of its czar, Tommy Maloy.

Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, assassinated by a gunman in a restaurant at 6325 Cottage Grove avenue July 19, 1934. A labor slugger, he was believed to have been trying to muscle into control of powerful unions.

Roy Thompson, shot and killed in front of his home at 8241 Dorchester avenue Aug. 18, 1934. He was a business agent for the painters' union.

Tommy Maloy, shot to death Feb. 4, 1935, at the Outer drive and 24th street. He was the czar of the Motion Picture Operators' union. Rivals for his throne were believed to have ordered his execution in the hope of seizing the union's rich treasury.

Louis [Diamond Louie] Alterie, ambushed and slain July 19, 1935, as he stepped from his apartment at 922 Eastwood avenue. He was czar of the Chicago Office, Theater and Amusement Janitors' union. There were two theories: That members of the old Capone gang killed him because they wished to gain control of his union, and that he was killed for trying to muscle in on the Motion Picture Operators' union.

Mrs. Elsie Henneman, shot to death Jan. 3, 1936, in the 300 block of Root street. She was the wife of George Henneman, boss of the painters' union. Police arrested Henneman and then released him on the theory that the assassins were trying to kill him, since he was driving the car in which his wife was killed.

Michael Galvin, killed by gunmen in the 500 block of Madison street Nov. 23, 1936. He was ruler of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers' union, long known as the outlaw teamsters' union, which was feuding with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Robert A. Shields, shot and killed behind his home at 3451 61st street, June 25, 1937. He was financial secretary of the Painters' union.

Fred C. Blacker, shot and killed in Summit Nov. 24, 1937. A motion picture operator and union organizer; he was a fugitive from the law and labor enemies in Indiana and New York.

Lloyd Rourke, beaten with a ball bat behind the Fairfax hotel at 1369 Hyde Park boulevard on Feb. 10, 1938, so severely that he died. He was a laundry truck driver. Authorities said his death was a result of the terrorism of the Del Prado hotel strike.

Edward Shuler, found shot to death in the 2200 block of Ohio street March 25, 1938. He was a member of local 399 of the Operating Engineers' union. His wife charged that he had once been slugged at a union meeting and that he was terrorized for months before the murder for supporting an unsuccessful ticket in a union election.

Henry Schneider, found shot to death in Glencoe May 16, 1938. He was a member of the Motion Picture Operators' union.

James G. Dungan, czar of the painters' union, ambushed and murdered by gunmen in front of his home at 3116 Lowe avenue Aug. 8, 1938. A struggle over control of the union was blamed by the police.

Bert Delaney, killed by gunmen at 35th street and Ellis avenue Oct. 21, 1938. Delaney, once Al Capone's brewmaster, was believed to have been trying to muscle in on a scavenger teamsters' union.

James Lawrence, shot and killed at Walton and Paulina streets April 12, 1939, while riding as a guard on a Wieboldt department store truck. The killing was part of the violence of a jurisdictional fight between the Baggage, Parcel, Theatrical and Armored Car Drivers and Helpers' union against the Wieboldt Employés' association.

Louis Schiavone, killed by shotgun assassins in Oak Lawn July 5 of this year. Investigators blamed a struggle for control of the rich Elevator Operators and Starters' union. Schiavone had in his pocket a copy of an audit of the union's books that had just been delivered to union officials.

Paul Peters, killed by gunmen in front of his home at 3505 North Oak Park avenue Oct. 31. Police said he was a member of an insurgent group in local 4 of the International Pressmen and Assistants' union.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THE END OF THE GRAF SPEE.

Opinions will vary as to whether the Admiral Graf Spee came to a noble or an ignoble end after the sea fight in Uruguayan and Argentine waters. The Germans could have fought the first fight to a finish; they could have remained in the harbor of Montevideo and have been interned for the duration of the war; they could have gone out to fight again; and they could—as they did—scuttle their own ship. It is reported both from Montevideo and from Berlin that Hitler himself ordered the captain to take his ship out and sink it. If this be true, the captain is relieved of responsibility, at least for the final outcome, even if he should have to face a board of inquiry and defend his conduct in the fight and flight.

The German battleship was supposed to be superior in fight or flight to anything except five British and French battle cruisers. Except for them it was too powerful for faster ships, too fast for more powerful ones. In the first four hours of the fighting the German performed according to specifications and expectations. It put the heaviest of the three British cruisers, the Exeter, with the most powerful armament, out of action. It was then opposed by two light six inch gun cruisers of the type over which it was supposed to have mastery.

These cruisers in 10 hours of fighting chased the Graf Spee into the harbor. The German captain expressed his admiration of the British maneuvers and gun fire, as well he might to explain his defeat. If he had sunk the Exeter or forced that enemy to strike its colors, and if he had been badly injured in the subsequent action with the remaining light cruisers, his performance would have been given a more favorable naval opinion. His guns and engines were intact, his casualties were not great, he was in flight, and his enemies were afloat.

In the present stage of this war, with the great armies inactive and with the air force under wraps, nearly all attention is centered on the sea, and it is the Nazis' chief propaganda effort to keep the Germans in the belief that Great Britain's sea power has not only been formidably challenged but has been successfully fought and checked. The Germans are told that the British no longer can protect their own waters and that they are no longer masters of the North sea.

It is important to Hitler that the German people should continue to believe this, because such a belief will convince them that the blockade, the only military pressure they are now under, cannot succeed and that, on the contrary, it will be Great Britain which presently will be suffering from the destruction of its commerce and the inability of its ships to get in and out. And there has been a great deal for which the Germans may justifiably compliment their seamen. The escape of the Bremen, if not extraordinary, was spectacular, and the submarine commander who entered the fleet anchorage at Scapa Flow and sank the Royal Oak contributed a notable exploit to the record of the German navy. These and other achievements have been played up to the German imagination in an effective fashion.

The Admiral Graf Spee presented an awkward situation to the German propaganda department. The decision to scuttle the ship was somebody's idea, probably Hitler's, of putting as good a face as possible upon a battle which had not been spiritedly fought. The real heroism would, of course, have been a dash for the open sea against whatever odds waited outside and a fight to the finish. It would have been heroic, but there could have been no other eventual outcome than the destruction of the German battleship. Humanity will not cavil at the decision which did not send brave but hopeless seamen to their certain death. But great exploits take the last full measure of devotion and this the German naval discipline did not require of the officers and crew of the Admiral Graf Spee.

Great names in sea history are not made in this fashion. There was nothing left of Cradock's squadron when it fought the superior force of Von Spee in South American waters and Von Spee himself went down with all but one of his ships when heavier British guns met him in the battle at the Falklands. Our own Porter fought a notable action with the Essex against two British ships which caught him at a disadvantage in Chilean waters, violating neutrality to do so, but before he quit fighting his ship was a drifting wreck and he had lost half his crew.

THE GOVERNOR TRIES TO WASH HIS HANDS.

Gov. Horner, in ordering state department heads to stop the 2 per cent shakedowns of civil service employés, has only told his subordinates that they shouldn't violate the law any longer. The shakedowns have been a clear violation of the civil service act.

By his action Gov. Horner no doubt seeks to exculpate himself. He fails to do so. Even if his action were sincere, it would not be sufficient, and there is no reason to believe in its sincerity so long as he lets the shakedown organization, the Illinoisans, remain in existence.

Gov. Horner stands convicted in public opinion of participating in the violations of law which the shakedowns, conducted on state property with the connivance of his own cabinet officers, entailed. It was his men who collected the money and the money went into the campaign chest which the governor, by acknowledging his third term ambitions, admits is going to be used for his benefit.

If the governor had been sincere he would have done two things beyond what he has done. He would have ordered the Illinoisans to disband. He would also have ordered that state civil service employés be given back the money already extorted from them in violation of the law.

In the absence of these positive acts of repudiation the governor's action becomes meaningless, a mere publicity gesture forced on him by the exposure of his lawbreaking agents. He seeks to convey the impression that he is not a party to the crime, but he makes no move to restore the spoils.

Meanwhile, the state's attorneys of Illinois have evidence that the Illinoisans have been operating in gross violation of the law. It is their duty to investigate and prosecute these violations. Their failure to do so makes them parties to the crime, as accessories after the fact.

THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN.

Thomas E. Dewey in an excellent speech to the Pennsylvania club in New York, Saturday night, again followed the line which will be taken by the Republican candidates without exception if they do not disappoint the wishes of Republican voters. The candidates are rivals for the highest prize in political action, desired as the highest honor that can come to an American, that of being the country's choice for President. They are expected to use all proper means to attain this honor, the first necessary step being to win a majority vote in the Republican nominating convention. Upon that the candidates will bend all their energies from now until the nominations have been made.

They are not, however, attacking each other. Their opponent is the New Deal Democratic party. They are campaigning against its record, its policies, and its politicians. They are campaigning against a continuance of abuses in the American political system, against fraud and error in government, and against turpitude and destructive theories in American public life.

In conducting such a campaign and promoting such a cause the Republican candidates will not tear each other down for the benefit of the Democrats, but will pool their energies in the common cause for which one of them will be chosen as the standard bearer. Such a campaign should reveal the man who is strongest, who receives the greatest mark of confidence, and who is the most highly favored by the Republican voters. All this will undoubtedly appear before the convention meets and the nomination will go to that man with the support of the other candidates.

EUROPEAN RELIEF.

It appears that some of the officials of the American Red Cross are something less than enthusiastic over the campaign for Finnish relief headed by Mr. Herbert Hoover. The point is made that the proper agency for handling all such matters is the Red Cross and there should be no rivalries in the solicitation of funds.

Whether the point is a fair one or not, it is unfortunate that Mr. Hoover's name has been involved in the matter. It has enabled persons to say that Mr. Hoover, who rose to national prominence thru Belgian relief, is seeking to use Finnish relief to the same end. Some of his friends are booming him again for the presidency, a fact which may have contributed to the interpretation placed upon his present activity.

And we cannot forget that Belgian relief was the first step in the march that ended in the Argonne forest.

Editorials of the Day

A LESSON IN TAXATION.
[Detroit Free Press.]

The city of New York and its cigaret smokers are learning something new about taxation and tax evasion.

The city government imposed a tax of 1 cent a pack on cigarets.

The state government later imposed a tax of 2 cents a pack on the same cigarets.

And that meant, added to the federal tax of 6 cents a pack, a total tax of 9 cents on a pack of 20 cigarets sold in New York City.

Smuggling of cigarets from nearby states, which do not tax cigarets at all or tax them less heavily, at once became a serious problem for the New York tax collectors.

The latest antismuggling device adopted is that of double prosecution under the city law and under the state law.

The possession of a single pack of untaxed cigarets in New York City makes the possessor liable under the city law to a fine of $1,000 and six months in jail, while violation of the state law exposes him to a fine of $5,000 and a year in prison!

Which sounds uncommonly like cruel and unusual punishment.

All of which comes from letting the costs of government reach a point where they can be met only by taxation so onerous that it invites widespread evasion.

WARTIME ASSETS.
[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Understatement is often a virtue, and the palm for last week clearly belongs to Ralph Bates, who writes in the New Republic:

"The word 'peace' is apt to become suspect when a communist cries a halt to the war between the allies and Germany and applauds the invasion of Finland."

Another find is the Agitator's Companion, that being the name of a soviet propaganda magazine. As a title it is practically perfect, suggesting quiet evenings around the family library table, long walks to the postoffice on Agitator's Companion days and toy steam engines as premiums for 10 new subscriptions.

Lastly, there is the fleeting picture of a group of Finns clad in ghostly white sweeping across the snow to attack the Russian invaders—on skis!

Little things like these make wars, pestilences and rumors of same endurable.

WAITING FOR WINTER.

Observations on Monday, Dec. 18: The kind of weather we hope for but seldom get in early spring; mild and golden, with a blandness in the still air and a mood of youth in the sky. The bare branches of trees seemed ready to bud again, and close to a wall that gets the morning sun a single dandelion was in bloom.

It was a day to cause one to forget the dismal old folk saying about "a green Christmas." Let it rest in its abyss of pessimism.

* * *

A geologist would call the River Plate, where the Graf Spee committed suicide, an estuary or drowned river-plain, and one of the biggest. Its Spanish name, Rio de la Plata, should have been translated as Silver river. Its association with treasure dates back to 1526 when Sebastian Cabot, exploring for England, found silver ornaments in profusion among the Indians of the hinterland.

* * *

The late Wallace Rice used to say, with a merry gleam in his eyes, that he was the only man in Chicago who ever made a living out of poetry. You will find an example of his poetic gift in "The Home Book of Verse," greatest of the anthologies. Rice's "Sweet Clover," three fine stanzas, appears in the section devoted to poems of nature between two lyrics by Wordsworth—"To the Small Celandine" and "I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud"—and is worthy of its place beside these classics.

TREES FOR CHRISTMAS.

Whenever I see a Christmas tree
Proudly arrayed for all to see,
Shining with silver, glowing with light,
Shaking its jeweled skirts with delight,
I think of the pines on a hill I know
And how sun and moon have helped them grow,
O, they must be used to being so fair,
For often they've stood with the stars in their hair,
The sun's bright gold on their branches has gleamed
And silvery moonlight has over them streamed.
For years they have lived with the clear summer rain
And its crystal balls on their boughs have lain,
And times when a rainbow leaned to the earth
They were bathed in color, given new birth.
Do you wonder they're chosen as Christmas trees
When always they've lived with glories like these?

Mary V. Farnum.

Party Girl in Party Room.

She looked very bored, perched upon the bar stool playing with the cherry in her glass—an exotic creature, as out of place in that recreation room as a goldfish in a laundry tub. "Having fun?" I asked casually. "Fun," she exploded. "In a basement? Where I came from we kept our cider and root vegetables in the cellar but we entertained our guests upstairs."

"But the Browns have just had this fixed over," I murmured soothingly. "They're so proud of it."

She ignored me. "Do you know why they call these places game rooms? Because you have to be game to step into one. Take a look at that horrible stag's head on the wall. Every time I've danced past him tonight he's bared his teeth. I always have the feeling that he's going to snap at me. And that mounted sailfish. When I tried to read the inscription he whispered, 'I'm the one that didn't get away.'"

She made another stab at the cherry and this time was successful. "Do you know what's in the corner behind that lovely screen? A washing machine." "O, cheer up," I said. "We'll probably start playing paper and pencil games and you can relax." "Not games!" she exclaimed in horror. "That's about the last straw. When they start asking 'What color are the eyes of a pickled herring?' I always leave."

And gathering up her bag, cigaret case, and long skirts she carefully lowered herself from the bar stool, thanked her hostess for a most delightful evening and with extreme caution floated up the basement stairs. Eugenia Gerlach Stein.

A HERO'S CONFESSION.

The big bloke was bitter and brutal,
He stood there with blood in his eye;
He'd beaten up three
And looked right at me,
A most disagreeable guy.

I muttered, "You big so-and-so, you!"
The words were not very distinct;
He quickly drew near,
And, beginning to leer,
"Whazzat?" sezze, plain and succinct.

I said, "I am proud, sir, to know you!"
'Twas all I could do, not to stutter;
He turned away then,
Thus proving again
A fellow's best friend is his mutter.

A Philosopher on State Street.

The canyon of the stores has found a voice other than the grumble of traffic; and to the old magic of the masters' music has been added the new magic of science, so that now even a violin's slender tone fills the street from end to end. Drenched in the melody that drowns all else, the crowds still go their way unheeding; but it seems that the penetrating insistence of the Christmas songs cannot fail to have its effect. I fancy that if only we hear them long enough they shall some day sing themselves so strongly to us that they will overcome all the impatience, the selfishness, the bitterness that walk with us today. For this is why music has been given to us. Quizzicuss.

In Peoria, they call bartenders "grain processing product distributors"; and my nom de plume [Dec. 13] isn't Tess of the 5810, but Tess of the 5 and 10.

Let's call the affair of the River Plate a classic sea fight. H. M. S. Ajax defied the lightning; H. M. S. Achilles showed a lively pair of heels, and the Graf Spee was severely hectored.

THE CONQUEST OF CONSTIPATION.

CONSTIPATION and headache vie with one another as disturbers of peace and comfort. The former—by all odds—is our chief alimentary tract disorder. The stomach is not to blame. Neither is the duodenum nor the small intestine. The fault lies with the colon. More often than not, however, this portion of the anatomy is willing to do its part but we fuss at it so much that it cannot follow the rules of hygiene.

Diet is probably the most direct cause. If the intake is grossly out of balance or lacks fresh vegetables and fruits—which provide residue—we need not wonder should difficulty arise. Then again, many of us are accustomed to a scanty breakfast supplying very little nourishment. This is followed by a hasty lunch, and we then attempt to make up for our deficiencies with a large dinner.

No self-respecting intestine will tolerate such a program for long. Three or four moderate repasts are required—spaced fairly evenly and consumed deliberately. Such a regimen furnishes a rhythmic, periodical stimulus whereby food materials and their débris are propelled forward. With but one 1,200 or 1,500 calory meal in 24 nours we may overload a partially starved body. Too exhausting a task is assigned to the wavelike machinery of the digestive tube.

Next in importance is the whipping to which the muscle of the bowel finally becomes indifferent. Cathartics and enemas are artificial goads and, while relief is obtained at the time, the aftermath is a goodly amount of congestion—an excellent forerunner of some real trouble. Many individuals are obliged to transfer their allegiance from one laxative to another—each wearing out in turn, whereupon a new variety is tried. We must not forget that with every watery stool we lose not only some nutriment but a substantial quantity of minerals. If a calcium or an iron deficiency becomes evident we are likely to condemn the menu rather than the guilty culprit—the purgative.

We all recognize that the autonomic or, as it is sometimes called, the sympathetic nervous system, may play a rôle. Fear, anger, or grief may be responsible for a multitude of symptoms. From such sources there may come a deadening akin to paralysis or the colon may become spastic—tightly contracted. Emotional readjustment may be demanded.

But the chronic constipation victim may be told that his digestive mechanism will welcome reëducation. First, he must adopt an orderly, systematic régime. Start the day with two or three glasses of weak tea or hot water flavored with lemon juice. Do your drinking at least a half hour before breakfast, then eat a fair meal with fruit, cereal, one egg or two strips of bacon, toast, and coffee.

With even a lazy colon the evacuation urge will probably come within an hour. Attend to this strictly and be patient. Sometimes a footstool is of advantage as pressure of the thighs may assist a limp abdominal wall. Most of our toilet seats are too high.

Next comes the selection of edibles. If fiber-containing vegetables are not well borne, seaweed [agar] may be added to well cooked wheat, corn, or oatmeal. But no special laxative foods are called for. An overplus of starches and sugars should be guarded against.

Exercise is significant. Walking is preferred. The nonathletic man or woman should adjust his daily schedule so that he can stroll for a mile or two both morning and evening. Golf, horseback riding, and other outdoor activities are helpful, however.

With stubborn cases the injection of an ounce or two of warm olive or cottonseed oil into the rectum just before retiring has the effect of easing spasm. Finally, gentle massage of the abdominal wall is indicated. It will prove relaxing and—particularly with invalids—serves as a tonic.

It goes without saying that the physician will make certain that there is no obstruction, no inflammatory process about the rectum that is interfering with the contraction impulses. Barring organic ailments, 90 per cent of our persistent complainers will be aided by simple measures.

EXCELLENT SOFTENER.

G. H. writes: Will olive oil, used on the face every day, tend to grow hair or harm the skin in any way?

REPLY.

No. This material is useful inside and out. An excellent softener for a harsh epidermis and ideal for salad dressing. If the stomach can stand it, the skin should not object.

WHAT 20-20 MEANS.

J. C. writes: What does a 20-20 vision rating indicate?

REPLY.

Most eye charts are so constructed that they should be read at 20 feet. Therefore, 20-20 is normal. If a person reads at 20 feet what he ordinarily should distinguish clearly at 50 feet, the rating would be 20-50.

UNPREDICTABLE.

J. S. R. writes: Do you have any material on the subject of controling the sex of an unborn child?

REPLY.

As yet there is no method of controling or even predicting the sex of an unborn child—theories and promises notwithstanding.

THINKING OF LONELY PEOPLE.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—I have my little family here, and on Thanksgiving realized that I had much to thankful for, but all my sisters and brothers as well as childhood friends were left back east when I moved to Chicago a few years ago. I miss them most on Thanksgiving and Christmas, and the thought occurred to me that if I, with my husband and children, can be so lonesome at such a time, surely there must be hundreds of poor souls who have no one at all.

Therefore, wouldn't it be a grand idea if every family so disposed would invite a lonesome person or persons for these holidays? I am sure organizations such as the American Legion, Moose, etc., would be willing to choose and verify these people before sending them out to homes that invite them.

If such an idea could materialize, the world would seem less selfish.

Thank you for printing this in your valuable column. MRS. M. LEDOM.

GIRLS AND THE JOB.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Marcia Winn, in her series of articles telling girls how to land a job, dwells on the hackneyed subject of a girl's appearance being of such vital importance.

Now if business men were interested in efficiency above everything else, wouldn't the requirements be aptitude for the work, common sense, neatness and a pleasant disposition? As to the idea that the girls should make themselves subtly alluring, I believe that mixing sex with business is responsible for most of our present day ills. It is responsible for breaking up many homes and it retards business efficiency and progress.

BURNED UP ABOUT JUDGES.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I like the Morganstern articles about the courts; they sure tell the truth. I have a pet peeve about courts and judges. What burns me up is the fact that the judges come and go whenever they feel like it. They start late, take a long lunch period, then perhaps sit on the bench an hour or more and get a notion to play golf or some other thing. They don't give a continental for the time of the people who have business in their courts. They take three or four vacations a year, and when they are gone we, the taxpayers, must pay country judges to sit in their chairs.

A USE FOR CHRISTMAS TREES.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Every year thousands of trees are cut down for Christmas, used for a couple of weeks, and then thrown away. These trees could serve a useful purpose after they have been discarded. They can be made into many novel things, such as rustic furniture, or small novelties. I have made some and they have worked out nicely. They could be sent to places where persons who are shut-ins can work on them. It not only makes the time pass more pleasantly, but also makes use of something that has been wasted for the past years. MYRON JACKSON.

NEW TAX PLAN HELPS.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Cook county's small home owners should give thanks to John Toman, county treasurer, for establishing his new system of collecting back taxes thru the bureau of tax delinquency. It serves two purposes: it brings in delinquent taxes, it enables the small home owner, whose average salary is between $35 and $50 a week, to save his home from tax sale.

Thousands of these people have had a desperate struggle to keep going. They got behind in their taxes and the penalties soon brought the bills so high that it was impossible to pay in full. Many gave up in disgust and allowed their property to go by default, while others held on in the hope of relief.

This relief came when Mr. Toman, thru court order, secured a 50 per cent reduction on penalties for the years 1928 to 1932, cutting down the bills considerably, and then enabling the taxpayer to pay on a monthly plan. I for one, now can pay where I never could have paid in full. MATHILDA ERICKSON.

TOO OLD TO TAKE CENSUS.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—La[illegible]ek I called at the census bureau in the Federal building and was told application blanks had not arrived. Saw an announcement in the paper that they were now ready. Called again today and was refused blanks; was told I was too old [am 52] and that I must have a college education. I'll bet the man I talked with never held such positions as I enjoyed before the depression. What does our government mean? NO SENSES.

RAPHAEL IN THE TRIBUNE.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—I must let you know how much I, and I am sure many more of your readers, appreciate the picture of Raphael's "The Madonna of The Chair." I am a born Chicagoan.

The picture is beautiful and worth a million. When I opened yesterday's TRIBUNE my thought was of how much was due to all you newspaper editors. So thanks again. MARY A. SCANLAN.

ORGAN RECITALS AT U. OF C.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Whatever the University of Chicago may now lack in championship football teams, the musical department can be proud of the wonderful organ recitals offered to the public.

I was one of the thousands who filled the Rockefeller Memorial chapel on Thursday evening, to be enthralled by the renderings of Marcel Dupré, who not only presented the works of famous composers but four of his own compositions as well.

In this "swing" and "jitterbug" age our young people would benefit by attending these recitals and learning to appreciate "real" music, which lasts.

For the shut-ins here's one fine opportunity for some wide awake radio station to broadcast these recitals. We hear too little organ music on our radios today. LEONARD EKLIN.

PIN MONEY FOR CONVICTS.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Recently you had a news item that the inmates of Joliet and Stateville receive 40 cents a month, credited to their accounts at the commissary to be used for candy, tobacco, magazines, etc. This statement is incorrect. There are approximately 6,000 inmates of these institutions, and fewer than 500 of them receive this money. The latter are employed in the soap and tailor factories. The 5,500 depend upon relatives and benevolent friends for money. Many of their benefactors have no doubt expressed their surprise upon reading the erroneous statement your paper printed, and in justice to the great majority, please print this correction. EX-CONVICT.

HOLIDAY POSTAL WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—So the postoffice department is giving work to thousands!

But why is it necessary to "break in" these men on their own time as is being done at the Hawthorne station [or is it thus all over the city and country?] Such action is being taken by an administration which insists that private industry pay every one their just "dues."

For shame! A PATRON.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

DEPENDS ON WORDING OF WILL.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—Six years ago I married a man whom I had known for about 15 years as a bachelor. About a year ago he took sick. The doctors gave him little hope so I tried to get in touch with some of his family—he had never heard from them during all of this time. From little incidents he had related to me about his life before I knew him, I succeeded in reaching his sister, with whom I corresponded during his illness. After several months my husband died.

After his death I went to visit his sister in Pennsylvania at her insistent invitation. There I found he had left an estate of $1,000 inherited from his mother [1] for his body in event of his death. This he had left with this sister. To my very great surprise I also met his wife and two grown children, whom he had deserted 29 years ago—he jumped a $500 bond at that time and became a fugitive of the law in a sense. The wife claims that altho she never sought him nor cared to hear from him [2] she had never divorced him as it is against her religion. I paid all of his hospital bills, doctor bills, and funeral expenses. Of course I don't begrudge him this, but what I want to know is [3] if I am not entitled to some of this estate as his wife, or if not; [4] if I shouldn't receive a portion of it as compensation for my expenses?

5. Is the first wife more so entitled to this—all of it? M. W.

1. We do not understand what you mean by this expression. If he left a will, its effect would depend on the wording.

2. If it is true that he was survived by a wife and that there had been no divorce, then his marriage to you was bigamous and void.

3. If your marriage is bigamous, you are not an heir and you will take nothing in his estate unless he leaves a will in your favor.

4. Yes, the funeral expenses, etc. should be chargeable against his estate.

5. She is the only wife legally.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO
[From Tribune Files.]

Dec. 19, 1914.
[144th day of world war; 110th day of present war.]

LONDON.—Germans were turned back in fierce fighting in Belgium, and the allies claim Dixmude, Roulers, and Middelkerke. Furious bayonet thrusts by French and British troops were credited with the victory.

BERLIN.—Germans said they expected the defeat of Russian armies to end threats of invasion, and Von Hindenburg is expected to make recent victories in Poland decisive. Austria claimed further repulse of Russians in Galicia.

LONDON.—A dispatch from northern France declared that Germans are doing their utmost to force upon Belgium the conviction that their country is conquered and will become a German state. Prince Otto of Windish-Graetz was hinted as future ruler.

WASHINGTON.—A discussion of preparedness for war was discussed bitterly in the chamber of the house committee on naval affairs. Appropriations will be made for two battleships, eight submarines, and various auxiliary vessels.

MASSACRE TOLL 924 IN COUNTY; 702 IN CHICAGO

Fatalities Increase Nine Over Previous Year.

Cook county automobile fatalities totaled 924 for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, according to figures compiled yesterday by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. This was nine higher than the 915 killed during the preceding year. In 1937 the toll reached 1,108.

Anthony C. Prusinski, chief deputy coroner, said that statistics of great significance lie behind the death toll. They reveal the danger for pedestrians, the time of day and day of week that accidents occur most frequently, and the age of drivers most often involved in fatal accidents.

All but 204 of those killed were men or boys. The most dangerous age was between 51 and 60—182 in this age span being killed. Other dangerous age groupings were 61 to 70—149; 41 to 50—129, and 31 to 40—121.

753 Death Drivers Male.

In 753 cases the drivers involved in fatal accidents were male. Thirty-seven were female and the sex of 134 was unknown.

The statistics showed that as in the preceding year the most accidents occurred with drivers between the ages of 21 and 40. Of those in fatal accidents, 121 were between the ages of 21 and 25; 130 each were between the ages of 26 and 30 and the ages of 31 and 35, and 95 were between the ages of 36 and 40. Five were over 71 and 2 were between the ages of 10 and 15.

Of the 924 deaths, 702 occurred in Chicago.

[The coroner's report on automobile fatalities covers the 1939 fiscal year, which is from Dec. 1, 1938, thru Nov. 30, 1939. The Tribune's massacre clock records automobile fatalities in Chicago since Jan. 1.]

December Toll Largest.

The three months in which fatalities were highest were December [1938], with 112; November, 92, and January, 91. The trend was the same last year. February, with 40 deaths, had the least.

The tabulation by months:

December	112	June	64
January	91	July	65
February	40	August	79
March	85	September	85
April	77	October	87
May	47	November	92

Six hundred and three pedestrians were killed during the 12 months. The worst day in the week for automobile accidents was, as usual, Sunday, when 187 persons were killed. A total of 168 was killed on Saturdays and 140 on Fridays.

The tabulation of the hour each fatal accident occurred follows:

A. M.		11 to 12	18	6 to 7	95
12 to 1	35	P. M.		7 to 8	74
1 to 6	144	12 to 1	29	8 to 9	72
6 to 7	20	1 to 2	36	9 to 10	51
7 to 8	10	2 to 3	28	10 to 11	43
8 to 9	15	3 to 4	31	11 to 12	49
9 to 10	17	4 to 5	49	Unknown	10
10 to 11	19	5 to 6	81

Life Saving Time Backed.

Coroner Walsh's report bore out the contention by proponents of year round daylight saving that an extra hour of daylight at the end of the day would save many lives.

During May, June, July, August and September, when daylight saving time was operative, only 19 persons were killed between 5 and 6 p. m., compared with 62 at this hour in the other seven months of the year. Twenty persons were killed between 6 and 7 p. m. in the daylight saving months, and 75 at this time in the other seven months.

Classified according to the conditions of the persons involved, the accidents were listed as follows:

Motorists physically deficient	2
Pedestrians physically deficient	3
Motorist drunk	45
Pedestrian drunk	53
Motorist's condition unknown	125
Pedestrian's condition unknown	57
Motorist confused	17
Pedestrian confused	27
Motorist's view obstructed	5
Pedestrian's view obstructed	3
Children playing in street	8
Pedestrian jaywalking	176
Pedestrian standing on safety island	13
Motorist driving properly	480
Motorist exceeding speed limit	97

More than one of the above factors contributed to some accidents.

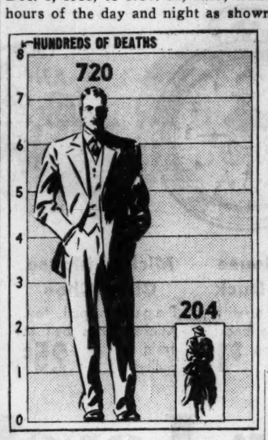
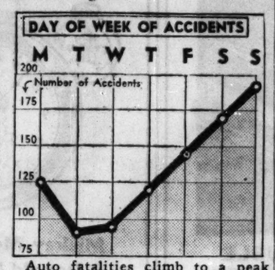
According to the county coroner's statistics for the fiscal year from Dec. 1, 1938, to Nov. 30, 1939, traffic fatalities were divided among the hours of the day and night as shown in the diagram.



During the year more than three times as many men as women were killed in traffic, the coroner reported.



Auto fatalities climb to a peak on the week-end, according to the coroner's summary for the last fiscal year, broken down in this diagram for days of the week.

FINED $5 AS FAST AS YOU CAN SAY JACK ROBINSON

Park Policeman Irwin Knuth was testifying before Judge John Gutknecht in Traffic court yesterday.

"I was rolling along in Lake Shore drive near North avenue," said the policeman, "and before I could say 'Jack Robinson' this fellow zipped by me at 54 miles an hour."

Families Plan Northern Trips for Holidays

BY JUDITH CASS.

"THERE probably is no snow at Phelps, Wis.," is the discouraging report from the weather bureau here. However, lack of the beautiful white flakes which usually fall at Christmastime is not going to change the plans of a number of Chicagoans who have anticipated spending a part of the holidays at Long Lake lodge in northern Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles and Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles, who go to Phelps frequently on skiing week-ends, will leave on the 29th with all of their children. The G. Corson Ellises and their four youngsters are going up on the same day. The Robert Goldings and their three will leave a day earlier, and all of the families will return to Lake Forest on Jan. 2.

Warfield Family Will Go North.

The John P. Kellogs had planned to take their three older children to the lodge, but the weather seems against any winter sports, so the family have canceled the plans. Snow or no snow, Mr. and Mrs. William Warfield III. will return to the lodge for a few restful days of outdoor life. They, too, are going north on the 29th, but they will have to come back to Winnetka on New Year's day so that William IV., a sophomore at Princeton, and Ware, a freshman at Cornell, can return to their classes on time. Jim, a student at New Trier, and the 12 year old twins, Dick and Hildegarde, will be in the family party.

A large group of young married persons who all are close friends will welcome 1940 at the lodge. The James L. Garards, the Edward Lawyers, the John Derns, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Sims are some of them. Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hamm Jr., the Frank G. Osbornes and Mrs. Robert Patterson are others. They will leave on the 29th.

The date for the marriage of Miss Barbara Mechem to Benjamin A. Smith II. has been set for Saturday, Woman Percussion Expert.

If you go to the Woman's Symphony orchestra concert at Orchestra hall this evening, notice the little woman with bright yellow hair at the back of the orchestra. You probably can just see the top of her head. She is Emma Nilson, head of the percussion section, and she has five kettledrums—count them, five—in a semicircle about her. She keeps tuning them all thru the concerts. Between concerts and rehearsal Miss Nilson spends most of her time in the orchestra property room in the Auditorium building, repairing the percussion instruments, tightening up the drums, putting temple bells on boards. She wears a carpenter's apron and has a regular carpenter's bench, and apparently is happy as a lark working there with tools and instruments. One of the five kettledrums is a recent acquisition. Miss Nilson came into a recent woman's symphony board meeting and announced dramatically and with beaming face, "We now have quints." She was referring, of course, to the five kettledrums.

Play All Thru Holidays; Give Color to Life

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Down in Virginia on the farm where I grew up," said a young woman to me the other day, "we didn't do any work at all from the day or so before Christmas until after New Year's. We'd go to each other's houses, have parties, visit, play games, go skating and coasting. All of us, even the grownups, made a long holiday of it. It was such fun and we had such good times."

I'm a great believer in holidays and time out for play. And certainly the Christmas season offers the grandest sort of excuse for indulging a festive spirit.

So when Christmas day is past I hope you won't settle down with the idea that it's all over. Why not set Twelfth Night as a period? Life gets so utilitarian thruout the year that when we have a legitimate excuse for merrymaking, I think we should make the most of it. Play gives color to life, and even if we're tired after it, with perhaps a temporary slump, it's a kind of tiredness that brings refreshment, too.

If possible, I think people who have children should try to put aside the everyday duties as much as they can for this gay time between Christmas and New Year's. Almost everywhere there are special events planned for children. Almost everywhere there are interesting festive things that mothers and fathers can do with their children. It is a nice feeling—that of playing together.

If you live where you must create your own fun, or if you're wise enough to do that anyhow, there are all sorts of pleasant things that will come to your mind and the children's, provided you make time for them, and let the holiday spirit have its way with you.

Pizzetti Work Wins Reviewer at Debut Here

BY CECIL SMITH.

Ildebrando Pizzetti's "Rondo Veneziano" received its first Chicago performance last night in the Blackstone theater at the hands of Izler Solomon and his capable Illinois Symphony orchestra. The work, which lapsed into undeserved oblivion after Arturo Toscanini conducted its world première in New York in 1930, proved to be the most important and valuable orchestral novelty of the season thus far.

Pizzetti, one of the most admired and least listened to of living Italian composers, is at heart a romanticist born a generation too late. He is an impassioned lyricist, a poet of nature, and an enthusiast for local color. Yet above all these attributes the "Rondo Veneziano" shows him to be a wholly genuine artist, unspoiled by any taint of either charlatanry or chauvinism.

The orchestra rose admirably to the bait of a beautifully scored piece of music, both sure and economical in its deploying of orchestral resources. Mr. Solomon's conception of the music seemed, at least to one who had no previous knowledge of it, to be a model of intelligence and sensitivity.

Frances McCormick, young Los Angeles pianist, played the Concert Piece in A flat by Emil Blanchet, a Swiss contemporary of Pizzetti. The work itself was a pale contrivance of an obviously genteel nature, not strong enough to attract interest after the Pizzetti. Miss McCormick's playing was competent and musical, tho neither brilliant nor individual.

The balance of the program included such estimable items as Beethoven's little played overture, "The Consecration of the House," Haydn's "drum roll" symphony, and Ravel's "La Valse."

BURDINO SINGS RUDOLPH

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A post-season performance of Puccini's "La Bohème" at the Civic Opera house last night served as vehicle for Andre Burdino's first Chicago Rudolph, for Virginia Pemberton's only appearance of the year [as Mimi], and for Henrietta Chase's debut in a major part [Musetta].

Mr. Burdino made much of the tempting Italian music, singing warmly, richly, and with much more volume than is his wont. Memory does not recall a more romantic and stagewise Rudolph.

Miss Pemberton knew her rôle well and made a charming appearance. Some of her tonal effects—the closing phrase of the "Addio," for instance—were suave and beautiful. However, neither the volume nor the general quality of her voice was equal to the demands of the part.

Miss Chase made of her Musetta a fiery little vixen who won the delighted approval of the audience. She sang with verve and brilliance.

Rudolph's Bohemian chums were George Czaplicki, John Daggett Howell, and Virgilio Lazzari. Giuseppe Cavadore sang Benoit and Alcindoro. Leo Kopp conducted.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 18.—When Douglas Fairbanks was buried, the Rev. Neal Dodd, Episcopalian, officiated, and there is quite a story in him because he is one of the few clergymen in the world who holds a card in the Screen Actors' guild. . . . The Rev. Mr. Dodd has been a Hollywood pastor since 1918, starting his first church in a converted store, and it was natural that the infant movies should call on him for technical advice on marriages, funerals, and other church ceremonies.

Director James Cruze gave him his first formal movie job, that of technical adviser on one of his pictures and the Rev. Mr. Dodd turned the money over to charity. He's been turning his movie wages over to charity ever since and I suppose it has accomplished a great deal of good.

It is in movie marriage ceremonies, says the Rev. Mr. Dodd, that laymen are apt to become most confused. The most frequent mistakes, he says are these: The script calls for the bride and bridegroom to promise to love, honor, and obey "till death do us part." He points out that the correct wording is "till death us do part." Directors invariably place the bridegroom on the wrong side of the altar. The entire wedding party commonly is grouped at the altar, whereas only the bride and bridegroom should be there.

[Acme Photo.]

Directors never did know just what to do with a wedding ring, and the tiny circlet gave them more trouble than a hundred pound weight. They used to have the bridegroom hand it to the minister, who blessed it and returned it to the bridegroom, who then placed it on the girl's finger. The Rev. Mr. Dodd pointed out that it was necessary only for the bridegroom to place the ring directly on the bride's finger. The movie directors were amazed to learn it.

Occasionally, the Rev. Mr. Dodd has had to tell directors where to head in, and on one occasion he walked off a movie set. The movie script called for the screen wedding ceremony to be held in a radio station, with a big group of radio performers in attendance. "After the wedding," said the director, "I want you all to sing 'I Ain't Gonna Sin No More.'"

The Rev. Mr. Dodd said that he would not appear in any such ribald scene, and furthermore believed that movie audiences would resent such cheap flippancy. The director was adamant; "It will be a big laugh," he said. The Rev. Mr. Dodd said that he didn't think marriage should be treated as low comedy, walked off the set, and refused ever to associate with that director again.

He has appeared in a lot of pictures since Cruze first engaged him in 1919 as a technical adviser. He performed the first wedding ceremony in a talking picture. Fox's "Making the Grade" with Lois Moran and Edmund Lowe as the couple. . . . In Bette Davis' first big picture, "Cabin in the Cotton," the Rev. Mr. Dodd was only a voice; she turned on a radio and heard a pastor delivering a sermon. . . . He performed the wedding ceremony and "united" Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable in "It Happened One Night." . . . Most recently he "married" Rosemary Lane and Eddie Albert in "Four Wives."

Because he is a real clergyman, actors and actresses always ask the same question: if they actually aren't married. He explains that a real marriage requires a license and "the intention to wed," and that when he is in a picture, he is only an actor. Marriages, according to the Hollywood pastor, come in movie cycles. Often he's performed six or seven in movies in a week. Lately, there have been few calls on him, and as a result charity has suffered.

In 21 years, the Rev. Mr. Dodd has met most of the old and the new Hollywood, and he has a tolerant regard for the people of the cinema world. Movie people are certainly no more wicked or no more irresponsible morally than any other groups exposed to fewer temptations. The only difference between other groups and movie performers is that when a nationally famous actor or actress gets a divorce, you read about it in the papers, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Dodd never dreamed of performing as an actor before he came to Hollywood, which he selected because his wife's family lived here. He studied art in Chicago before he decided to become a clergyman. He is 60 years old now and he can look back on a full life of service. How many screen couples would have been divorced if he hadn't been called in by mutual friends is a matter of speculation, how many kids who have come hopefully to Hollywood in search of screen careers and have been sent back to their parents by him is problematical, but there have been hundreds of cases in which he has lived up to the gentlest traditions of his church.

The former stars of the movies more often than not have him to thank for "bit" parts which they fall heir to. Fairbanks Sr. was one of his oldest Hollywood friends. A long time ago, the Rev. Mr. Dodd had to go east and didn't have the money. Doug learned of it, bought round trip tickets for him and his wife.

All White Party Dresses Arrive for Christmas

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Real ethereal romance is the compelling attraction for the dancing set in the loveliest of all-white party dresses arrived just in time for the Christmas holidays. These all-white heartbreakers boast full skirts, tiny bodices, ring size waistlines, and trimming that is the last fluff of femininity.

With small curls of white ostrich feathers, shimmering rows of silver braid, thousands of twinkling silver stars and sequins that look like star dust, these are costumes for a Cinderella ball.

Other equally devastating party gowns in all-white are veritable concoctions of froth and filmy layers of tulle and net. Deep flounces are outlined with dresden pink or blue grosgrain ribbon or tied with huge bows of pastel or cerise or pale green velvet ribbon. Appliqued bows of either ribbon or the velvet decorate both skirt and bodice top. Most of the shoulder lines are swathed with the same material as the dress, a few shoestring straps in silver braid or satin ribbon are available but the demure cover-up outlines are the most popular.

Black lace accents make some of the all-white dresses particularly picturesque when the black lace is used for the detachable bolero or bodice jacket effect or when the deep swirling flounces are of the black lace and then outlined with Spanish red or vivid cerise ribbon or emerald green accents such as bowknots.

Ruffled beauties in all-white rustle over taffeta silk slips and spread 'way out at the sides like the costumes designed for "Gone with the Wind." Crackling white taffeta is used for some album costumes with the widest of full skirts ruched in at the small waistline.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

A GRIM MONUMENT.

Leonard saw a face before him and he did not know whether it was real or whether it was a vision. It was like the voice. It was nearby, and while he was staring at it, trying to identify the features, it slipped from sight.

He was lying on his back in the coarse gravel and looking up at the sky. There were stars showing faintly in the moonlight, and there was a dark fretwork of branches, a spray of stiff twigs and leaves, standing forth between him and one portion of the heavens. He felt the grateful coldness of water on his lips. He swallowed eagerly, and saw the face again.

It was bending over him. It was so close that he could reach up and touch it. It was real. He heard the voice. He tried to say "It is you," and only a whisper passed his lips.

Pat had her arm under his head now and was lifting it. She was holding a canteen to his lips. He drank with noisy gasps.

It was good to feel the soft pressure of her arm beneath his shoulders, to look up into her face. To hear her saying:

"You will be all right soon."

It was good to know that she was here with him. And safe. The other two had not returned yet. She had come to him in time. He moved his limbs. He said:

"I can get up." His voice sounded strange to him. It was like the voices of the ravens overhead.

He tried to rise, and the pain of the movement made the world go black before him. When he opened his eyes again he saw the tears in hers. He muttered:

"Please don't."

"You must lie still," she told him, and her voice was like a caress. "It won't be long."

He did not speak for some time, and then he answered slowly:

"Not long. But it was a long time, I think."

He was sitting up now and she was still holding her arm about his shoulders to support him. The pain which came with the return of the circulation was like a lash, goading him on to further effort.

"I was afraid to come at first," she told him. "I heard their voices down here. I'd started to hunt for you, and I knew that something had happened. It wasn't myself I was afraid for, it was because I thought maybe they hadn't found you and that you were hiding from them. So I waited until they'd been gone for a long time. It must have been at least an hour."

"It was those two," he said. "Kent and the assayer. Dillon——" He checked himself. She bowed her head.

"I saw him. I know."

He got to his feet. It took him some time, and the pain made him giddy. He stood there swaying.

"An hour." He repeated the words slowly. "They've been gone an hour. And they will jump the claims." His face hardened and he forgot the torture in his limbs. When he spoke again his voice was steady.

"I will get those claims back. For you." He was silent again, gazing at the body, and he muttered "We can't leave him there."

Then he saw that she was weeping silently, and he tried to comfort her.

"I had to let the tears come," she said. "Now it is all right. No, we can't leave him there. Like that."

"An hour they've gone. It will be two hours before daylight." He moved his arms. "I'm able to handle myself now. They'll take their time. There's a short handled shovel in my car. I always take it on the desert."

While she was gone for the shovel he made what preparations he could. She was carrying a blanket with her when she returned.

"I got it from your sleeping bag," she told him. He nodded and he took the shovel from her hand.

It was slow work digging the grave, for there were many rocks. It was a poor grave, but it would give covering to the dead. He made her wait beneath the tree until he had wrapped the body and lowered it. When she came back they stood beside the shallow hole for a few moments before he threw the first shovelful of gravel into it. There was nothing of which to fashion a headboard. They found some loose stones and added another cross to the grim array on the Little Mesa of the Dead.

"Some day," Leonard said, "we will do better by you, Dillon." He turned away from the fresh mound and he took Pat's hand.

"Now you and I are going up the hill."

She was watching his face while he spoke. She had been watching it ever since she had returned from her trip down the canyon, and there was something in the way she looked at him that made him think of a little girl waiting for instructions, ready to obey without question. The old feeling of protectiveness which had come over him in the house of the doctor, when he first took her in his arms, returned. The tenderness. Her hand remained in his.

"I should have come down before I did," she whispered. "I had the revolver. I could have saved you from so much!"

"It was much better this way," he answered. "And now we'll go."

There are surgeons who maintain that pain in itself leaves no traces that when it is gone the memory cannot bring it back. Leonard's ordeal had been brief, and it had left no mark on his body beyond the black and blue welts where the ropes had bound his ankles and wrists. Physically he was as good as ever. But there was a scar upon his mind. Heretofore he had been taking events as they came, without much thought of consequences. Now he was carrying the weight of a single purpose, born of his sufferings.

And the image of Dillon remained imprinted on his thoughts. He never forgot it for a moment.

The moonlight had crept down the naked flanks of the mountain, and they had little trouble in finding the untracked path which led up to the Hidden Water. There were not half a dozen words spoken during the climb, and when they reached the mouth of the cavern he sat down before the overhang. Pat stood for some moments looking at his drawn face, then she turned away and crept into the rocky chamber.

He was not conscious that she had gone. He was staring straight ahead. He was looking down upon an enchanted world. The harsh colors of the desert were subdued, the rigid outlines were softened, and the stark rocks beneath him were like folds of deep purple velvet. The remote flatlands were gleaming mysteries. It was a landscape to make a man catch his breath, but he did not see it.

There was this thing to do. It was no plan of his. It had come without his seeking it, to take possession of him. And now he had to face it, to take counsel with it and work out the details by which he would carry out its bidding. He was sitting in the same position with his chin in his hands when he felt a light touch on his shoulder. He looked up into Pat's face, and his drawn face relaxed.

"All right," he said, "I've worked it out." He was smiling as he rose. And now that he had settled this thing he dismissed it from his mind.

"I've gotten you something to eat. You'll need it." There was a new note in her voice and a new look in her eyes. A tenderness, and with it a timidity. As if she knew that she must care for him and feared he might resent this interruption which her solicitude had forced upon him.

Then, without knowing what he did, he took her hand from his shoulder. He held it in his two hands. He looked down into her eyes. He wanted to gather her into his arms. He was thinking how light and soft she had felt when he carried her from the house of the doctor. That was less than four hours ago, and it seemed like as many years.

There were two things which had come to him tonight. There was that purpose which was owning him. It was hard, inflexible. And she was the other. She was fragile and gentle, and she was very brave. He must serve them both. But she was the one whom he would serve for all time—as long as he lived. He knew that now.

Quite unconsciously he released her hand and he slipped his arm around her. She was gazing up at him. There was no surprise in her face, just acceptance. They stood thus for some moments, and when he bent down and kissed her his lips touched hers as softly as if she were a child. He said:

"I'm going to take care of you now, Pat."

Yule Programs Hold Attention of Youngsters

The Christmas vacation started on Friday for children in Chicago's public schools, but most private schools are not suspending classes until the end of this week. This week is an exciting one, however, filled with plays and sports events.

The kindergarten class at the Boys' Latin school is busy with a play, "While Santa Sleeps," that it will give for the school and parents at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. Robert Pirie is to be Santa. Others taking part are Potter Palmer IV., Kenneth Dewey, Ann Sincere, Buddy Hodgkins, Bennett Harvey, Nicholas Cox, and Tony Bischof.

Townsend Brown will read the prelude to "Come Let Us Adore Him," a play the lower school will give immediately following the kindergarten show.

Classes will be over Friday at noon. At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the alumni will meet the varsity squad for a basketball game.

Miss Lillian Harris is giving her annual Christmas tea-dance this afternoon for pupils of her school, alumni, and other friends. The party will be given from 4:30 until 7:30 o'clock with the music furnished by strolling musicians dressed in Dickens costumes.

Tomorrow morning the first and second graders will give an original Christmas play, "A Fifth Avenue Toy Shop." Among the children taking part will be Wally McLallen, Babby McKenna, Nancy Oliver, Donald Bowey, Byron Harvey, and Margot Boyd. A Christmas tree in the front hall is piled high with toys brought by the students to be distributed by the Visiting Nurse association.

The Girl Scout Troop of the Girls' Latin school will give a party this afternoon for the Brownie Pack from Good Will center, 3334 South Paulina street, in the school kindergarten room. The knitted gifts that will be given to the Brownies were made by the Scouts.

The first six grades of the Francis Parker school will give a program of songs and the Towneley Play of the Nativity tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock. The Christmas service for the upper grades will be held Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The annual Christmas basketball game and get-together of seniors and alumni will be held next Tuesday afternoon.

This school does a remarkable work each year in its toy shop, which is conducted for several weeks before Christmas. Over 3,000 articles are made or reconditioned by the pupils and their parents and distributed to institutions.

The University School for Girls will present its traditional drama of the nativity, "White Christmas," at 11 o'clock today in the school gymnasium. Twenty girls from the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades will take part in the play, which will be directed by Mrs. Helen Howard. Children of the school have presented the play each Christmas for twenty years.

The kindergarten will give its annual Christmas play at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Classes end Thursday noon.

The freshman class of the North Shore Country Day school will present an adaptation of John Masefield's "The Coming of Christ" tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. This will be the closing exercise of the school.

Carol Program Is Heard by Italy-America Society

Members of the Italy-America society and their friends heard children from the primary grades of the Assunta school sing Christmas carols yesterday morning at a program arranged by Miss Clara Lake. It was given in the Arts club, where the annual Christmas luncheon of the organization followed the music.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Tuesday, Dec. 19.

There's a keen mental edge in the morning hours today; use it for coming to decisions that will produce results now or later. Financial background vibrations are still a bit shaky, however, so don't stretch the neck out too far. Routine in afternoon.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead till next anniversary, warns against emotional mistakes affecting reputation, occupation. Now until January build estate. From end of April more opportunity, more magnetism. Danger: Sept. 28-Oct. 10, 1940.

Tomorrow.

A serious day; weigh problems and their solutions carefully.

You can now get your 1940 individual interpretation for your own personal date plus the balance of this year. Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Baskets containing the foods received at the theaters will be distributed Thursday evening by Mrs. Richard McClure, president of the Chicago Better Films council, and a group of women representing the Chicago Federated Women's Clubs. The parties are sponsored by the Chicago motion picture industry. This year's chairmen are Morris G. Leonard and Jack Kirsch.

What would the poor cook do without onions? If they should be suddenly taken from her she'd have to call upon science to furnish an artificial onion flavoring for stews, soups, casseroles, and salads. Onions are as indispensable as salt and pepper.

Not only are they important as a flavoring ingredient for "made" dishes but they fill a big place in everyday and holiday menus just as potatoes.

Many families bake large whole onions to serve with the Christmas turkey every year. Other families cream or escallop them for use as one of the two vegetables of the Christmas dinner course. For everyday use onions are served in the same way and sometimes are French fried or cooked with the steak.

BAKED ONIONS.

To bake onions for Christmas dinner choose large ones of fairly even size. Peel them and drop them into boiling salted water to precook for 15 minutes. Use no cover on the pan. Drain them out of the cooking water and arrange in a shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place a teaspoonful of butter on each onion. Pour a little of the cooking water into the bottom of the pan to keep the onions from scorching. Bake until tender and lightly browned at 350-375 degrees in moderate oven.

STUFFED BAKED ONIONS.

Large onions may be hollowed and stuffed for baking after they have been cooked until just tender in an open kettle of boiling salted water. Scoop out the centers of the onions, leaving a thick or thin shell, as you prefer. Fairly thick shells hold shape better. Chop the removed part and mix it with whatever filling you plan to use. Sautéed bread crumbs, seasoned with salt and pepper and mixed with the onion, are a good filling, or cooked lower meat may be ground, mixed with seasonings, onion, and a little tomato sauce or leftover gravy.

Stuff the onion shells, rounding the filling up over the top. Brush the whole onion, filling and all, with butter, arrange in shallow baking pan with a small amount of water in the bottom and bake until browned and soft in 375 degree oven.

STUFFED ONION, CORN, AND TOMATO CASSEROLE.

Cook peeled onions until tender in boiling salted water. Scoop out centers and fill with sautéed canned corn, removed onion centers, chopped, and a little green pepper and pimiento, corn salt and pepper to taste. Arrange stuffed onions in greased casserole and pour seasoned canned tomatoes around them. Cover the casserole and bake 20 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Uncover and bake 10 minutes longer.

Elizabeth Poole Engaged to Architect of London

Franconia, N. H., Dec. 18 [Special].—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Poole have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ann Poole, to Henry Robert Lanchester of London, England, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Lanchester of London. Mrs. Poole is the former Miss Margaret Ann Winterbotham of Chicago. Mr. Poole, the author, also is a native of Chicago. Mr. Lanchester is an architect.

Talk on Europe's Birds.

The Chicago Ornithological society will hear Frederick Greeley of Kenyon college, Gambier, O., speak on "Birds of Europe" at 8 o'clock this evening at the Auditorium building. The society will complete plans for its Christmas census of the bird population in the Chicago area.

* On the House *

Here's an idea for that game room you may be planning for your basement—after Christmas: Take a deck of cards as your inspiration. Paint your dado a deep blue, outline a band of medium blue gray above it, and then paint your upper wall a bluish gray. This done, stencil a line of hearts and spades, clubs and diamonds, in their respective reds and blacks. You can give your ceiling a gray tone [a light gray] and coat the floor likewise in gray. Give the floor a border of deep red, and repeat this red in the linings of your bookshelves, your cupboards, and so on.

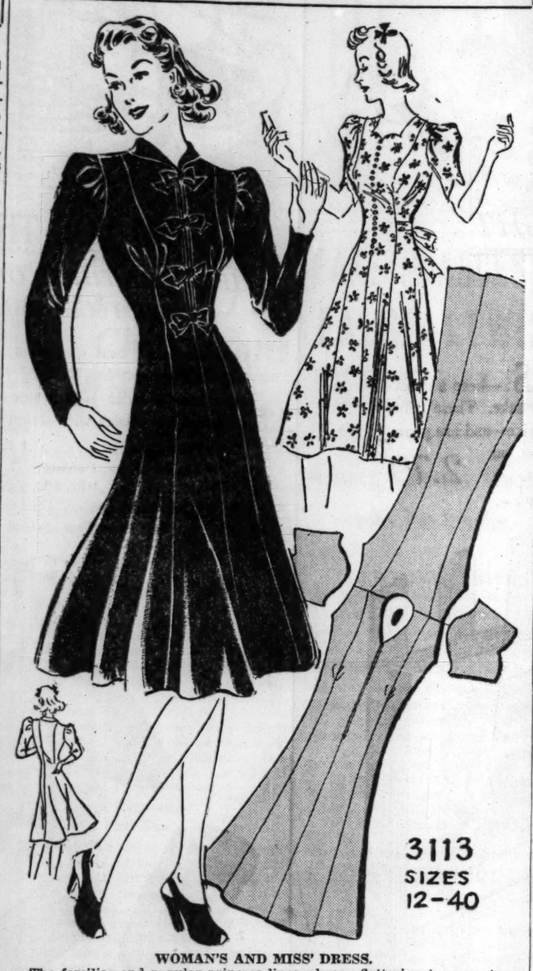
Princess Dress, New Version



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The familiar and popular princess lines, always flattering to many types of figure, are given new smartness in this midwinter fashion. The desirable silhouette line is not tampered with, but there are bows or buttons for variety. Sketched in the larger figure is a version made of crêpe, woolen, or velvet. There is a small rolled collar, puffed sleeves that fit snugly in the forearm, and a quartet of bows for a dressy finish. Illustrated at the upper right is a style for southern wear, one that is so simple you might wish to have it for household wear up north during the remainder of the winter. It has a heart shaped neckline and bows for trimming.

Style No. 3113 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the fall and winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Keeping the Feet Well Groomed Is Beauty Asset

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

So much has been said and written about the importance of keeping the hands well groomed, because well-cared-for hands are one of woman's foremost beauty assets. But little has been mentioned about the importance of keeping the feet well groomed. This may be because feet are not on display. Usually, it is only when feet give trouble because they have been neglected that women suddenly realize that more attention must be given them if they are to serve their purpose well. Even painful corns, calluses and bunions will give less trouble if the feet are given a pedicure once or twice a week.

The pedicure we're going to tell you about is very simple, and takes little time out of the life of the busiest person. For 10 minutes soak your feet in warm, soapy water, then dry each foot thoroly, giving special attention to the area between the toes. Trim your toe nails with clippers instead of scissors, being careful not to clip down at the corners, for this encourages ingrowing toenails. After cutting the nails, apply oil or cuticle cream all over the toes and massage it into the skin. Next, with the end of an orangewood stick wrapped in cotton, gently remove the dead cuticle. Then remove the cotton and twist a thin strand of fresh cotton around the end of the stick, dip it in soapy water, then peroxide, and run it under the nail tip.

Should you wish polished nails, you can use either a paste polish [buffed on] or a liquid polish. Finally, a five-minute massage with a foot cream, with the surplus cream wiped off, and the dusting of your feet with an antiseptic foot powder, will make your feet feel like "new." Should they need the attention of a specialist, we urge you to go to one without further delay.

Feb. 3. Miss Mechem is the John C. Mechems' daughter. Mr. Smith's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Russell Simth of Gloucester, Mass.

Miss Harriet Daughaday to Be Bride Thursday.

John Morris Miller Jr., whose marriage to Miss Harriet Daughaday is to take place on Thursday, is arriving today from New York in time to attend the last of many prenuptial parties.

The Stewart Boals and the Philip W. Moores are entertaining for Miss Daughaday and Mr. Miller this afternoon, and this evening Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kelly and their daughter, Miss Marjorie, will have a dinner for them.

Tomorrow Mrs. Hamilton Daughaday will give a spinster luncheon at the Indian Hill club for her daughter, while Mr. Daughaday will be host to the men at luncheon at the University club. That evening Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Daughaday's sister, will give the bridal dinner at her home in Glencoe.

The wedding ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock on Thursday in the Winnetka Congregational church. Miss Anne Daughaday, who is arriving today from Mount Holyoke college, will be her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Marion Daughaday, a cousin; Miss Helen Robinson of Lexington, Mass., Miss Marjorie Kelly, and Miss Ann Jenkins.

Plan Only Short Wedding Trip.

The best man for Mr. Miller will be Whitney Landon of Llewellyn Park, N. Y. The ushers will be Hamilton and Tom Daughaday, the bride's brothers; Robert Dumper, and William Harris of Basking Ridge, N. J., a cousin of Mr. Miller's.

Mr. Miller and his bride will go on a short wedding trip and spend Christmas in Newark, N. J., where they plan temporarily to make their home.

The parties for Debutante Anne Daughaday will continue thru the holidays. Among those which have been arranged are a tea-dance which Miss Carol Letts and her fiancé, David D. Dayton, are giving on Friday and a luncheon which Dr. and Mrs. C. Anderson Aldrich will give on the 28th at the Indian Hill club.

Mrs. George Trevor is entertaining at cocktails tomorrow night for Miss Jeanne McCartan and her fiancé, John T. Connery II. Miss McCartan and Mr. Connery will be married Dec. 26.

Alanson Donalds Have Daughter.

Margaret Brittingham Reid Donald, who was born on Sunday at the Passavant hospital, has been named for her mother, Mrs. Alanson Donald, and grandmother, Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, "and for lots of her aunts," according to her pretty young mother.

Mrs. Donald's sister, Mrs. Russell T. Foster, came from Cleveland Heights, O., to greet the new arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Reid are hoping that Mr. Foster will join them for over Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Donald live in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Westray Battle Hazzard [Ruth Harvey] became the parents of their first child, a son, on Dec. 15 in Greensboro, N. C. Mrs. Hazzard's mother, Mrs. Arlington C. Harvey, went south to greet her grandson, who has been named Westray Harvey. Mrs. Harvey will remain in Greensboro until Jan. 15. Mr. Harvey and Helen Harvey will spend Christmas there.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holman Faust of Evanston announce the birth of their third child, Paul Jr., on Nov. 16. The baby was born soon after his mother was taken to the Evanston hospital with pneumonia, hence the delay in announcing his birth. Both mother and baby are doing well now, and have returned to their home to spend Christmas with Mr. Faust and Marianne, 5½, and Judith, who is almost 2.

Embroidery for Bedspread

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Milwaukeeans have been fortunate for the last two winters to have had duplicate contract play and instruction under Culbertson instructors at the public school social center. The 'missus' and I as partners, with another couple, were initiated into public duplicate play thru this medium, and have been enthusiastic boosters ever since.

"Every once in a while we four meet for practice, reserving the right to hold postmortems galore.

"Last night the following deal came up:

"West, dealer.
"Neither side vulnerable.
"Match-point duplicate.

♥ 10 3 2
♦ J 9 4

WEST
♠ K Q 9 6 5 2
♥ K 5
♦ A 10 8 5

EAST
♠ A J 7 4
♥ A Q J 8
♦ K Q 2
♣ Q 4

SOUTH
♠ 10 3
♥ 9 7 6 4
♦ 7 6 3
♣ K 10 8 2

"Actual bidding went as follows:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

"After the deluge, South having opened the club deuce, I, sitting East, certainly was a vulnerable target for a furious blast of 'postmortems.'

"We would like to have your correct version of how this hand would have been bid by a master pair.

"As a matter of explanation, the 'missus,' sitting West is, as a rule, a better bidder than offense player as declarer. My contention is that the four diamond bid by West announced to me something better than just the two and one-half honor tricks actually held, and as a result I felt certain the ace of clubs, or at least the king, was in the West hand.

"Six spades are cold, but, playing this as a duplicate hand [and being afraid my partner would pass a five spade bid], I felt six no trump would bring a good 'top,' or tie for top.

"Should West bid three or four spades instead of four diamonds? Should East consider the four diamond bid as showing extra values in honor tricks? R. S., Milwaukee."

East's contention that West's four diamond bid showed "something better than the two and one-half honor tricks actually held" has sound logic back of it, but unfortunately does not justify East's six no trump bid. East overlooked the fact that "something better" may be distributional, as well as additional honor tricks or fractions thereof. I am not upholding West's bidding. Three spades, not four diamonds, was the correct rebid—but suppose West had held five spades to the K Q, the K 5 of hearts, and five diamonds to the A J 10? Then West's four diamond bid would have been correct [or, at least, not to be condemned] and East's six no trump still would have met the horrible fate it did meet.

Thus, since East could not obtain confirmation of at least an auxiliary club stopper in his partner's hand, he should have been satisfied with six spades. Incidentally, in the average duplicate game a pair need not fear for its match-point score if it bids and makes a slam. Also, incidentally, North's double of six no trump was pretty bad, depending as it did on South's holding of the club king, a card which North had no earthly right to count on.

Tomorrow's Hand

Getting a Job and Holding It Are Different

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Getting a job is one thing. Holding it is another. And it often is harder to keep than to get a job, according to Clara Belle Thompson and Margaret Lukes Wise, who tell their own experiences in getting and keeping jobs.

In the following bit of advice to girls and older women, appearing in the official organ for the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, our two authorities offer a few rules to be followed by those who wish to keep their jobs and go on from there.

Certain personal traits, disposition flaws, and personality omissions and commissions are listed. Nice, easy ways to lose a job are talking too much, arguing, being sensitive to any and all slights, being lackadaisical, telling the boss why things cannot be done, being late, wasting time, and never seeing anything thru.

A few of the things commended to set you right are being alert, making your face come alive when the chief comes into your office, looking interested when he talks, rejoicing with him when a big order comes in, being concerned when something goes wrong, and getting busy, doing something about it if you can.

Being adaptable is viewed as the quality worth while in these turbulent days of job holding. If you are adaptable you are as sure of being kept on as one can be. This goes for workers of any age, but for those over forty especially. You may know if you are not adaptable if you are guilty of saying: "They'll have to take me as I am." "I never was one for ——." "That's not in my department." Looking backward, living in the past, insisting on prerogatives, being set in one's ways all add up to inadaptibility.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This is a banner Christmas for bath glorifiers. Ask the girls who sell them. The weary workers behind the cosmetic counters will tell you that colognes, dusting powders, and related bath trimmings are among their "best sellers."

There's no reason for such popularity. It's that all women, regardless of age, temperament or station in life, love to dress up the dreary ritual of the daily scrubbing with a touch of luxury.

Fortunately, luxury doesn't come high in these days. You can get a lot of it for a little money. There is, for example, one box of bath powder that's a feast for the eyes and a treat for the user. It's a delightfully feathery powder, in two fragrances. You can have your choice of a rather sweet, romantic scent called "floral caprice," or, if you prefer a fresh, crisp scent to one with the attar-of-roses touch, there's a charming one called "memory of heather." It's as lovely as the name is unusual.

The base of the large round box is pink, in a finely quilted effect and the cover of the whole box is transparent, so that this pink band and the very fat puff are visible. It will resist bathroom moisture and the very sight of it—to say nothing of the joy of dusting one's frame with its lastingly scented contents—will give pleasure for months. It will arrive wrapped in gift wrapping, too.

Or, if the person for whom you're shopping is a cologne fan, you might consider another bath set by the same maker in the same two fragrances. There are "stand-up" sets [smaller boxes of bath powder and handsome bottles of cologne set upright in pink lidded boxes] that make stunning, much-admired and not expensive gifts.

EAST ALL-STAR TEAM DRILLS, STARTS WEST

22 Assemble in Evanston.

Twenty-two of the leading football players from 15 midwestern and eastern colleges assembled at Northwestern university yesterday for their first workout as members of the East All-Star squad which will meet the West All-Stars in the Shrine hospital benefit game in San Francisco New Year's day.

The squad, the 13th to make the annual trek to the Pacific coast, got together for the first time at luncheon in the Georgian hotel in Evanston. After greeting each other and meeting Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate, Fred Swan of Temple, and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, the players went to Patten gymnasium where they donned uniforms.

Last night the team started westward and will stop for light drills in Grand Island, Neb., and Ogden, Utah, en route.

Pro Owners Look On.

Among the interested spectators at yesterday's practice were George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, and Charley Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals. A number of the players on the squad are under contract to the two Chicago teams and Halas and Bidwill were anxious to get a first hand look at their new acquisitions.

Universities represented on the squad are Northwestern, Minnesota, Illinois, Purdue, Notre Dame of the midwest; Columbia, Temple, Holy Cross, Pittsburgh, Brown, and New York U. of the east; Duke, North Carolina State, and Alabama of the south.

The squad follows:

ENDS—Bob Daly, Northwestern; Bill Kerr, Notre Dame; Willard Perdue, Duke; Francis Stulgaitis, Columbia.

TACKLES—Win Pedersen, Minnesota; Walt Merrill, Alabama; Ed Coon, North Carolina State; Ed Kolman, Temple.

GUARDS—Mel Brewer, Illinois; Jim Turner Holy Cross; Ed McGee, Temple.

CENTERS—John Haman, Northwestern; Steve Andrako, Ohio State.

BACKS—Benny Kish, Pittsburgh; Steve Sitko, Notre Dame; Lou Brock, Purdue; Dick Cassiano, Pittsburgh; John McLaughry, Brown; Ed Boell, New York university; Ronnie Cahill, Holy Cross; George Stirnweiss, North Carolina; George McAfee, Duke.

Captains or co-captains of 11 college teams are included in the roster. They are Pedersen of Minnesota, Cassiano and Kish of Pittsburgh, Stulgaitis of Columbia, Stirnweiss of North Carolina, Brewer of Illinois, McGee of Temple, Merrill of Alabama, Andrako of Ohio State, McLaughry of Brown, Cahill and Turner of Holy Cross, and Boell of New York U.

Only 13 Linemen.

The coaching staff declined to name first and second teams at such an early date in the training period, but divided the squad into two teams to accommodate photographers who asked for a look at battle formations. The only catch to this procedure was the fact that only 13 linemen were available, so Jim Turner of Holy Cross, a guard, posed with both elevens.

One team consisted of Daly [Northwestern] and Kerr [Notre Dame], ends; Merrill [Alabama] and Coon [North Carolina State], tackles; Brewer [Illinois] and Turner, guards; Andrako [Ohio State], center; Sitko [Notre Dame], Brock [Purdue], Boell [New York U.], Cassiano [Pittsburgh], and Stirnweiss [North Carolina], backs.

The other lineup was: Stulgaitis [Columbia] and Perdue [Duke], ends; Kolman [Temple] and Pedersen [Minnesota], tackles; McGee [Temple] and Turner, guards; Haman [Northwestern], center; McAfee [Duke], Kish [Pittsburgh], McLaughry [Brown], and Cahill [Holy Cross], backs.

Jones' Pals Invite 13 Chicagoans

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Thirteen Chicagoans are included in the select list of 84 players who will be invited to the seventh annual Masters' golf tournament, to be played April 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the Augusta, Ga., National Golf club. The Masters' is no come-one, come all-function, ranking as the most exclusive events in sport, since none is permitted to compete except by a special bid, based on actual performance.

The Chicago delegation which will join Robert T. Jones Jr. in his only appearance of the year includes Tommy Armour of Medinah; Johnny Bulla, unattached; Harry Cooper of Northmoor; George Dawson of Glen Oak; Art Doering of Medinah; Charles Evans Jr. of Edgewater; Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake; Robert A. Gardner of Shoreacres; Jock Hutchison of Glen View; Dick Metz of Oak Park; Johnny Revolta of Evanston; Horton Smith of Oak Park, and Wilford Wehrle of Tam O'Shanter.

It Takes a Reputation to Get to First Tee.

You don't drive up to the ancient club house of the Augusta National course and just post your entry fee. You must have won one of the world's major championships, or have won a place on either the Walker or Ryder cup teams.

Of course, all former winners of the Masters' itself are automatically members of the all-star cast which plays in the big show each spring. This includes Horton Smith, who has won it twice; Gene Sarazen, author of the epic 1935 double eagle; Henry Picard, 1939 national pro victor; Byron Nelson, this year's national and western open champ, and Ralph Guldahl, who came thru last spring.

Two More to Be Named During Winter Circuit.

Invitations also are extended to the following: all American open, amateur and professional champions, all British open and amateur winners; members of the Ryder and Walker cup squads; the first 30 players in the 1939 Masters' event; the first 30 finishers in the national open; the last eight players in both the national amateur and P. G. A.

In addition to these, the two professionals who establish the best scoring records, and not on the above list, during the forthcoming winter circuit also are invited. The committee for the 1940 tournament is introducing another feature. It will poll all former national amateur champions for their choice of a single amateur who may not have been invited to the tournament, and will do likewise with one professional, after a vote among former open champions.

Bulla and Wehrle, the latter being the present Chicago district titleholder, are being invited by reason of having finished within the first 30 players in the national open. Dawson and Doering drew bids because of their performances in the last national amateur tournament.

FAKE CHARGES FALSE, LEWIS REPEATS AT QUIZ

Admits Chicago Meeting with Joe Jacobs.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Nate Lewis, one time manager of Harry Thomas, heavyweight fighter who confessed he participated in fake fights and charged arrangements were made by Lewis and Joe Jacobs, former manager of Max Schmeling, emphatically denied Thomas' accusation yesterday afternoon. The three and a half hour investigation in the offices of the Illinois Athletic commission was adjourned with Lewis' questioning by Edwin T. Breen, first assistant attorney general, still unfinished. Lewis will return voluntarily to the stand Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

After newspaper articles and a copy of the contract for the fight between Thomas and Schmeling, which was held Dec. 13, 1937, and which Thomas charged was pre-arranged at a meeting in the Drake hotel in October, 1937, had been submitted as exhibits by Lewis' attorney, State Senator Abe Marovitz, Lewis was sworn. In a prepared statement which he read, Lewis said Thomas' charges that he was supposed to lose to Schmeling and to Tony Galento [Dec. 14, 1938, in Philadelphia] were "definitely untrue."

Recalls Schmeling Bout.

Lewis answered specific questions in denial that either the Thomas-Schmeling or the Thomas-Galento fight was faked. He thought Thomas had made an exceptional effort against Schmeling before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the bout in the eighth round. According to Lewis, a cut in Thomas' lower lip which required eleven stitches to close was reason for defeat. Lewis admitted that Thomas' fight with Galento was a bad bout for the customers but explained it by Thomas' poor condition and Galento's illness a few months before the match. Lewis denied this match was fixed and said Thomas "lied again."

Lewis' denial, while given in detail, followed the general pattern of his account as published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Oct. 30 the same morning that Thomas' charges were printed.

Denies Extra Payment.

Thomas received 10 per cent of the net receipts of the Schmeling match, Lewis said. After $2,006.45, which had been advanced by the Twentieth Century Sporting club, had been deducted, Lewis testified he cashed the promoter's check for $4,451.64. Thomas received his share and an accounting in a room in the Piccadilly hotel in New York, Lewis said and he added,

When the announcer in the game at Valparaiso recently made known: "Pope is now in the Notre Dame lineup," a wild eyed Valpo fan, leaping to his feet, shouted, "Holy smoke, have they got him at Notre Dame too." . . . At least that's the story forwarded by Helper Henry McCormick of Madison, who said the anecdote was reported by Coach Bud Foster of Wisconsin. . . . Don Canham of Oak Park, Ill., Michigan's No. 1 high jumper, has switched to Dave Albritton's straddle style jump and already has bettered his previous high of 6 feet 5 inches. . . . Sonnet to a Young Son.

As I look down on you in your sweet sleep
My heart swells with exultant pride to know
That you are mine—all mine! How can I keep My full heart whole and have the beating slow!
How smooth and shining is your tawny hair;
[In stories children always have damp curls
That cluster on their neck—but I don't care—
I think that curly locks are more for girls.]

You are the only thing on all this earth
That I can claim—can truly call my own;
Your glowing eyes, your everlasting mirth,
Your chubby, clinging arms are mine alone.
And so thru grief and joy I go along
Chanting triumphantly an endless song.

ILLINOIS DEALS PRINCETON FIVE FIRST LOSS, 41-25

Indiana's Speedy Attack Routs Pitt, 51-35.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 18 [Special].—Illinois dealt Princeton its first loss of the basketball season tonight, 41 to 25. The Tigers started well, but faltered in the second period after trailing, 24 to 15, at the half.

Neither team was hitting its shots consistently. John Meyerholz, who led the Tiger scoring with eight points, took the opening tip-off and scored, and Princeton held the lead until a basket by Vic Wukovits, Illinois center, put the Illini in front after 15 minues had elapsed.

INDIANA, 51; PITT, 35

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 18 [Special].—Indiana university's fast breaking basketball team tonight registered its fourth straight nonconference triumph in defeating the University of Pittsburgh, 51 to 35. The Hoosiers have averaged a fraction of a point less than 50 per game.

Coach Branch McCracken made plenty of substitutions, a dozen men getting into the lineup before half time, when Indiana led, 28 to 22.

Capt. Marvin Huffman made three consecutive field goals in his first three attempts of the game. Bill Menke, who was fourth in the conference scoring race last year, paced the Hoosiers with 13 points. Sam Milanovich, guard, was high for Pitt with seven points.

Fenwick and Loyola Preps Reach Finals

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Fenwick beat Leo, 26 to 25, and Loyola turned back St. Rita, 30 to 26, in the semi-finals of the sixth annual St. George invitational tournament last night. The winners will meet this evening for the championship.

Fenwick happens to be in the final round for this reason: When Frank Merriwell plays on the same team with the Rover Boys you have a combination that's pretty hard to beat.

Several young men from Oak Park united their efforts last night in a production entitled "Frank Merriwell at Fenwick, or the Rover boys on the basketball floor." George Elder took the rôle of the dashing young Merriwell. His teammates, Jack Giroux, Jack Payette, and others, were cast as the Rover boys, all of them playing for Fenwick High school.

Last Minute Rally.

After losing their lead in the third quarter and continuing to trail as the fourth period wore on, they apparently were licked as time grew shorter and shorter. In the last 30 seconds of play, however, they scored two baskets, the last one being in the air as the gun went off. Of course it was none other than our young hero, George Frank Merriwell Elder, who let that one go for the winning points. Rover boy No. 1, more familiarly known as Jack Giroux, was the fellow who had brought his team within striking distance with that field goal 30 seconds before the final gun.

You may imagine, gentle reader, the scene that ensued as the timekeeper's gun blasted off while not only the ball but also young Merriwell-Elder that is, was still in the air. To coin a phrase, pandemonium broke loose. It becomes necessary to draw the

U. S. C. DEFEATS DEMONS, 44-42, IN EXTRA PERIOD

Ramblers Beaten by Carnegie, 45-36.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The score was tied 12 times—the last time at 40 to 40. Then Southern California and De Paul went into an overtime period of five minutes before a roaring throng of 6,000, who came to see the inaugural program of college basketball double headers in the Coliseum last night.

And when the extra period had ended the Trojans had snapped De Paul's victory march, 44 to 42. Dale Sears, Southern California's veteran center, opened the extra period scoring, but it was fitting that Ralph Vaughn, left handed forward, should score the goal that decided the game. Vaughn raced across in front of the backboard to hook in the final field goal and his ninth of the evening.

Needed All of Them.

This four point margin proved just sufficient to insure victory as Stan Szukals, De Paul captain, hit from far out. Only 35 seconds remained, however, and except for Ed Norris' shot from behind midcourt as the final gun sounded, Southern California was not in danger.

In the first game Carnegie Tech defeated Loyola, 45 to 36, leading, 20 to 16, at the half. The Ramblers made a splendid fight, but the Scots' ball handling was superior, and whatever chance Loyola might have had was lost when Capt. George Wenskus was sent from the game on personals midway in the second half.

They Were Well Matched.

There was little to choose between Southern California and De Paul. Indeed, the Blue Demons might easily have won except for Lou Possner's failure 25 seconds before the end of the regulation game. With the score tied at 40-all, Possner pivoted around his guard under the backboard. He missed the shot, but Keith Lambert fouled him and Umpire Bill Haarlow awarded Possner two penalty shots.

After time out Possner stepped to the line and missed both throws. Either point might have won, and certainly De Paul should have won if Possner had scored on the first and De Paul then had declined the second and taken possession of the ball out of bounds.

It's Touch and Go.

That failure adequately measures the game, since a score of times in the stretch victory could have been secured by either quintet.

Possner led De Paul, however, with 13 points. But it was the spectacular shooting of Vaughn that overshadowed the offensive play of both teams, Vaughn hit five times in the opening half, all except one from far out. He came back with four more. Only Sears, whose play under the backboard was invaluable to the Trojans, rivaled Vaughn's performance.

De Paul opened with a rush, but Southern California tied at 4 to 4. Again De Paul went ahead, but the Trojans matched each burst and finally passed the Demons to lead 14 to 13. Twice more, however, the score was deadlocked before the Trojans led at the intermission 19 to 18, Jack Lippert shooting the final point after a foul committed in the last second of play.

Point on Point.

De Paul fell behind three points in the second half before blazing thru with a rally and a 28 to 23 lead. Then it was the Trojans' turn. They tied the count and then led, 30 to 28. Tied at 33 to 33, Southern California opened up a five point gap, 38 to 33. Skrodzki scored a goal and then Gainer intercepted a Trojan pass and scored under the board. He was fouled by Lippert

TOP WEIGHT FOR HANDICAP GOES TO SEABISCUIT

Assigned 130 Pounds in $100,000 Race.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 18 (AP).—Seabiscuit, training for a turf comeback and a fourth chance at the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, was assigned top weight of 130 pounds in imposts announced today for the mile and one-quarter event of March 2.

Weighted just behind was the ex-stake champion's stablemate of the Charles S. Howard string, Kayak II., at 129 pounds. Next came W. L. Brann's Challedon, pride of Maryland, at 128.

Cravat Gets No. 4 Rating.

Other candidates and their weight assignments included Cravat, 122; Dauber, 120; Sun Lover, 119; Ra II, South American importation, 118, and Specify, 116, but attention was centered on the "big three" nominees of the race, Seabiscuit, Kayak II, and Challedon.

Challedon defeated Kayak II in the Pimlico Special this year, but the Howard horse, winner of the 1939 Santa Anita handicap, carried 126 pounds to Challedon's 120. The imposts are regulation scale weights for March, 1940, for the soon to be five year old Kayak and four year old Challedon.

Seabiscuit Doubtful Starter.

Seabiscuit went lame last February and did not go postward in the Santa Anita. He had been assigned 134 pounds. Kayak won, with 110 pounds aboard. Whether Seabiscuit will get up to the race remains to be seen.

No official word has been received from Brann as to whether he will send Challedon, voted the outstanding 3 year old of 1939, to Santa Anita or Florida. Santa Anita opens its sixth meeting Dec. 30.

TONKAWA gained a good position, kept fairly close to the early pace and, coming strong thru the stretch, under hard driving, disposed of MATCHLESS and was safe from LADY ARLINGTON. Latter, far back early, moved up with a steady rush in the last half mile and was getting to the winner. MATCHLESS weakened after setting the early pace. OUACHITA closed a gap. MOLASSES BILL, well ridden, disposed of PAL O'SWEEP after a mile and, opening a lead, outstayed CYNICAL. Latter, going in her best form, closed strong in the stretch and just failed to get up. FANFUN refused to extend herself early but closed with a rush. STELLA MC weakened. SNUG saved much ground and had no excuses. SAFE AND SOUND raced poorly.

MASCOT, alertly handled, was hustled into the lead at once and held on gamely the bring in the final drive and outstayed DEEPDENE. Latter raced in close quarters in the turn, was blocked in the stretch and finished well. BUSSE TRUMPET, badly outrun early, lost some ground and moved up stoutly in the stretch in spite of his impost. SNAP CLOCK finished with a rush. MY LAWYER never entered contention. JAY D. BANE and SHINING SUN quit badly.

SIXTH RACE—Purse $700. Claiming. Three year olds and up. One mile and 70 yards. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:29½. At post 3½ minutes. ST. MORITZ set the pace under snug restraint, shook off HENRYEL'S PICK and, responding to call, moved away from the challenge of SIDOUT. Latter, probably best at the handicap weights, moved up with a rush in the stretch, but was weakly handled at the end. UNDULATE, outrun early, lost ground and closed fast. WARINGA, far back early, closed a big gap. The others did not enter into it.

OUT OF FIRE, well up early, claurks LADY BALLET tiring in the stretch and, taking command, was safe from MONTELL. Latter made up much ground, closed gamely after showing a good effort. SUN WINE always was far back. TOWSON quit badly after half a mile.

Pete Miller, president of the Illinois Skating association, announced the ice racing dates for the coming season last night after the board of control arranged the schedule to the satisfaction of all clubs sponsoring derbies. Looking ahead to a cold wave before Jan. 1, it was decided to start the schedule on Saturday, Dec. 30, with the Catholic Order of Foresters program. The next day, Dec. 31, was allotted to the Catholic Youth Organization and the Chicago city championships are set for New Year's day, Jan. 1 and will be sponsored by the Northwest Skating club.

CHIOZZA'S LEG HEALED; HE'LL BE GOOD AS EVER

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 18 (AP).—Lou Chiozza, fleet New York Giant infielder, grinned broadly today after physicians assured him he would be "just as good as ever" when the baseball season comes around next spring.

"Sure, I'm going to be ready to play," Lou beamed when doctors let him remove a heavy leather and metal brace which supported the leg which was broken in a game in the Polo grounds last July.

For the present, Chiozza must walk 10 miles a day. In a few weeks, doctors said, he'll be able to jog a bit.

He suffered the broken leg in a collision with outfielder Joe Moore while chasing a Texas leaguer into the outfield.

Sonja Henie and Skating Company Arrive for Show

Sonja Henie and the 1940 Hollywood ice revue arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon for a series of rehearsals before the opening of the show in the Stadium Sunday night. Performances will be given thru New Year's day. The troupe which included more than 100 skaters, musicians, and others connected with the show arrived by special train at Union station where Miss Henie was greeted by motion picture and skating fans.

Miss Henie, three times Olympic champion, will be first on the ice today when rehearsals begin in the Stadium. The technical department will start arranging the elaborate settings needed in presenting the show today and immediately after the hockey game between the Blackhawks and the Maple Leafs on Thursday night property men will begin preparing the ice surface for the performance.

UNBEATEN N. U. QUINTET MEETS PRINCETON NEXT

Tigers Invade Patten Gym Tomorrow Night.

Northwestern's undefeated basketball team will seek its fourth victory tomorrow night when it meets Princeton in Patten gymnasium. The game will be the first ever played between the two schools.

A big delegation of Princeton alumni and undergraduates home for the Christmas holidays will be on hand to greet the Tigers on their first western invasion in many years. Princeton is coached by Franklin (Cappy) Cappon, former basketball coach at Michigan. He joined the Tigers' staff two years ago and has turned out one of the leading quintets in the Eastern Intercollegiate league.

Princeton's Good, Too.

Princeton has a veteran squad of seven lettermen, three of whom were regulars last year. The team won its first four games this season, defeating Lehigh, Rutgers, Colgate, and Toledo.

Northwestern's rapidly improving cuhlet turned in its best performance of the season when it defeated a strong Pittsburgh team, 39 to 33, Saturday night. The Wildcats had the stamina to overcome Pitt's first half lead.

Most encouraging feature of the victory was the marksmanship of Les Harman, veteran forward, who scored six field goals and two free throws, in earlier games this season, most of the Wildcat scoring had been contributed by the guards and centers.

Harman Wins Regular Job.

Harman's shooting against Pitt definitely establishes him as a regular starter. The other forward position is a free for all between Don Kruger, Henry Clason, Chuck Melchoir, and others.

The other starting positions appear to be clinched by Dick Klein, sophomore center, and Capt. Vance and Bob Shepard, guards. The latter was the second high scorer against Pitt with four field goals and four free throws. Altho Klein was held to three field goals against Pitt he is still the team's leading scorer as a result of the 17 points he contributed against Washington State.

Fenwick and Loyola Preps Reach Finals

curtain across the happenings of the next few minutes and leave them to the imagination of the reader.

Loyola Leads Early.

When the curtain rose again the Loyola and St. Rita teams were beginning their semifinal game and before it was up for very long the north side boys had run up a 6 to 0 advantage.

Before the first half was over, however, St. Rita players began to click, cutting their opponents' advantage to 15 to 14. Thruout the third period Loyola gradually drew away, tho the guarding on both teams was close. The north siders were leading, 24 to 17, as they went into the last quarter and promptly increased this to 25 to 17. Then St. Rita made a strong bid with a couple of long shots by Bill Sims, another basket by Bill Pataska, and a free throw by Murney, while Loyola was being held to a free throw. This cut the score to 27 to 23.

In the closing stages, however, two free throws by Bernie Heinen and a basket by Charlie Mennes gave Loyola a safe margin. Lineups:

SCHAMBERGER SCHLITZES BOWL ANOTHER RECORD

The Schamberger Schlitz quintet, which last week set an all-time series record of 3,458 in the North End Traveling league, shattered another mark last night at the North Town Recreation. Its score of 1,235 to complete another sensational series of 3,357 was a league record for a single game. The old record of 1,228 was set Feb. 17, 1930, by the Baby Ruths.

Ted Hjort's 705 paced the Schlitz bowlers and was high individual series for the evening. The Schlitz, however, won only two games from the Koenigs, while second place Pepsi Colas took three from the Jolly Jacks and cut the Schlitz's first place margin to two games. Scores:

Schlitz	962	1160	1235—3,357
Koenigs	992	964	970—2,926
Jolly Jacks	955	1018	1034—3,007
Pepsi-Colas	1034	1034	1088—3,156

Loyola Takes Lead.

Loyola scored the first field goal of the game, and a few minutes later came from behind to tie the score at 4 to 4, but for the remainder of the half the Ramblers fought an uphill battle. Carnegie led, 12 to 5, but successive goals by Schell and Graham cut that to a three point advantage.

Carnegie increased its lead to five points on Patton's second field goal and then went ahead, 18 to 12, after which Graham scored from close in for Loyola. Successive free throws by Tumpane and Stark restored Carnegie's six point lead, but Cahill counted from under for a half time score of 20 to 16 in favor of the visitors.

Stark scored a free throw, and after Tumpane hit from far out on the court, followed up another shot and Carnegie led, 25 to 16. Graham then touched off a Loyola rally, and while Burch was scoring twice for Carnegie the Ramblers sprinted to trail only 29 to 25.

Capt. Wenskus of Loyola committed his fourth personal with eleven minutes to go and Krzeminski replaced him. Tumpane's free throw made the score 33 to 28. Carnegie then rushed ahead to lead, 40 to 29, and maintained its advantage the remainder of the way.

A Visit to Santa Claus.

The parade of little children as they take a step—then pause—
On their annual trip to greet him—
plump, gay, old Santa Claus—
Fills me with Christmas spirit too
As each timid, trusting voice
Petitions good St. Nick to bring
The gifts of childhood's choice.
The rich and poor alike are there;
each eager to relate
How teeth he'd brushed, and chores
he'd done,
And every night at eight his prayers
he'd say
And into bed he'd climb at mom's command,
Lest Santa Claus this year would skip
Her precious little man.

Then slowly from his lap he'd slip
As Santa closed his book,
And, clasping mother's hand again,
He'd turn for one last look.
Undaunted faith, you'd call this scene,
Confidence undefiled—
The same as led the three wise men
To the humble, newborn Child.
So we who've passed that precious span
Of childhood's carefree days,
Should bow and thank on bended knee
Him . . . for Christmas day.

BUDGE AND RIGGS PLAY TOMORROW IN NET EXHIBITION

Don Budge, world's professional tennis champion who is preparing for another whirl on the winter indoor circuit, provides Chicago tennis fans with an outstanding attraction tomorrow when he meets Bobby Riggs of Chicago, the youngster who succeeded him as the No. 1 amateur, in a three set exhibition match in the 108th Engineers armory, 3401 Wentworth avenue. The match will start at 3 o'clock. Budge then will team with Frank Froehling, youthful Chicago star, in a doubles engagement against Riggs and his Davis cup partner, Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore. In the evening the players will be guests at the Chicago Tennis association's annual dinner in the Merchandise Mart.

The matches will be free to the public. Riggs and Budge last met in 1937, Budge winning in four sets. Riggs' next amateur competition will be in New Orleans during the Sugar bowl sports fest.

Lewis Again Denies Part in Fixed Fights

"I never paid Harry Thomas any additional money."

A photograph of this check was submitted to the commissioners, Chairman Joe Triner, Sheldon Clark, and J. R. Fitzpatrick.

An affidavit by Thomas, dated Oct. 30, 1939, was principal basis for yesterday's examination. Thomas' signature and the signature of a witness was verified by testimony.

Lewis said he and Thomas met with Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, in the Drake hotel in October, 1937, but said that a contract which called for Thomas to meet Schmeling in 90 days if Thomas whipped Schmeling in the first bout was the reason for Joe Jacobs' visit to Chicago. Thomas was to receive 20 per cent for this second fight, Lewis said. Lewis also testified he received approximately $1,100 personally as his share of Thomas' purse after the fight Dec. 13, 1937. Thomas received, according to Lewis, $3,300 or $3,400.

Admits Fourth Man There.

After Commissioner Clark expressed a desire to know more about the meeting in the Drake hotel questions by Attorney Breen elicited admission by Lewis that there was a fourth person in the room. Under examination last week Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, who wrote the story of Thomas' charges, had said a fourth person was present. Yesterday Lewis declined to name this person.

Leonard Hicks, Chicago hotel man and sportsman, testified yesterday that he saw the Schmeling-Thomas fight and believed it an honest effort by both men. An affidavit to this effect by Dr. Mitchell S. Corbett also was entered into the record. Communications to the commission from Arthur Donovan, referee of the Schmeling-Thomas fight, and Herman Taylor, promoter of the Thomas-Galento fight in Philadelphia, also were read. Donovan said there was absolutely no question that the bout [Thomas and Schmeling] was honestly conducted by both men. Taylor admitted the Thomas-Galento match was not satisfactory to the customers, but said it was on the level.

A telegram from Joe Jacobs received during yesterday's hearing said "Tony Galento and I absolutely deny Harry Thomas' charges."

Receipts Fall; Loyola of South Drops Football

New Orleans, La., Dec. 18 (AP).—Loyola university of the south, unable to keep up the pace of big time football, turned its gridiron into tennis courts today.

Next door, Tulane prepared to send a great team into its big stadium for the Sugar bowl game on New Year's day.

Loyola started its football history auspiciously in 1922 by defeating Louisiana State university. In 1927 Loyola took Clark Shaughnessy away from Tulane as head coach and in 1928 held Notre Dame to a 12-6 score.

But as Southeastern conference teams grew in size and power and openly awarded athletic scholarships, Loyola, a member of the Dixie conference, found it could not cope with high pressure football.

BOOSTERS PLAY CONGO QUINTET IN CHICAGO LEAGUE

Three games will be played tonight in the new Chicago Basketball league at the Queen of Angels' Guild hall, 4412 North Western avenue, with the Kokot Boosters meeting the Club Congo in the feature contest at 9 o'clock. The Kokot team is the former Holy Rosary [Italian] parish five and C. Y. O. semifinalist last year.

Utah Radio will meet the McCarthy-Gillespie team in the opening game at 8 o'clock, and Northern Paints will oppose Krisky Service at 10 o'clock.

Edgewater Press, 1939 church champions, has been granted a franchise, increasing the league membership to 12 teams. In addition to Tuesday and Friday nights, games also will be played on Saturdays.

OYEZ! A 1949 GAMBLING CASE IS TRIED BY BAR

Annual Show Pokes Fun at Municipal Court.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Women jurors and the judges and procedure of the Chicago Municipal court were lampooned last night as the Chicago Bar association gave its 15th annual production, "Christmas Spirit of 1939," in its rooms at 29 South La Salle street. The show, which will be repeated tonight, is built around the trial of a gambling case 10 years hence.

The opening scene is a courtroom, beribboned and filled with potted plants, so that it resembles a boudoir. Three jury commissioners usher in the jury, three men and three women. Judge McNasty [played by John D. Black] enters and, after throwing compliments to the women, opens the case.

The girls [William H. Murphy, Thomas L. Owens, and Clarence R. Conklin] haven't yet been accepted as jurors, but this formality is quickly completed.

A Singing Jury.

Then they sing to the tune of "The Glowworm":

Three dainty jurors cases trying,
Legal procedure purifying,
Called to render jury duty,
Wise despite our youth and beauty;
And if the dark spots should be lighted,
And if we see that wrongs are righted,
And if we show some common sense—
It's just coincidence.

The trial then gets under way quickly. Scramwell [Norman B. Eaton], a junior prosecutor, warns his seniors that the case isn't so simple. It's a gambling case, he says, adding: "Gambling cases aren't handled like other legal business." Then he sings, to the tune, "Comes Love":

Comes a client—you can analyze the case;
Comes a witness—you can set the time and place.
Comes FIX—nothing can be done.
Former cases can be cited by the score
But the merits can't compete with the old back door;
Come divorces—you can enter a decree;
Comes a contract—there's a chance to earn a fee;
Comes FIX—nothing can be done.

Defense Attorney Put On Trial.

Holstein [Henry S. Rademacher], who is the defense attorney, points out there's no defendant. Scramwell and his cohorts decide to try Holstein and his partners because they have a monopoly upon defending gamblers. "This is an outrage!" storms Holstein. "I claim my constitutional privilege against self-incrimination."

"Overruled," snaps Judge McNasty. "Who do you think you are—a municipal court judge?"

The trial breaks up when the jurors find the defendants are not guilty. Sherif Two-Gun O'Lion [Leo J. Bartoine] has been flourishing two revolvers about the stage, but he is cowed and weeps when Santa Claus suddenly appears and reminds him he got the cowboy suit last Christmas.

The skit was written by Lewis C. Murtagh.

FEDERAL CHIEFS CONSIDER MORE FARM BENEFITS

Confer Secretly at President's Order.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—A secret conference of high officials at the treasury today gave rise to reports that the administration is considering additional farm benefits.

The agricultural and fiscal officials who attended the strategy meeting were reticent on the subject of the conference, which lasted two hours. However, they said they were working on instructions from President Roosevelt.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, when asked about the meeting afterward, replied: "It concerned the President of the United States. It's his business. We were studying something for him." This was the first inkling on the "something" and there are likely to be more, Morgenthau indicated.

Wallace and Aids Attend.

The farm angle was brought into the meeting thru the presence of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and two aids, Carl B. Robbins, president of Commodity Credit corporation, and Rudolph M. Evans of the AAA. The other conferees consisted principally of the President's committee on fiscal and monetary policy, which devised the huge spend-lend program, defeated by the last regular session of congress.

Those attending included Morgenthau, Marriner Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board; Laughlin Currie, formerly Eccles' right hand man and now assistant to the President; Budget Director Harold Smith; Daniel W. Bell, assistant to Morgenthau; and Frederick Delano, chairman of the national resources committee. Morgenthau declined to say whether the meeting concerned a new processing tax plan, such as the much-discussed "certificate plan," which has been getting considerable attention from the administration.

Wallace Favors Parity Scheme.

Recently Wallace has made speeches in which he has tried to arouse interest in parity payments for farmers. He has not given his unqualified endorsement to the certificate plan, but has expressed interest in its subject with certain reservations.

It would not be difficult to sell the treasury on the idea because the scheme is supposed to be "self-liquidating," being aimed at benefiting the farmers at the cost of the general public, who would finance it invisibly.

Briefly, it would allow the farmer, with the protection of the federal government, to levy his own processing taxes for the collection of parity benefits. The treasury would not be involved. The secretary of agriculture would issue certificates directly to the farmer annually for a marketable allotment in exchange for crop control compliance.

How Scheme Would Work.

The farmer's share would be determined on a domestic average allotment basis. When he harvests his crop and sells it to the processor, the latter would be required to buy it at the market price along with the farmer's certificates, which would be worth the difference between the market price and the "parity" price fixed by congress or some other agency. The processor then could absorb the loss—more likely—pass it on to the consumer thru higher prices, just as some sales taxes are passed along.

This would tend to raise prices of agricultural commodities to consumers and would hardly be in line with present demands of the administration that industry that prices be kept down in view of the tendency to profiteer under the pretense of war conditions.

However, it is believed that the administration would welcome the plan for the reason that it would hush the farmers in a critical election year by giving them some extra pocket money and at the same time release the government from defraying the bill for parity payments, which for the 1939 crop will run about 225 million dollars.

Stuart Derides Monopoly Quiz on Investment

Harold L. Stuart.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 (AP).—A Chicago investment man who began his career at 13—when "I didn't have a dime"—applauded verbally today as monopoly committee counsel attempted to show that J. P. Morgan & Co. dominated $832,000,000 of telephone financing thru an agreement made by three men 19 years ago.

Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., told the committee: "I have learned more in the last week than I ever dreamed of about frozen accounts and securities business in the east."

Stuart was asked by Chairman O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] what was the outstanding fact he learned in a week of attending the committee's hearings on investment banking.

Divide What They Don't Own.

"It amuses me very much that the boys all divide up something they don't own," he replied. Every one laughed.

A hint of rivalry between western and eastern bankers appeared in Stuart's statement that "if we ever got any business in Chicago that New York didn't try to take away from us, I don't know when it was." He said he was told in 1934-35 that he would have to see Morgan Stanley & Co. to get any of the telephone business.

[The leadership of eastern banking firms in the security underwriting field has been challenged for many years by Halsey, Stuart & Co. The Chicago firm, one of the largest underwriting firms in the country, has surpassed its eastern rivals at times in volume of business. The firm has fought for many years to win business away from eastern companies by demanding competitive bidding on new security issues.]

Whitney Explains Division.

George Whitney, a Morgan partner, denied implications of Peter R. Nehemkis Jr., committee counsel, that the American Telephone and Telegraph company's financing account was "frozen" for 10 years by an agreement among J. P. Morgan, his partner, Henry P. Davison, and Robert Winsor of Kidder, Peabody & Co., Boston, which was made in Morgan's library May 5, 1920.

Whitney acknowledged that the distribution of business among nine banking firms remained unchanged for 10 years, with 70 per cent going to New York firms and 30 per cent to New England houses. He denied, however, that the arrangement was "unalterable" or that Morgan companies dominated the business. He said that the telephone company selected the underwriting group, choosing "a group of experts."

New Gasoline Pipe Line to Cost 5 Million

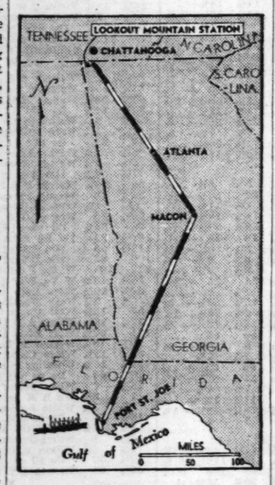
A $5,000,000 construction program, calling for the laying of 456 miles of gasoline carrying pipe line by the Southeastern Pipe Line company, was announced in Chicago yesterday by Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company. Pure Oil and the Gulf Refining company are the principal stockholders of the pipe line company.

Dawes announced that construction of the line—from Port St. Joe, Fla., to Lookout Mountain station in Georgia—will begin about the middle of January. Lookout Mountain station is near the Tennessee state line and just south of Chattanooga.

Boosts Shipping Facilities.

The project will increase the shipping facilities of Pure Oil in the southeast, where the company has an extensive outlet for its products. The line will be the first in the southeast to be used for transportation of gasoline, the announcement said.

The line will be built and operated by Southeastern which has headquarters at Atlanta. It will be of 8 inch welded pipe from Port St. Joe, on the west coast of Florida, to Atlanta. There will be a six inch connection with Lookout mountain station.



The map shows the route of new pipe line that will serve Pure Oil company.

Ocean going tankers will transport gasoline for the line to Port St. Joe from Pure Oil's Smiths Bluff refinery at Port Neches, Tex., and Gulf Refining's plant at Port Arthur, Tex. Pure Oil officials said they expect the line to be in operation early next summer.

Other Business Gains.

Signs of improved business activity also were reflected yesterday in other lines of enterprise. Two automobile companies reported large increases in sales of new or used cars.

W. E. Holler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet division of General Motors corporation, reported that Chevrolet dealers sold more used automobiles last month than in any November in the company's history. The number sold was 118,252, an increase of 18.2 per cent.

H. T. Hollingshead, president of Nash Sales, Inc., distributor of Nash cars in this area, said the company's sales in November were 115 per cent larger than a year earlier.

NOVEMBER AIR TRAVEL RUNS 46 PCT. ABOVE VOLUME OF YEAR AGO

Domestic air lines flew 60,610,808 revenue passenger miles in November, it was announced yesterday by Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, president of Air Transport Association of America. This represented an increase of 46.49 per cent over the 41,374,119 revenue passenger miles flown during November, 1938, and was the fourth largest monthly increase over 1938 to be recorded this year.

Mileage declined seasonally from the 70,221,520 miles flown during October this year, when an all-time monthly peak was established for the fifth consecutive month. Normally air travel is declining from the summer peak by October.

Travel during the first 11 months of this year topped the corresponding 1938 total by 39.57 per cent, and amounted to 612,301,467 revenue passenger miles.

FEDERAL JURY INDICTS 36 ON TRUST CHARGES

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 18 (AP).—Indictments against 36 individuals, 10 companies, and 2 unions charging conspiracy to violate the antitrust laws were returned today by a federal grand jury investigating the northern California building industry.

The indictments involved members of the San Francisco Electrical Contractors association. They charged that since January, 1938, the defendants had carried out a "wrongful and unlawful combination and conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce in electrical equipment."

They were accused of conspiring to "increase, regulate, dictate, and control" small contractors' bids.

Similar inquiries have been conducted in other parts of the country.

HEARING BEGUN ON PETITION TO KILL INSULL SUIT

Argument was begun before Federal Judge James G. Briggle yesterday on motions to dismiss the suit brought by 29 holders of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., debentures against 11 directors of the company, including Samuel Insull Jr. and H. L. Stuart.

Floyd E. Thompson, attorney for Insull and Stuart, argued that a previous settlement between banks and creditors of the corporation have outlawed the present action.

End Hearings on Plea for Gas Rate Cut

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 (AP).—The federal power commission concluded hearings today on a petition for an immediate reduction in rates on natural gas piped to the Chicago area, with instructions that were declared "perfectly unreasonable" by a gas company attorney.

The attorney, S. A. L. Morgan, told the commission it would be "physically impossible" for him to file a brief within 20 days, as the commission directed, on a record of 10,000 pages and 200 exhibits compiled during hearings which began last May.

Morgan also told the commission that its attorney, George Slaff, had misstated facts "in the recklessness and zeal of youth and in enthusiasm" while pleading for the reduction.

Interim Order Demanded.

The hearing was on a petition by the Illinois commerce commission, supported by Slaff for an "interim" order to require the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America and its subsidiary, Texoma Natural Gas company, to reduce its rates by $3,500,000. The concerns pipe gas from the Texas panhandle to the Chicago area.

Morgan challenged the commission's jurisdiction under the natural gas act to fix rates, a question the commission never has ruled upon. He objected to the commission attorney's supporting Illinois' motion for an interim order, saying this put the commission in the position of being prosecutor as well as judge.

Sold to Peoples Gas.

Most of the gas is sold to the Chicago District Pipeline company at Joliet, Ill., which resells it to the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and other distributors serving the Chicago area.

Harry R. Booth, representing the Illinois commission, argued consumers' interests were involved. Morgan said the proposed reduction would make a difference of 20 cents a month to the average consumer.

Booth told the commission the company was earning 11 to 12 per cent on its investments and that if the rates were reduced as proposed it would still earn more than 6 per cent.

Steel Output Scheduled at 90 Per Cent of Capacity

Steel mill operations this week are scheduled at 90 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity, a decrease of 1.2 points from the preceding week, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday.

TRACTOR FIRM'S PROFITS NEARLY TWICE YEAR AGO

Caterpillar Reports Large Sales Gain.

The Caterpillar Tractor company of Peoria, Ill., manufacturer of track type tractors, disclosed yesterday that its profits have nearly doubled this year. A report issued by B. C. Heacock, president, also showed a large increase in net sales this year compared with 1938.

B. C. Heacock.

Net income for the 11 months ended Nov. 30 was $5,305,573, against $2,766,376 in the corresponding period of last year. Profit in November was $564,378, compared with $344,880 in the 1938 month.

Net sales in the 11 months, Heacock said, rose to $54,295,893 from $45,024,625 in the first 11 months of last year. Net sales in November were $4,690,255, against $3,693,295.

Wilson-Jones Earnings Rise.

Wilson-Jones company, Chicago, manufacturer of loose leaf books and supplies for offices and schools, issued a quarterly report showing larger earnings than a year ago and a 6 per cent gain in net sales. The report covered the three months ended Nov. 30, the first quarter of the fiscal year.

Profit rose to $68,378 from $24,202 in the corresponding period a year earlier, and was equivalent to 25 cents a share on the capital stock, against 8 cents.

George H. Dawson, president of Wilson-Jones, said in reviewing the quarter's operations that the 6 per cent gain in net sales contrasted with a drop in the first quarter of the preceding fiscal year, when the volume was 11 per cent less than in the corresponding 1937 period.

Minneapolis-Moline Power Report.

Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company reported a slump in earnings for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. Consolidated net profit was $64,140, after deduction of $201,197 for a decline in the conversion value of foreign net current assets, and was equal to 64 cents a share on the preferred stock. In the preceding fiscal year net income was $727,032, equal to 12 cents a common share.

Sales declined to $13,445,880 from $14,630,933. The company has plants in Moline, Ill., and in Minneapolis and Hopkins, Minn.

Indianapolis Power and Light company and subsidiaries reported consolidated profit of $358,635 in the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared with $539,572 in the corresponding 1938 period.

Prices of Silk Soar 15 to 36 Cents a Pound

Silk futures featured a generally quiet day in commodity markets yesterday. Inspired by strength in Japanese markets, silk soared the permissible limit of 15 cents a pound set against daily fluctuations of all except the current delivery. December contracts, not under the restrictions, gained about 25 cents, and cash silk soared 36 cents to $4.22.

The cash commodity has advanced 70 cents a pound in the last two trading sessions, and is currently quoted at a price nearly double that of three months ago. Some traders have predicted that American importers will turn to Italian and other types of silk in preference to Japanese if the price continues to advance.

Cotton Loses Advance.

Cotton, which moved up spectacularly early last week, closed 0.14 cent a pound lower to 0.03 cent higher. An early buying wave pushed prices up, but hedging sales halted the advance. The hedging was said to be for the account of farmers who had repossessed about 250,000 bales of 1938 cotton from the government loan.

Liverpool and Alexandria, Egypt, prices advanced the permissible limits for one day. Spot cotton was slightly lower with New York at 11.33 cents a pound; New Orleans, 11.17 cents; Houston, 10.80 cents, and Galveston, 10.83 cents.

The British ministry of supply raised its fixed prices for copper, lead, and zinc slightly, but the action did not bring any substantial buying into American markets. Copper futures closed irregular, 0.02 cent a pound lower to 0.12 cent higher. Lead and zinc finished unchanged.

Rubber Futures Up Slightly.

Rubber futures advanced 0.02 to 0.15 cent a pound. Cottonseed oil and Rio coffee were also higher, while irregular trends prevailed in most other staples.

Sugar futures gained as much as 0.05 cent a pound, presumably on reports from Washington that an agreement was about to be signed with Cuba lowering the tariff on Cuban raw sugar from 1.52 cents to 0.9 cent a pound. The latter rate prevailed until President Roosevelt lifted the sugar marketing quotas during the September war boom. Traders understood the agreement involved restoration of the Cuban import quota.

WHEAT SURGES AHEAD ON NEW WAVE OF BUYING

Other Grains Join in Sharp Advance.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the May delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.09¼	$1.05¼	$ .66⅝
Corn	.59¼	.58¼	.52⅝
Oats	.39¼	.39	.28½
Rye	.76¼	.73½	.45
Soy beans.....	1.30½	1.23½	.81½

Wheat futures advanced 4 to 4¾ cents and soy beans soared 5¾ to 7¾ cents yesterday, continuing the sensational bull market which had its inception less than three weeks ago. All deliveries of grain and soy beans with the exception of December and May corn sold at new high prices for the season, with wheat, oats, and soy beans in new high ground for more than two years.

Altho waves of profit taking swept over the wheat market at time, each setback was followed by a renewal of aggressive commission house buying. Closing trades in all pits were near the top. Corn lagged but closed ⅝ to 1¼ cent higher in sympathy with wheat.

Wheat Prices Rise Swiftly.

The current upturn in wheat prices, which started on Nov. 28, has been one of the fastest in the 90 year history of the Chicago Board of Trade, brokers said. Late in November the July future sold at 84¼ cents, and in 17 business days has advanced 23¼ cents.

During the wild inflation market in June, 1933, which is the only one brokers say that compares with the present condition, the September fu-

An offering price of 104 for a proposed issue of $10,900,000 Pennsylvania Water and Power company refunding mortgage and collateral trust 3¼ per cent bonds, due 1964, was announced in an amendment to the company's registration statement.

New York Stocks.

New York, Dec. 18 (AP).—Held down by selling for income tax purposes and doubts over early 1940 business prospects, the stock market today was unable to respond to soaring wheat futures and a sprinkling of moderately optimistic business news.

The list tried for a modest rally at the start, but never got anywhere. Althe an assortment of specialties carried thru for gains running to a point or so, most leaders ended off as much.

Some of the sugar stocks, such as Cuban-American and Fajardo, moved up sizable fractions on reports an agreement would be signed soon between the United States and Cuba for a cut in the tariff on the Cuban staple.

Others to benefit by the earnings outlook included American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers B, Swift & Co., International Paper and Preferred, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Westinghouse.

Anaconda, American Smelting, International Nickel, Kennecott and St. Joseph Lead held small plus marks following announcement the British had boosted prices of copper, lead, and zinc.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 18 (AP). — United States governmen and foreign dollar bonds put on a show of moderate bullishness today while most corporate liens continued an irregular drift.

It required no great amount of bidding to raise some of the federals sharply above the previous closing prices. Treasury 2s of 1947 pushed up nearly a point on small transfers. Other maturities closed 1-32d to 15-32ds higher. Dealers reported offerings were meager.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices were mostly lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of 106 issues traded, 58 declined, 20 finished higher, and 28 showed no change. Transactions totaled 28,000 shares. Central and South West Utilities was the volume leader, with a turnover of 4,850 shares. It closed at ½, for a loss of ⅛ point.

IOWA FARMERS HIT NEW DEAL'S CROP PROGRAM

C. O. P. Committee Told Corn Belt Problems.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 18 (AP).—Former Gov. Dan W. Turner of Iowa today criticized the present AAA farm program, saying he believes it penalizes the farmer who always has practiced soil conservation measures. Turner testified at a Republican congressional "listening committee" hearing here in quest of ideas leading to a solution of the farm problem.

The committee consisted of five Iowa Republican congressmen and Representative Clifford Hope [R., Kan.]. The hearing is the sixth of seven meetings being held from Salt Lake City east thru the farm belt. A hearing was held at Springfield, Ill., last week.

At the opening session of the two day meeting here, there was a liberal sprinkling of Iowa legislators in the crowd of approximately 150.

Favors New Approach.

Turner drew the applause of the farmers' union section of the audience when he said: "If we are going to continue all this governmental paternalism, perhaps there is no way out for the farmer except to have a price fixed for him in some way." He said that in reality price fixing "was being practiced now" thru the AAA commodity loan programs.

The former governor said that journalism in government began with Alexander Hamilton. The farmers have been paying special tribute to the east in the form of high tariffs for generations, he added.

"I'm not as much against the present farm program as you might think," Turner stated. "But I do not think the farmers are receiving a fair share of the national income."

He suggested a new approach, frankly dedicated to the proposition of raising price levels, be adopted in national legislation.

Sirs Increased Production.

J. R. Howard of Clemons, Ia., former American Farm Bureau federation official, declared acreage reduction programs always have resulted in increased production.

"It is foolish to attempt to control yield thru acreage curtailment," he said. "Every mother's son of us is out trying to find a higher yielding type of hybrid corn. We haven't touched our possibilities in corn production yet.

"The biggest thing congress can do to help agriculture is to balance the budget," he declared amid applause. He termed war "the worst enemy of American agriculture."

Both Howard and State Representative Weichman [R.], Newhall, Ia., declared the mandatory blending of farm alcohol with motor vehicle fuel is an economically feasible way to dispose of agricultural surpluses.

C. A. Norman of New Providence, Ia., declared farmers cannot economically feed 57 cent corn to hogs selling at $5 a hundred pounds. He suggested adjustments in the corn loan program under which farmers pledge their corn as security for government loans made at the rate of 57 cents a bushel.

Business Bits

Veterans of Chicago's milk industry met at a dinner last night at the Drake hotel to celebrate the completion of fifty years of service by Michael J. Metzger, one of the pioneers in the organization of urban milk supply. Mr. Metzger came to Chicago from Somerset, O., in 1899. During the earlier days he was connected with the Charles Creamery. When the concern was merged with Bowman Dairy company he joined the latter organization and today is vice president.

Michael J. Metzger.

The Amber Furniture company, a family owned, closed corporation since it was founded in 1872, announced yesterday that Max P. Masser, one of its officials, has purchased a block of company stock. Family ownership of the company, which operates five stores in the Chicago area, is held by the founders' sons.

TRUCKER WORK HOURS BOOSTED FOR YULE RUSH

Limit Is Increased to 18 Daily.

BY HAL FOUST.

Illinois truck drivers, beginning today and continuing until midnight Saturday, will be permitted to put in a maximum of 16 consecutive hours at the wheel and a maximum of 18 hours of work in one day. The order was issued yesterday by F. Lynden Smith, director of public works, as administrator of the truck regulatory law enacted this year by the legislature.

The law, as a safety measure, limits drivers to 12 hours' duty at the wheel and to 15 hours of work in one working day. The statute, however, permits the administrator to alter the limits in periods of emergency or unusual demand for service. Yesterday's order was issued because of the heavy holiday business.

Regulates Intrastate Trucking.

The statute regulates all intrastate trucking. For-hire carriers under the Interstate Commerce commission are limited to 10 hours of continuous driving and are permitted no more than two additional hours when delayed by unforeseen weather, traffic, or road conditions. They are permitted to work more than 12 hours only when providing relief in disasters.

According to the National Safety council, exhaustion and drowsiness at the wheel account for "one common type of automobile accident which is more likely than almost any other to result in fire, a death, or in crippling injuries."

730 Deaths Cited.

The council reported that in one year accidents resulting in 730 deaths and 4,700 injuries were caused by drivers falling asleep. The study also showed that altho trucks compose only one-eighth of the registered vehicles, one out of every three sleeping drivers was a truck driver.

Smith also announced the appointment of two assistants for administering the Illinois truck law. Lewis M. Long of Sandwich, De Kalb county, a former Democratic congressman-at-large, will supervise a Chicago office with the assistance of E. M. Long.

WHEAT SURGES AHEAD ON NEW WAVE OF BUYING

Rise Is One of Sharpest in Market History.

ture advanced from 73⅝ cents on June 4 to a high of 92 cents on June 26. By July 17, 1933, the price had soared to $1.20¼, but on July 21, the market collapsed and the future contract declined to 90 cents.

Inflation talk, a record breaking fall drouth, and a partial crop failure in Argentina furnish the background for the heavy buying of wheat futures recently.

Farmers Benefit by Advance.

Farmers have benefited to the extent of more than $50,000,000 as the result of the big upturn in wheat prices during the last three weeks. In addition to the profit which has accrued on their holdings of 164,000,000 bushels pledged as security for government loans, Chicago statisticians estimate more than 100 million bushels of wheat are being held by farmers that was harvested last summer.

Prices of soy beans for December and May delivery have practically doubled since last August despite a record crop having been harvested last summer. A sale of a 1,000 bushel lot of soy beans for May delivery sold yesterday at $1.31, or ½ cent above the closing price on 5,000 bushel lots.

Record Soy Bean Trading.

Trading in soy beans recently has been the largest on record. Sales of bean futures on Saturday were 1,450,000 bushels. Curtailment of shipments from Manchuria, due to a scarcity of ocean freight room, is reported to have diverted the European demand to the United States. It was estimated more than 10 million bushels have been sold for export so far this season.

Memberships on the Chicago Board of Trade have been in active demand in the last few weeks as the result of the largest volume of speculative trading in several years. A membership sold yesterday at $2,000, an advance of $850 in about three weeks.

RESTORE TARIFF CUTS ON CUBAN SUGAR, TOBACCO

Some Concessions Given on American Exports.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18 (AP).—Secretary Hull and Cuban Ambassador Martinez Fraga signed a supplementary trade agreement today restoring tariff reductions on sugar and tobacco imports from Cuba in exchange for Cuban concessions on American exports.

"The new agreement is limited in scope," the state department said. "Its primary purpose is to restore a more balanced reciprocal character to the agreement signed in 1934 in the light of developments which have occurred since then.

"It includes provisions for the restoration of concessions on Cuban cigars and cigar tobacco imported into the United States to replace the tobacco concessions originally provided in the trade agreement of 1934, but which terminated in March, 1936.

Restore Old Sugar Rates.

"With respect to sugar, provision is made for the restoration of the trade agreement rate of 90 cents per 100 pounds on Cuban sugar if public notice is given of termination of the suspension of the quota provisions of the sugar act as proclaimed by the President on Sept. 11, 1939."

Mr. Roosevelt suspended the quotas when the price of sugar rose sharply following the outbreak of the European war. Thereupon, Cuban sugar, then paying 90 cents for 100 pounds, had to pay the former tariff of $1.50 per 100. The supplementary agreement restores the previous rate the moment the President restores the quotas.

In an exchange of letters with Secretary Hull, the Cuban ambassador expressed Cuba's intention of considering improved tariff treatment for American rice so long as the United States quota on sugar imports is not altered to Cuba's disadvantage.

Cuts Granted this Country.

Cuba granted the United States tariff reductions on peanut butter, canned salmon, and mohair fabrics mixed with cotton or rayon and modified eight concessions which Cuba granted in the 1934 agreement.

The new agreement sets an upper limit of 22,000,000 pounds of cigar filler and scrap tobacco on which the reductions will apply. This is approximately 18 per cent of the average amount of tobacco used annually in manufacturing cigars in the United States.

The agreement guarantees to hold at the present rate the duty of $2 per proof gallon now applicable to Cuban rum.

NO. 1 IN NICKEL.

At the outbreak of hostilities between soviet Russia and Finland I read that International Nickel company had some property in Finland. How extensive are these interests? What does the company produce besides nickel? Have operations been profitable?—C. J.

Answer: Dominating the nickel market, the International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., produces about 85 per cent of the total world output of the metal. The company also ranks among the four leading copper producers, and is the largest producer of platinum metals. By-products include gold, silver, iridium, palladium, and other rare metals.

Operations of the company are mainly mining, smelting and refining nickel and copper ore. About half of the nickel is sold to the steel industry for the fabrication of alloys used in the automotive, electrical and machinery industries. The company manufactures its own nickel and nickel alloy products under the trade name, "Monel metal."

The bulk of the company's ore reserves is located in the Frood mine of northern Ontario, Canada. Nickel-copper deposits were being developed at the Kaulatunturi mine in Finland at the outbreak of the war with Russia.

The extent of ore deposits on these properties has not been revealed. Finnish properties had been scheduled to start production in 1940.

Capitalization of the company consists of 276,278 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 14,584,025 shares of no par common stock. There is no funded debt.

Because of the firm's dominant position in the world nickel market it has been able to maintain a fairly stable price for that metal. The price swings of copper and the precious metals, however, are erratic and beyond the control of the company. Thus the estimated one-fourth of total revenues derived from copper sales and another one-fourth from precious metals are subject to marked fluctuations. This is indicated by the earnings.

Consolidated net income of the company and its subsidiaries, earnings and dividends per common share in recent years [in United States currency] follow:

	Net income.	Earned a share.	Div. a share.
1934	$18,487,000
1935	26,087,000	$1.14	$0.50
1936	36,866,000	1.66	0.75
1937	50,300,000	2.40	1.30
1938	32,399,000	3.32	2.25
		2.09	2.00

Net income in the first nine months this year rose to $26,585,000 or $1.72 a share from $24,284,000 or $1.56 a share in the corresponding period of 1938.
